BUFFALO RIOTS.

The Railway Yards of the Erie and Lehigh Valley are Under Martial Law.

Troops Have Been Called Out to Aid the Sheriff in Guarding Property.

Narrow Escape From a Conflict Between Militia and a Mob at Homestead.

Three Thousand Men, Women and Children Tried to Assault Non-Union Workers.

BUFFALO, Aug. 16.—The Sixty-fifth and Seventy-fourth regiments were called out last night to quiet the riotous switchmen. It was nearly 3 o'clock this morning when the regiments of militia reached the city and they at once proceeded to the Erie and Lehigh yards, beyond East Buffalo. Then they filed out of the trains and were formed in skirmish lines along the tracks. Here and there a body of strikers or sympathizers could be seen, but they kept quiet, awed, no doubt, by the appearance of the troops. The early hours of the morning wore away without any disturbance.

The track on both sides of the line for half a mile was guarded by soldiers, while the balance of the soldiers were in camp with stacked rifles ready for any emergency. The situation this morning has a decided serious look. The militia is in control of the yards of the roads.
The strikers have been drinking and are as ugly as any body of men can be.
They say that they will not permit any of the men who have been brought here by the Reading to go to work, and that if any attempt is made to put them in the yards they will kill them.

When the new men are put to work, which will probably be today, they will be under the protection of the militia, and they will work under cover of the rifles and the bayonets. Sheriff Beck has assured the railroads that they will have all the protection he can give them.
The New York Central authorities this morning notified the sheriff that a strike was expected in their yards and requesting protection. Up to noon, however, the Central switchmen had not been called out, and trains were running as usual.

The strike assumed a threatening appearance again this morning at 11 o'clock and matters looked very threatening at East Buffalo. The strikers are concentrating at Williams street and the regiments are being brought together near that point to move on them. A detachment has been sent for to go to the Tift farm and has gone on a double quick. An engine and two cars are waiting in the Erie station at Williams street to take a car of switchmen to the yards to go to work. It is expected that there will be serious trouble when they arrive in the yards. Most of the men are Reading men brought here yesterday. The yards are under martial law.
Very few trains are moving, and neither the Erie nor the Lehigh road appears to have men enough to keep the tracks clear of freight cars. The Seventy-fourth regiment is at the Williams street yards and the Sixty-fifth has gone half a mile further down the tracks. The brigade headquarters have been established on Williams street, and here Gen. Doyle directs the movements of the troops.
Two car loads of out-of-town workmen arrived over the Lehigh tracks at noon and have been switched off somewhere between the yards and the city. The men who were expected from the Erie station have also been switched off and are awaiting orders.

Three of the soldiers of the Sixty-fifth regiment were slightly injured this morning by the explosion of torpedoes placed on the tracks by the strikers.
There were 120 torpedoes in all, of 200 torpedoes placed along the tracks. The soldiers were guarding a freight which was being moved. It exploded the torpedoes and the splinters struck Sergt.
Ebers and two men in the legs. Dr.
Grego picked the pieces out and the men are on duty again.

It is reported that Reading special agents are recruiting men for Buffalo throughout the entire length of the road.
Over 250 are said to have already been secured. The Reading road, it is said, has decided to call upon all employees of the Lehigh valley division not already out on a strike, and ask their intentions.
If they appear to be wavering or weak in their loyalty to the road, discharge will at once result.

ALMOST A BATTLE.
Nearly a Conflict Between Militia and a Mob at Homestead.
HOMESTEAD, Pa., Aug. 16.—A conflict between the militia and a crowd of fully 3,000 men, women and children was narrowly avoided in Homestead this morning. That there was not a battle which would certainly have resulted in a terrible loss of life is due solely to the prompt action of the provost marshal, Maj. Crawford, the coolness of the men under his command, the timely appearance of several Homestead policemen and the efficient work of the deputy sheriffs.

About 9 o'clock Constable Gingham arrested Frank Tracey, a laborer in the mill on a charge of larceny preferred by a fellow non-unionist. Four non-union men were subpoenaed as witnesses. The aldermen decided to hold Tracey, and ordered him taken to Pittsburgh jail. The constable took his prisoner out the back way. The four witnesses went out on the Eighth avenue in charge of one or two deputy sheriffs, and were at once surrounded by a howling mob. The non-unionists walked along, maintaining silence. Cries of "Lynch the scabs," "Kill the black sheep," "Take them to the river," were heard.

A hundred yards up the street a dozen strikers ran to the front, picked up stones and hastened toward the four defenseless men. A big fellow at the head of the latter, seeing that things were growing serious, said: "You cowards can go to it. We are not going to run.
Now do your worst." This display of nerve caused the mob to fall back a short distance, whereupon the employees of the Carnegie company started toward the mill again. By this time about 200 women had joined the ranks of the strikers, urging the male portion of the crowd to make short work of the "scabs."

Maj. Crawford, learning of the situation, soon had thirty men with bayonets fixed going towards the crowd, which was now armed with stones and clubs, closing in upon the non-unionists. The militia drew up in company front across the street with guns cocked. Someone shouted: "Don't let a little handful of pale-faced boys stop us. Let us teach these scabs a lesson." The soldiers stood their ground with fingers on hammers of their guns.

Maj. Crawford and a deputy sheriff ordered the crowd to disperse, but the order was disregarded. Then a signal was given and a company from the Sixteenth regiment came down the highway on the double quick and was also drawn up across the street. Ex-Sheriff Gray, with an additional force of deputies,
then arrived. Turning to Mr. Gray, Maj.
Crawford, after striking a striker across the back with his sword, asked: "Do you want us to disperse this crowd?" "I do," was the reply, whereupon Maj. Crawford turned to his men and was about to give the command to charge, when Policeman Gessner with a squad of officers came up and ordered the street cleared.

The crowd with sullen faces and profane remarks began to fall back. For half an hour the uneasy feeling prevailed.
Finally, the policemen and deputy sheriffs succeeded in restoring order and the militia returned to camp and the non-union workmen were escorted to the mill.

Attractive as Ever.
The crowds at the pavilion at the top of the Seventh avenue incline continue to be very large. The concert building has been gilded in with movable sash and a number of other comfortable features have been added. The Duluth City band keeps up its reputation for furnishing new and good music and the restaurant men have an abundance of the best class of refreshments at low prices. It is quite the thing to spend the afternoon and evening there, taking a lunch in the cafe between the concerts.

Twenty-One Miles Lat.
Timothy Foley says that up to today twenty-one miles of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad is ironed and the grading is all done. Some of the bridge work is delayed, but it is calculated that by Sept. 15 the line will be finished.

MINERS REPULSED.

An Attack by Tennessee Miners Upon the Oliver Springs Stockade Was a Failure.

Two Guards Were Wounded and a Second Attack Expected at Any Time.

Rumor That Briceville Was Attacked
Last Night and the Miners Driven Back.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 16.—It was reported at an early hour this morning, that an armed mob had been formed at Coal Creek, whose destination was Oliver Springs. There are about 150 convicts there, with only a handful of guards to protect them. The miners at Coal Creek did but little work yesterday, only ten cars of coal coming in, when the usual number is nearly one hundred.
Maj. Chandler has received orders to hold his men under arms, and sixty-five are ready to move at a moment's notice.

An Attack Expected.
NARRIMAN, Tenn., Aug. 16.—Information just received is that the guards are still holding Big Mountain, the contract camp near Oliver Springs. The miners have completely surrounded the stockade and an attack is momentarily expected. Telephone communication between Oliver Springs and the mines is still intact, but the excitement is so great there that little intelligent information of the situation can be obtained. A report prevails that there was an attack made at Briceville last night. It is said that the miners were repulsed by the guards.

The Miners Repulsed.
NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 16.—The miners have attacked the stockade at Oliver Springs, and were repulsed. Two guards were fatally wounded, and eight miners were shot. A second attack is looked for at any time.

SCENES OF HORROR.
A Frightful Storm Adds to the Cholera Misery in Russia.

St. PETERSBURG, Aug. 16.—The horrors of a frightful storm have been added to the misery and suffering caused by the cholera at Nijni Novgorod. The storm was one of the most frightful that has ever visited this region. It came sweeping over the town with a force and fury that many buildings were unable to resist.

The cholera hospital was full of patients, many of them in a dying condition. As they heard the roar of the hurricane, some of them died of fright.
The terrible noise of the approaching storm was soon followed by the storm itself, which crashed in a large part of the cholera hospital like an egg shell, hurled the beds and wooden walls into a mass of ruin.

From the debris came the shrieks and groans of the victims. A number of them died while the work of rescue was going on. Other buildings were also crushed, and the tents of the traders, who had remained notwithstanding the cholera, were scattered with their contents, in all directions. The wretched poor of Novgorod have had all the courage driven out of them by this latest visitation, and many of the superstitious declared that the Almighty had determined to destroy the city on account of the wickedness of the people.

Those who could fly have deserted the place, while the people who remain can be seen in crowds at the shrines and in the churches, praying for the mercy of heaven.

STRUNG UP BY A MOB.
Lynchings of a 17-Year-Old Desperado in Kentucky.

WINCHESTER, Ky., Aug. 16.—Logan Murphy, the 17-year-old desperado, was taken from jail early this morning by a mob. At last accounts the party was heading for Mount Sterling, and it is safe to say that the youthful murderer has been strung up by his time. He began piteously for his life, while being dragged from his cell.

He killed his father in cold blood, was arrested, tried and sentenced to be hanged, but was given a new trial.
While waiting for this he was confined in the Mount Sterling jail. Even here his murderous methods were continued.
Shortly after his incarceration he slashed a fellow prisoner with a knife, made of an iron hook.

Last week he quarreled with another prisoner, named Archie Steele, and stabbed him to death with a knife, which he said was given to him by another prisoner. The feeling against the boy murderer was so strong that it was decided to bring him here for safe keeping.

An Interesting Case.
The interesting case of Joseph Navvieu vs. Wm. Rock was commenced in the U. S. Land office this morning. It will be a long fight and a very bitter one. William Rock has obtained a patent to certain lands in 59-15 and Vavvieu alleges the patent was obtained through fraudulent representations to the government officers. There is quite an array of counsel, Persons & McDonald appearing for the contestant, with F. B. Chew and R. N. Marble as counsel. N. B. Thayer is attorney for the contestant and transferee, but he has not made known who his associates later on will be. The land has been transferred since the issuance of the patent and there are some very knotty points of land law at stake.

All $18, $20, $22, $24 and $25 suits go

Ella Wheeler Wilcox's Life and Her Enjoyment of the Melodies of Existence.

An Interesting and Clever Estimate of the Complex Character of the Poetess.

She is a Born Theosophist and Believes in Her Own Good Luck.

The ease with which she lives is perhaps the most interesting feature of Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox's life. Like a speck of light in a ray, a duck in a shower, a petted child in a well managed family, she flits, dips and dances through life, unburdened by environment. It is not that she shirks blows of fate. In time of real trouble no one is better able to grapple with the lions of difficulty than the poetess, but she is born without the power to anticipate harm or evil. Kept to happiness, it requires the coarsest of some disagreeable chord to attract her attention from the sweet melodies of existence.

She never sees obstacles arise in the path of accomplishment. Risky and venturesome, her mind concentrates itself upon the end, and the intermediate drops into parenthesis. She never imagines that messages may miscarry; that expected people or checks will not come; that the weather may be unfit for the picnic. She never calculates "what if" but takes for granted the desirable and "grapples" only when interference really comes. It is not the result of philosophy; it is her nature. This leaves her an immense fund of vitality and animal spirits, and is by herself said to be the cause of her extremely youthful appearance.

She firmly believes herself cared for by guardian spirits, and truly it would seem as if she were. Her plans are seldom thwarted; things seldom go wrong. Upon the fingers of one hand she could count the things in her life for which she has earnestly desired that have not come to pass. "Just my luck" is a common expression of hers; "Just your luck, Ella," as common with her friends. She is wilful, thin and humble in spirit. She believes unselfishly to be the proprietor of these good angels. "When ever I seek for myself they leave me," she says; "I can feel their support so long as I do and plan for the good of others." Certainly "good luck" or its equivalent in some more scientific term is with Ella Wheeler Wilcox eight times in ten. The most careful calculation cannot score a better record.

She never broods or reflects on past misfortune or disappointment. Indeed, her friends say she does not dwell long enough upon pleasure to get the good out of it. Her mind is like a bow, tense always for the next arrow's flight. Her mentality has an abnormal capacity for reaching forward—going on, building up, accomplishing, getting into new molds, finding new worlds to conquer. Events drop out as soon as happened—not out of memory, for she has a remarkable faculty of recalling the right thing at the right time, but like knitting or weaving, each row of stitches is dropped off the needles as soon as made, not to be lost, but to go into the woof of action.

She will not fuss with a perplexity hunt for a lost article, undo or do over for the sake of possible improvement, no matter how easy the improvement may appear. She acts with a sharp, quick, clear insight, and direct force. That done, "Let it go," "It will come," "Can't waste time." Package, poem or seam must stand as it has come. Well for her that she has a clear intuition to steer clear of the rocks in this current! Well for her that she had a natural ear for poetic rhythm; she never would have acquired it.

Here is a nature of reserve forces. Womanly to a degree, with all of the weaknesses of the sex, beyond a certain limit she is fitted to guide and direct both preacher and philosopher. Coquettish and fascinating, a dangerous girlhood was passed safely through unguarded. Open handed and free with money, and with a passion for purchase, her obligation record is straight as that of the most able and honorable financier. She will not owe a postage stamp or overrun an allowance one dollar.

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.
With an abnormal love for society, she has never been known to neglect a duty for a pleasure. Her strong love of dress never descends to silliness or vanity or cruelty to caterers. Her desire for beauty leads to care and preservation of self and others, not to complacent selfishness. Inexplicable of systematic method or plan for its achievement, she maintains an absolute daintiness, cleanliness and fitness of arrangement in her surroundings of household, wardrobe and literature. Careless and level headed, mild and prudent, poetical and practical, cal, imaginative and strictly truthful, frank but never rude, a more satisfactory friend does not exist.

It is impossible for her to reason or to accept conclusions based on logic. She sees or not as it happens, and is positive of the fact arrived at and slow to perceive how one may see differently. "I think that is why I am so superstitious," she says. "My guardian spirits saw that I never could learn by the big, heavy ways, so gave me the easy, pleasant ones by which to develop and see truth." "I have a superstition for every day in the week," she says. She leans strongly to the occult by nature, is a born Theosophist. In her poems written at fifteen and seventeen years, are many truths now being scientifically taught by leaders of the new religion. The knowledge is wholly intuitive, however. After a visit to a meeting of advanced Theosophists she said, "They sounded like gibbering idiots."

In daily life the practical and humorous are uppermost in her nature. All the romance and sentiment go into her poetry. "Habits" she has none. She likes late hours for rising in the city, but at the shore she rises at 6 or 7. She writes, swims, visits, sails, entertains, walks and rides, but never lolls through the waking hours. Her writing may be disturbed by man, woman, child, dog or cat, and continued at will. "I do everything else first," she says; "I know that I will write anyway." Really her writing is but a parenthesis of her resourceful life. She believes in regular meals as the basis of all sensible thought and action. She drinks quarts of clover tea and ascribes strength, flesh and color to its use.

She never reflects or ponders about doing things; she thinks and acts at once. She never dawdles and seldom rests. "Not a bit tired," she will say when urged to lie down after some heavy duty or shopping expedition. "I could move pyramids today!" is written under date of July 24 from "The Bungalow." She is at her best in the greatest heat of summer.

While accepting germs for poems from all sources, she cannot endure suggestion as to their carrying out. She suffers under bad rhythm, but loves good comic verse and above all a good parody.

She is devoted to physical culture. Dancing is a passion, and she is more proud of her grace and skill in it than of her poetic gift. The cat is her favorite animal. She believes that she was one in a former incarnation. She has its grace and lovable caprice.

THE BUNGALOW.
[Mrs. Wilcox's summer home at Short Beach, Conn.]

She makes a splendid president of the comfort of her home. She loves to direct, hates to do, although she has become proficient in housekeeping details that her husband's comports may not suffer through change. She cares not a cent for credit of accomplishment so long as all are comfortable and happy. Desire for credit is the bane of almost every well managed household. The poetess has not a trace of it. She arranges her menus a week ahead. She never makes a note and seldom forgets. She answers correspondence immediately on receipt. "If I don't never do," she says; "they get buried." She is very respectful to strangers, loyal to old friends and filial to a marked degree. She never misses her annual visit to her aged mother in Wisconsin, no matter for the sacrifice of advantage the autumn trip may cost.

The strong points of her character are intense love for her husband, which is almost more than human; loyalty to relatives and friends, directness and integrity of character, good humor, haste. Her philosophy is love, her practice a smile and an open hand. She believes in death as but a change of existence. She believes herself to be the happiest woman in existence. Her thought is punctuated by prayers for the continuance of the present and gratitude for her blessings.

MAY ROBERTS.

Women as Breadwinners.
Some time ago Helen Campbell, in an article in The Arena, said: "The pale, anemic, undeveloped factory girls of today, swarming in factory and shop, are the mothers of a large part of the coming generation, defrauded before birth of all the elements that make strong bodies and teachable souls. It is not alone the present with which we deal. Out of the future comes demand as a stant, and justice today bears its fruit in larger life for other days to come."

In view of the manifest truth of the foregoing statements, it seems strange that so many of the most generous souls of earth should have such erroneous ideas as to the remedy for the evil existing. Widening the sphere of woman's and increasing the number of vocations for her can scarcely be considered the best way to create in her children "the elements that make strong bodies and teachable souls."

It simply means a still greater number of "pale, anemic and undeveloped girls." It means fewer of the good old fashioned kind that they once made mothers of, and that we now sometimes see playing with their grandchildren.

Kate Field's Washington not long since said: "I do not believe that a woman under any circumstances should have to earn her own living; and further, the modern idea that it is a suitable or even praiseworthy thing for her to do so is bad political economy, bad morals and bad sociology."

One or two of the newspapers of the day, particularly the Boston Budget, have attacked "the poetess" with ridicule and sarcasm.

ronous idea of wasting life by spending it in earning a living." The fact that there are 20,000 husbands in Chicago supported by their wives and that there are over 100,000 self supporting women in New York city changes The Budget's remark about "wasting life" from a piece of sarcasm to a touch of the deepest pathos.

REBECCA BEAMAN.

PARIS FASHIONS.
The Watteau and Empire Styles Will Be Conspicuous This Fall.

The outlook for fall fashions shows many picture effects which have been taken from old paintings, and particularly the Watteau and the Empire.

The Watteau is shown principally in the don't-plats that are to be seen in the new wraps on the backs of the princess gowns and in the trained skirts, which have a deep plait double box which reaches a point in the center.

Nearly all new skirts which are intended for house wear have a decided point in the middle of the back. The trimming is scant but very neat, consisting mainly of very narrow ruffling, plaiting or rose plaiting or reversed plaiting. A few flounces of lace are seen, but they will be of real lace in black or white. Light

Empire style silks have self flounces headed by very narrow ruffles of some other color, or with the upper edge bound with color. A black pongee was bound with pale blue and the revers were similarly trimmed.

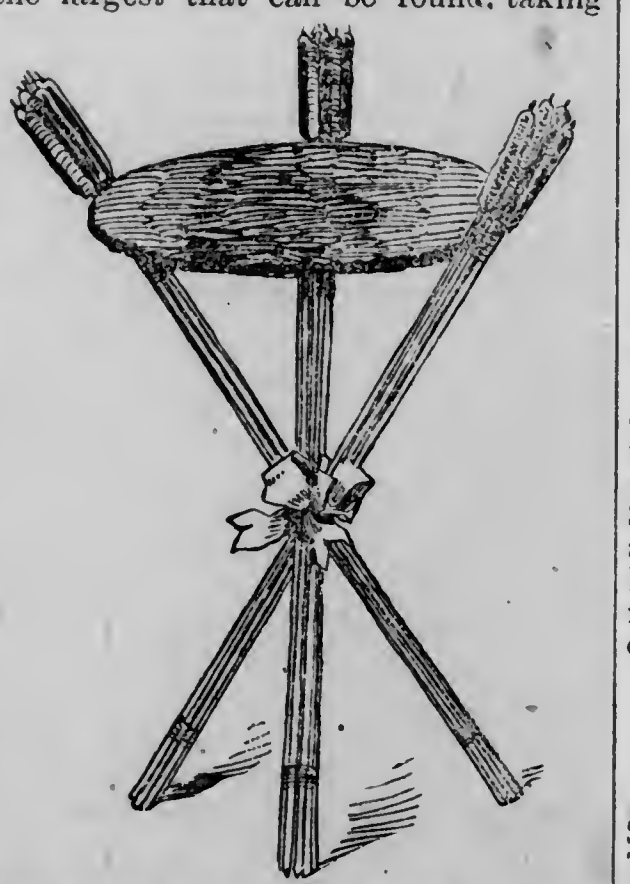

The Josephine gowns are very pretty and picturesque, though quite simple in everything, and something that sends one's thoughts back to the days of the glory of France is seen in every one, but if you search to know exactly what it is it eludes you, but the effect is there all the same.

A dress of this style made for a lovely young bride is of dark chocolate brown (which by the way is to be a favorite color), with pascies scattered over the surface in natural size and color. The waist is gathered plain in the back and in front are double revers bordered with guip. There is a full vest of crepe de chine in cream. The revers and sachet are of most green. The proper hat to go with this is a sort of magnificent gypsy, with moss green ribbon and velvet pascies.

For fall street wear the Russian cloths and velvet du Nord, which is not velvet at all, but a sort of rep wool, will probably be the favorite for those who like the quiet styles there are the standard wools in new and very beautiful designs, with a great deal of warm browns merging into and mingled with yellow. I notice more than ever of the changeable effects, and now they are found in woolen goods as well as silks.

How to Make a Cattle Table.

The "cattle" called, lends itself to household decoration more effectively than almost any other vegetation of this climate. Among the pretty ornaments that may be made of cattails is a table. Cut about eighteen or twenty-four of the largest that can be found, taking care to get the longest stems possible. Tie them into three wands and tie these wands together in the middle. Spread them so that the tops and bottoms will be equidistant. Have a small disk of extra stout pasteboard covered with plush and sew it firmly to each of the three wands just below the heads of the cattails. Make the center fastening very secure. Decorate with ribbons.

SHOT A CRIMINAL.

The Deed of a Prominent Attorney in Iowa.

LEON, Ia., Aug. 16.—William F. Ellis was shot and instantly killed by E. W. Curry Saturday night. Ellis had served a term in the penitentiary and had threatened the lives of several men of this city.

Saturday Ellis arrived here and hunting up Curry informed him and others he had come back to kill him. Curry, believing his life in danger, drew his revolver and fired four shots, one of which killed Ellis instantly. Curry is one of the most prominent attorneys of Southern Iowa, and a member of the state Democratic central committee.

Some New French-English Words.

The recent race week in Paris has, as usual, according to an exchange, added a few new and original terms to the language of the country. Last year the addition was the "yachting club," and for the color of the week "hockstards soap." This year we have, first of all, the "cursing club," and for the luncheon basket the indispensable "bolster salad."

A MAN'S DEVOTION.

How A. W. Jewell, of San Diego, Stuck to His Friends Even in Death.

Man's Devotion to Man Seldom Carried to the Extreme in This Case.

A Story Which Reveals an Incredible Amount of Great Suffering and Privation.

Man's devotion to man is seldom carried out to the extreme to which A. W. Jewell, of San Diego, Cal., followed it. A prospector, early consisting of S. I. Breedlove, his son, C. W. Breedlove, and a Pennsylvania capitalist named Fish set out from San Diego on June 4 for the desert wastes of the Colorado mountains, in Baja California, where they had heard there were rich mines of fabulous richness. A little more than a month later A. W. Jewell, a friend of the men, who was also interested in the venture, fearing that they had succumbed to the terrible heat, set out to search for them. He found enough to confirm his fears. He went to Campo for aid, and then came the news that the desiccated bodies of Fish and the elder Breedlove had been found in a desolate gorge. The younger Breedlove's body was not with the others. Evidently he had wandered farther to meet the same dread specter of the desert.

Jewell determined to rescue the bodies of his friends. On leaving Campo for San Diego he instructed Messrs. Drake and Adams to await his return. When he returned to Campo he was greatly surprised to learn that Drake and Adams had set out twelve hours before. Nothing daunted, Jewell secured a strong horse and rode out alone on the desert after his two assistants.

The story of the trip, as told by a San Francisco Examiner correspondent, reveals an incredible amount of suffering and privation. The rescuers followed the trail of the missing men to an old tank in the Laguna, where the abandoned wagon was found.

On the wagon was a diary belonging to Fish, the last entry being June 13, in which he said they had been searching for water three days, and at last found a little in the hole at the Palm Springs. The lost men had driven to the center of the Laguna, and finding no water had turned toward the Palm Springs. The water having given out, they had turned and made all possible haste toward an old tank which is often filled by the winter rains. The scarcity of rainfall the past season had left this tank empty.

They had now been at least four or five days without an adequate supply of water, and possibly for two days without any water at all. The nearest point where the precious fluid might be obtained was in the "dry wash," some thirty-five miles from where they were. They hastily slipped the harness from the mules and

S. I. and C. W. BREEDLOVE, leaving everything behind them took up their line of march across that pitiless waste of sand. On they toiled, their tongues swollen and parched and the merciless sun drying the very blood in their veins. At last exhausted nature could do no more, and after another day and a half, when only two miles from water, they succumbed, died their mules a little ironwood tree and laid down to rest on one side, then on the other, he toiled on for a mile. Then he threw away the can of meat; a quarter of a mile farther he threw away a portion of his clothing; 100 yards farther on his horse was found. Just ahead was a heap of sand to cross. He struggled to the top, started on, fell, staggered to his knees, crawled a few yards, fell again and died within less than three-quarters of a mile of the life saving fluid. As he pitched forward his canteen was thrown into a small bush, and from the position of his body he must have been reaching for it in one last desperate effort when death relieved him.

While Drake and Adams were gazing on his dried and shrunken body an emaciated figure, riding a horse whose eyes were bloodshot and whose tongue lolled out, joined them. It was Jewell, who had nearly perished in following the men who were employed by him to assist in bringing in the bodies of his friends.

Intermarriage Among the Indians.

The Indians are still dying around Anadarko, I. T., and about over the reservation like diseased sheep. Measles are the prime cause of so many deaths. By marrying strictly within the limits of their own tribe from time immemorial every member of each small tribe becomes of close blood kin to every other member, and rheumatism, consumption, scrofula and all manner of blood taint and inherent weakness are steadily transmitted in increasing volume from generation to generation until the wild Indian is now but little more than a physical wreck at his best.

An Unfailing Test of Death.

A French doctor asserts that an unfailing test of death may be made by producing a blister on the hand or foot by holding the flame of a candle to the same until the blister is formed. If the blister contains any fluid it is evidence of life; if, on the contrary, the blister contains only steam it may be asserted that life is extinct.

WASTED LABOR.

The Story of an Editorial That Was Never Printed.

CHAPTER I.

"There!" exclaimed Editor Shackelford, of the Perkins Junction Weekly Thunderbolt, leaning back in his chair, "if that doesn't settle their hash and drive the infamous hounds out of town there's no virtue in strong English."

Editor Shackelford had just written a vigorous article in regard to a traveling auction that had occupied a vacant room on the principal street of the town for three or four days and driven a rushing business, and he felt that he had roasted them in his best and most scientific style. His editorial was as follows:

"A peripatetic gang of bloodsuckers from nowhere in particular and carrying a lot of snide and worthless goods, obtaining no one knows how, has infested this community during the week and worked off a lot of cheap linens at more than double their value on the unsuspecting citizens of our town. These irresponsible fakirs, these mercenary vagabonds, these strolling auctioneers pay no taxes, contribute nothing to the support of Perkins Junction, have no interests here. If you with our people and deserve to be held as designing interlopers. Under a thin guise of friendliness they carry on a warfare against our best interests. They are public enemies, deserving of universal execration. Shut them as you would a pestilence, a viper, or the raging flames of perdition itself! Touch not a single article these impudent, tramping invaders have for sale. No man or woman who spends a cent at their miserable one horse auction is a good citizen. If you have any self respect, any public spirit, buy your goods of home merchants and let these cheap, characterless, despicable outsiders alone. If you have a drop of patriotic blood in your veins or any just sense of the duty you owe to yourself, your family and the community in which you live, keep away from these Peter Panks and do not defile your homes with any of the cheap, nasty, worthless 'goods'—heaven save the mark!—they are trying to unload on the good people of Perkins Junction."

"I think that will finish them," mused Editor Shackelford as he read it over.

CHAPTER II.

"Jacobs," said the editor as he put on his coat at 6 o'clock p. m. and locked his desk preparatory to starting for home, "is that article I wrote this morning about the auction gang in type?"

"Yes, sir," replied the foreman.

"Make it the leading article on the editorial page. When will you be ready to go to press?"

"Be ready in fifteen minutes. Going to work off the whole edition this evening. Got a big day's job work to do tomorrow."

CHAPTER III.

"Oh, Lycurgus!" exclaimed Mrs. Shackelford, as the editor of the Perkins Junction Weekly Thunderbolt entered his home fifteen minutes later, "I have something to show you!"

She took him into the spare room and pointed to a miscellaneous collection of things spread out on the bed.

"I was coming from down town this afternoon," she said joyously, "and as I passed the auction room I stepped in to see what they were selling. Did you ever see such a lovely counterpane? I got it for!"

"Amanda," said the editor in an awestruck voice, "I—wait a minute. You'd never guess what I paid for it. I got it for $3.75. And look at those tidies! They only cost me sixty-five cents! Then see that lot of paper and pencils. I got them for you, dear. Only a dollar. Think of it! Look at that beautiful afghan for the baby carriage, and these towels, and this lot of sewing machine needles, and the box of soap, and that half dozen plated spoons! I never saw things going so cheap. I got this whole lot for—what's the matter, Lycurgus? Where are you going?"

"I am going back, madam," said the editor with a weary look in his eye. "to the office of The Thunderbolt."

CHAPTER IV.

"Jacobs!"

"Yes, sir."

"Have you got the forms locked up?"

"Yes, sir."

"Unlock them and lift out that editorial about the cheap auction."

"Lift it out? What the Sam Hill have we got to put in its place?"

"Put in that patent medicine ad! Slap in that three dollar shoe electrotyp! Fill out the page with Lydia Pinkham! Run in anything!" yelled Editor Shackelford.

"Yes, sir," said the imperturbable Jacobs.

And thus it came to pass that the most trenchant editorial ever written in the office of The Thunderbolt was forever lost to the good people of Perkins Junction.

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Aug. 16.—An area of low barometer is central over Dakota, and is drawing up to the Northwest the warm air of the Southern states. No rain of any consequence has fallen, being confined to light showers at Calgary and Qu'Appelle, in the Northwest.The temperature continues to rise slowly in all sections except the extreme Northwest, where a cool wave is advancing slowly eastward.
The area of low pressure over Dakota will probably develop into a storm of some energy and pass to the north of here before tomorrow and will be followed by fair, cool weather.
The highest temperature here yesterday was 79°, the lowest last night 65°.DULUTH, Aug. 16.—Forecast till 8 p. m. tomorrow: Continued fair, followed by showers; slight change in temperature, followed by cooler by Thursday morning; wind shifting to southeasterly.B. H. BRONSON, tomorrow: For Wisconsin: Fair; warmer Wednesday morning in eastern portion;

Fair, preceded in northern portion by showers;
cooler; winds shifting to west.

RETRIBUTION INVITED.

The Canadian government, according to the most recent reports, has definitely decided not to make any change in the system of rebates on the Welland and the St. Lawrence canals during the present season. In other words, the Dominion authorities decline to remove the discrimination against American vessels complained of by this government and invite the application of the retaliatory measures which congress has placed within the power of the president.President Harrison is thus brought face to face with the necessity of taking action that will make the Canadian government feel that discrimination is not a very thing when it operates against you.
The Montreal Gazette, which is a government organ, and always voices the ideas of Premier Abbott on questions of public policy, is authority for the statement that no change will be made in the rebate system this season, and coming from such a source the statement may be regarded as correct. When you see anything in the Gazette about the government's intentions, you may conclude that it is so. Several days ago a report was published that the government had decided to abolish the rebate of 18c a ton on all grain shipped by the St. Lawrence canal to Montreal, and instead to resume the system of 20c on all grain passing through the Welland and St.
Lawrence canals, American and Canadian vessels to be treated alike, no matter whether bound to Canadian or American ports.This report created a little sensation among the Canadian grain shippers and caused many expressions of opinion which was evidently what the Canadian government was seeking. When the report was not verified by official notice to the American government, The Herald expressed a doubt as to the reliability. As anticipated the report was started by the Canadian authorities in order to sound the feelings of their own people, and the action now taken is undoubtedly due to a recent meeting of the grain men at Montreal, where the opinion was very generally entertained that it would be well if the existing system of rebates could be continued during the present season. The government has promptly seized upon this declaration as a reason for continuing the policy of discrimination against American vessels and American ports. Indeed, it is difficult to see how it could back down upon this question, when the fact is recalled that the people of Kingston have twice within the past year or so been asked to vote for Tory candidates on the ground that the government would discriminate in favor of that port as against Ogdensburg.The Canadian press, however, does not unilaterally support the government in the stand it has taken. Most of the Tory organs, of course, approve it, but there are many Liberal and Independent journals that acknowledge that the present toll system is unfair to American interests. Many are urging that the toll system be abolished altogether on the Canadian canals and thus the waterways from Lake Superior to the St. Lawrence be made free to all vessels. The Montreal Herald, which has compiled exhaustively the opinions of Canadian merchants on the situation, says: "If the government desire to remove the imputation of unfairness preferred against it by Americans, two courses are open. The first is the permitting of the transhipment of cargoes to Ogdensburg, a change which would be a positive benefit to Canada. The alternative is the freeing of the Welland canal, which would effectually dispose of the whole question."The Montreal Gazette said a week ago, in commenting upon the passage of the retaliation bill, that the Canadian party from total wreck, which wouldreprisals with reprisals. That is within our power. The Canadian government may impose a toll of $2 per ton on freight through the Welland canal between ports in the United States, which would yield a revenue of nearly $500,000 on the basis of the traffic in 1890, when 245,032 tons were so transported, but the serious or practical question arises would this course be profitable in the long run?
The United States can shut Canadian vessels out of Lake Michigan if it so chooses, for there is nothing to the contrary in the Washington treaty, and it may strike a blow at the railways of the Dominion by placing an embargo on transcontinental and interstate traffic through Canada."The Canadian authorities have therefore reached the decision not to abolish the discrimination, with a full knowledge of the probable consequences. They cannot plead now that this country is acting unfairly in meeting their discrimination by imposing tolls on Canadian vessels passing through the Soo canal.
Heretofore they have been permitted to freely use that great canal constructed by the United States at heavy expense, while at the same time American vessels have been compelled to pay tolls on passage through the Welland and St.
Lawrence canals. Canada has more to lose than has this country by the retaliatory measures which its course has invited.

ANARCHY MUST BE CRUSHED.

The lawless deeds of the striking switchmen at Buffalo call for strong condemnation. No defense whatever can be offered for their wanton and premeditated destruction of valuable property.
By these acts of violence, they have placed themselves in the same category as the anarchist who recently attempted to take the life of Mr. Frick at Pittsburg. They are not one whit better than the outlaws who perpetrated the terrible Haymarket massacre in Chicago. Men who will become incendiaries and burn and destroy the property of those with whom they disagree on a question of wages would not hesitate to assassinate the men whose property they have destroyed.The situation at Buffalo is one of anarchy, pure and simple. It is an outbreak of lawless and criminally disposed classes against law and order and good government. It is a direct attack upon the law abiding people of the country, and the stern hand of the law must be brought to bear in no hesitating manner upon those who are, thus guilty of disturbance of the peace and creating a carnivale of disorder and crime.If such crimes are allowed to go unpunished, if such dastardly deeds are permitted to be carried on with impunity, if law and order are thus allowed to be treated with contempt, and the principles of good government ruthlessly trampled in the dust, then we might just as well acknowledge that our system of government is wrong and must give way to some other system which will better preserve the lives and property of the people.The legal authorities at Buffalo have an important duty to perform. They should show these lawless miscreants that there are laws in this land that must be obeyed, and that order must be maintained even if it be necessary to place every switchman in the county behind the prison bars. The spirit of anarchism that seems to be spreading with alarming rapidity must be exterminated, or the results will be disastrous.The World's fair buildings will be dedicated on the 21st of October instead of the 12th, congress having passed a bill to that effect. October 21 is the exact anniversary of Columbus' landing, allowance being made for the correction
in the calendar made by Pope Gregory.
The change of the date of dedication was made in the interest of chronological accuracy, and also to oblige New York city, which will have a Columbian celebration on October 12.It is a curious fact that a majority of the white vote in Alabama was cast for Kolb, the Independent candidate for governor. Another curious fact is that the negro counties are alleged to have given heavy majorities for the Democratic candidates, majorities larger than the total vote cast in those counties at previous elections. By the way, what becomes now of the Democratic cry of "white supremacy" in the solid South?All is not peaceful yet in the Democratic ranks in New York according to today's dispatches. It was recently asserted with a show of pleasure that Cleveland and Tammany had arranged terms of peace and all bitter feelings had been laid aside. It appears, however, that this was all a mistake and that the Hill men and the "Anti-Snappers" are again sharpening their knives for use on November 8.Senator Peffer expresses a belief that the People's party will carry Kansas, Nevada, Colorado, Nebraska, Montana, Wyoming, the Dakotas, both Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi and possibly Texas. As the campaign is still young, the senator may claim New York before November.The New York World declares that sixteen Republican senators have come to the conclusion that President Harrison must be beaten to save the Republican party from total wreck, which wouldbe the result of four years more of his administration. This would be like cutting off a man's head to save his body from death.The latest name mentioned in connection with the majority of Minneapolis is that of William Henry Eustis. Mr.
Eustis' title to fame rests upon the fact that he was "kicked sixteen feet" in St.
Paul during the census troubles.Governor Buchanan, of Tennessee, has announced himself as an independent candidate for another term as governor.
His platform is not announced, but it will no doubt contain a plank extending protection to murderers.They are talking of towing a whale to Chicago by way of the St. Lawrence and the lakes. But how will the poor whale live in the poisonous water around Chicago?

A Strong Man.

Aitkin Age: Maj. M. R. Baldwin, of Duluth, was nominated by acclamation at the sixth district congressional convention, held at Brainerd last Tuesday.
No other name was presented, it being conceded on all sides that Duluth should be accorded the compliment of naming the next member of congress from this district. Maj. Baldwin is considered a strong man, and the probabilities point strongly to his success.

He is a Rustler.

Aberdeen, S. D., News: Maj. M. R.
Baldwin, of Duluth, Minn., an old timer of Columbia, this county, has received the Democratic nomination by acclamation in the new Sixth congressional district of Minnesota. The major is a rustler and will, if elected, make an excellent congressman.

Poor Pat.

Crookston Times: Pat Rahilly was struck by an Alliance nomination for state auditor in 1890, then he was struck by a desire to withdraw. At the late People's party state convention he was struck by ridicule that sent him from the platform, and now his barn has been struck by lightning. This is hard luck, indeed, for when heaven and earth combine against a politician the odds seem to be clearly against him.

AMUSEMENTS.

Cyril Roderic Tyler.
The Detroit Philharmonic club and Cyril Roderic Tyler will be at the Temple this evening and a musical treat of unusual excellence may be looked for. Cyril Roderic Tyler is 11 years old and is gifted with one of the most beautiful voices ever heard in the country. He is said to equal if not surpass Blatchford Kavanagh. To find in one so young the appreciation of the great masters is alone sufficiently remarkable. Added to this, however, is found a breadth of exquisite tone and delicacy of feeling in the interpretation of their works which are truly astounding in one so young.The Detroit Philharmonic club is composed of William Yunch, first violin; Louis F. Schultz, second violin; Walter Voightlander, violoncello. Herr Scharwenka, the great German pianist, says of the club:"It is the best quartet I have ever heard in this country, and it would be held in high esteem as an artistic organization at my home among the musicians at Berlin. Chamber music flourishes to a greater extent than in this land, and Detroit may well feel proud of such a musical adjunct."Berger-Dainty Company.
The Berger-Dainty Company, which appears at the Lyceum Thursday evening, is one of the finest organizations of its kind on the road. Anna Teresa Berger is known all over America and Europe as the finest lady cornetist living. Laura Dainty is one of the most capable readers and recitationists before the public. Leon Marx, the boy violinist, creates a furore wherever he goes and plays with remarkable smoothness and intelligence. Miss Kate Eloise Donahue, contralto, and Miss Evelyn Soddard, pianist, are also artists of more than ordinary merit.

Nothing may be more foreign to your

THE NEW PREMIER.

Mr. Gladstone Received a Very Warm and Cordial Reception From the Queen.He Received a Great Ovation at Different Points on His Return Trip.The News of the Interview Has Caused Much Satisfaction In the Country.LONDON, Aug. 16.—Contrary to the popular impression, but not to the impression of those who know best the feelings of her majesty, Mr. Gladstone had a warm reception at Osborne. Although Queen Victoria does not like Mr.
Gladstone's politics, she has the respect of a veteran for a veteran, and is known to be grateful to Mr. Gladstone for his tact and skill with which he has often intervened to protect the royal family from radical assaults in parliament.
Her majesty talked with Mr. Gladstone for half an hour in private, but nothing has been revealed.This attitude toward the Liberal leader is commented on cynically by Kerr Hardie and others of his stamp, who seem to think that Mr. Gladstone should have forgotten that he was a gentleman and the queen a lady. The conversation between Mr. Gladstone and the queen took place in the royal drawing room with no one present but themselves.Mr. Gladstone left Osborne on his return at 10 o'clock this morning. A great throng of spectators was assembled and they cheered the new premier over and over again, it being noticeable that the members of the royal household were just as demonstrative as the rest of the people. Yesterday they were a little reserved, but the news of Mr. Gladstone's favorable reception has got abroad and the dependents of royalty took their cue from the queen. At Southampton it seemed as if the whole city had poured out to meet Mr. Gladstone, and as the royal yacht approached carrying him to the landing place the cheers of the people were audible far out on the waves.Mr. Gladstone, his face beaming with satisfaction, bowed repeatedly to the people who rent the air with their shouts and hurrahs. It was evident to everybody, from the appearance of the former, that his interview with the queen had been satisfactory. On his way back to London, Mr. Gladstone received an other great ovation at Basingstoke. The crowd was different at Southampton.
They were mostly country people assembled from far and near on the news that Mr. Gladstone had passed the day before and was on his way back today.It was a peculiar gathering, including substantial farmers in broadcloth, ordinary workmen and yokels in their yellow frocks. There was a noble absence of the squire, the most conservative element and still bitterly antagonistic as a rule to the Liberal leader. The agricultural laborers cheered heartily and struggled to get a glimpse of the man who had given them the right to vote, and to whom they now looked for some share in the acres they and their ancestors had cultivated.Mr. Gladstone graciously recognized the popular enthusiasm and devotion and at Waterloo station the Londoners were out in force to greet the new premier, and he was cordially cheered as he made his way from the train to his carriage.
Mr. Gladstone will make known tonight the names of the new ministry.The news of the interview between her majesty and Gladstone has caused much satisfaction in the country and the financiers are getting over their demoralization. The general impression is that Mr. Gladstone has satisfied her majesty that the interests of the empire will be vigorously preserved and protected, and there will be no weakening in the reins of Great Britain's government so far as the defense and integrity of the empire is concerned.

FAMILY FEUD RE-OPENED.

A Lively Encounter at a Sunday School Picnic.
PORTSMOUTH, O., Aug. 16.—A Kentucky family feud, which has existed for some time between the Mussers and Harmans, was re-opened at a Sunday school picnic on Schultz creek on Sunday.Frank Musser spoke to Harman with the intention of smoothing the old quarrel over. Harman drew a knife and gashed Musser twice. They were separated and Harman started to walk away. Turning around he saw that Musser had drawn two navy revolvers and made for him with his knife. He was shot in the wrist and groin and dangerously wounded. Musser has not yet been captured.

Stoned to Death.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 16.—Mrs. Mattie Looney, 50 years old, was murdered in Cobb county, a mile beyond Marietta, on Sunday. Her body was terribly mutilated and it is believed that she was de-coyed from her home and stoned to death. Will Ellis, a young man of 30, who has been living with her, has disappeared and cannot be found. The woman has willed him her entire property.

Quarrel Over Politics.

ANNISTON, Ala., Aug. 16.—Tom Haines and John Haines, cousins, each about 13 years old, quarrelled over politics yesterday and Tom was fatally cut.

Ruined by Hail.

FARGO, N. D., Aug. 16.—A careful survey of the ground swept by hail on Friday in the vicinity of Argusville and Gardner shows the probable loss to be 750,000 bushels, over 50,000 acres being a total loss.

City Engineer Reid Goes Over the Proposed Line of the North Eastern Road.

Reports That No Work Has Been Done on the Streets Given by the City.

The Matter Goes Over to Next Week When the Franchise Will be Amended.

Ald. Long has not been idle since the council meeting of a week ago when a resolution offered by Ald. Thomas declaring the Duluth & Northeastern Railway and Terminal company's franchise forfeited did not reach a vote. At last week's meeting he announced that since the question came up as to whether the company had done any actual work in the streets granted it by the council within the time required, the city engineer at his request had gone over all the streets and alleys upon which privileges had been granted. He then read a letter from the engineer in regard to the work done. This stated that no work had been done recently on any of the streets or alleys covered by the franchise. On Minnesota Point, in the unplatted portion 500 or 600 feet of grading has been done on the lake side, probably at an expense of $300 or $400. Alderman Long, in discussing the matter, said that it was his intention to offer an amendment to the ordinance, one which Mr. Sargent had agreed to and he asked that the matter be referred to the railroad committee, to be reported on next Monday evening. This amendment provides for giving the company the N. of Railroad alley and Railroad street and the N. of Water, Park and Jefferson streets.

About this time Alderman Thomas got on to his feet. He said that he understood from the engineer's letter that no work had been done which would entitle the company to hold its franchise. He then declared that he did not believe there was a member of the council but would swear that in the original ordinance only the N. of Railroad street was given. He did not know how it could have been changed, unless it was intentionally done. He asked that his resolution presented at the previous meeting declaring the franchise forfeited be called up again.

Alderman Long wanted it referred to the railroad committee and Alderman Helm made a motion to this effect which was unanimously carried. A petition from the Bethel association was received asking that the street assessment of $670 against its property for the improvement of Lake avenue be cancelled. The committee reported favorably and after a provision had been inserted charging the amount to the general fund, a resolution cancelling the assessment was passed.

A resolution ordering gas and water mains extensions was referred to the ordinance committee because the guarantee bonds have not been filed. Rufus Johnson was giving the contract for providing ferry service over the canal at $15 per month.

Patrick Doherty was present and asked that he be released from the acceptance of a contract for constructing a sewer in Woodland park because of a serious mistake in his bid. The next lowest bid was about $1200 more than Mr. Doherty's. The resolution awarding the contract to Mr. Doherty was voted down.

T. B. Hawkes filed a protest against the vacation of the alley in the rear of the pro-cathedral lots on the ground that there is no entrance to some property owned by a client of his except by the alley. It was referred to Bernat McGiffin and others petitioned for the improvement of that part of the Herman town road known as the Morris Thomas road. Referred to the board of public works.

A communication was received from the mayor asking that Acting Harbor-master Smollett be relieved from duty and reinstated in the police force, but as Harbor-master Miller is now well and has been given a short vacation, no action was taken for the present.

A resolution was adopted declaring Sixth avenue west from Michigan street to Railroad street to be closed to travel, the viaduct having been built and accepted.

SUPERIOR NEWS.

Duluth Citizens Appear Before the Court in Egey's Favor.

In the circuit court a motion was made last evening for a new trial in the case of the State vs. E. A. Egey. G. A. Leland and J. B. McLeran, of Duluth, addressed the court in favor of Egey. Egey had lived in the family of the former for some time previous to his coming to Superior and he had always acted as an honorable gentleman. Mr. McLeran had employed Egey for over a year, where he had access to and handled large sums of money belonging to his employer, and did so entirely satisfactorily. The court took the matter under advisement.

William H. McCann who, Aug. 4, shot and instantly killed Robert B. Kirkwood near White Birch, was examined before Judge Fridley at the municipal court yesterday on the charge of murder in the first degree. He was held to the circuit court without bail.

The West Superior Smelting & Refining works are owned by the Land & River Improvement company and may be opened in the near future. Different parties have been trying to start the plant for months, but no one seems to be able to get the money together.

Rev. F. T. Rouse, of the Pilgrim Congregational church, who recently resigned his pastorate, has refused to withdraw his resignation, although earnestly solicited to by a majority of his parishioners. Some differences of opinion caused the resignation.

THE SCHOOL BOARD.

Election of Officers and Presentation of the Superintendent's Report.

The first meeting of the new school board was held last evening in the Central high school building. The old officers were elected throughout as follows: President, W. E. Richardson; secretary, Alfred LeRicheux; treasurer, F. W. Paine; clerk, H. W. Pearson; superintendent, R. E. Denfeld. President Richardson was unwell and left early in the meeting. Director Daggett taking the chair. The committee for the ensuing year will be announced later.

Bids for constructing the new Jefferson school were received but were all too high and were referred to the building committee to report on advisable modifications. They were as follows: Everson & Christenson, $99,570; Butler Bros., $98,000; James McMillan, $96,714; P. L. Peterson, $95,000; F. A. Fisher & Co., $94,700; Haglin, Morse & Co., $94,000; Evans & Grandy, $91,775; McLeod & Campbell, $89,700; A. V. Kelly & Co., $84,000. A protest, signed by John Rosenthal, committee of the stonecutters' union, against letting the contract to an outside firm was received. Superintendent Denfeld read a long report of last year's work in the schools. The number of pupils enrolled was 3565, against 4579 last year. The percentage of attendance was 91 to 92.5 last year. There were 117 cases of corporal punishment to 123 last year. The number of visitors was 5844 to 1566 the year before. The total cost per pupil of schooling this year was $10.46 as against $17.85 last year. Text books furnished cost $2501, or 73 cents per pupil. Last year's cost was $1575. The average monthly salary of male teachers was $90 and of female teachers, $57. The night school enrollment was 365, with an average attendance of 77, and it is recommended that a tuition fee of $1 be established to insure better attendance.

The report makes a number of recommendations. The establishment of a system of signalling to scholars at their homes when necessary, through connection with the fire department, was urged. Also the erection of flag staffs on the school buildings and the raising of flags on national days. The plan of employing assistant principals meets with the approval of the superintendent and he urges its permanent adoption. The offering of prizes is considered advisable. The establishment of a nomenclature is also recommended in view of the many accidents on the water.

The committee on supplies was directed to secure bids on a clock for the tower of the high school. Miss L. K. Naves was granted a year's leave of absence.

SENSATION EXPLODED.

J. H. Talton Turns Up and Says Some People Are Liars.

The sensational story in the Monday News regarding the death of a woman at New St. Louis seems to have been utterly without foundation and there is liable to be a very forcible demand made for an apology on the part of that paper. In West Duluth representative recounted the death of the housekeeper for J. H. Talton and said there were suspicious circumstances and that Mr. Talton had disappeared. Dr. Fortin was called in merely to make a post mortem on the regular physician in charge of the case, but he was so late in responding that the woman was dead before he arrived.

Mr. Talton called at The Herald office to deny that statement that he had disappeared. He states that the woman was subject to sinking spells and heart trouble and it was undoubtedly during one of these attacks that she succumbed. She was given a drink of gin and pepper at her request. He talked with the coroner himself and that official decided that no inquest was necessary. The funeral of the woman took place in the presence of a number of friends at the cemetery in Old Superior on Sunday afternoon. Dr. McCuen was the regular attendant of the sick woman and was with her when she died. The friends of Mr. Talton are incensed and will demand an apology.

HORRIBLE MISHAP

Six Human Beings Were Crushed to Death and Fifteen Others Terribly Injured.

An Open Switch Caused a Construction Train to Collide With Standing Cars.

Workmen in the Employ of McArthur Bros. Were Victims of the Accident.

COSHOCTON, O., Aug. 16.—The Toledo, Walhonding Valley & Ohio railway, a branch of the Pennsylvania system now in construction, experienced its first horrible mishap last night, six miles north of here, at a point known as Richeson's gravel pit. Six human beings were crushed to death and fifteen others terribly injured. The list of killed is as follows:

Frank Gallian, aged 44 years, head crushed; William Rafferty, aged 50, head crushed; John Barry, of New Burg, O., aged 50, head crushed.

Joseph Bystroft, Burlington, Vt., aged 28, throat torn and body crushed; John Halliger, head crushed and dismembered, aged 50.

John Flynn, aged 25, back broken. The following are the injured: Frank Hughes, aged 35, head crushed, will die; William O'Toole, Portsmouth, O., aged 20, injured in the abdomen; John Hagans, aged 33, injured in head and legs crushed; Pat Connors, Canton, O., 28, injured in head and breast and collar bone broken; Martin Ward, Pittsburgh, aged 45, injured in the hip and back; John Zeigler, aged 23, hurt in the head and side; James Riley, aged 50, contusion of hip, has been a bric-a-brac since the accident; Patrick O'Brien, aged 74, of Akron, O., skull fractured, will die; Hugh Morrison, Altoona, Pa., aged 46, hurt in the head and back; Patrick Costello, aged 65, left foot crushed; Morris Collins, aged 45, of Allegheny City, terribly bruised on head; John Erickson, a Swede, aged 38, feet crushed; Patrick Roach, aged 31, crushed arm and shoulder; Michael Mulahy, of Red Barrington, Mass., aged 25, contusion of shoulder and side; Henry Long, aged 40, leg wrenched.

The cause of the horrible mishap is as follows: A construction train in charge of Conductor Humphrey and Engineer Clark had been engaged in hauling gravel from the pit. The killed and injured were engaged in ballasting the roadway at a point three miles north of the pit. Last evening, after the last train had been unloaded, the men boarded the cars that were being pushed ahead of the engine to their camp. A few hundred yards south of the gravel pit, the train was running at a hazardous speed, and when it arrived at the gravel pit, the cars were being pushed without stopping, the switch was open and the train entered the siding and collided with some cars standing on the siding.

When the long train turned in upon the spur, the men had no opportunity to jump. Ten of the cars were piled in a mass of debris and beneath this the poor mortals were crushed. It required two hours to extricate some of the dead and injured. A number of Italians employed in the work were at the scene, and when the Catholic church here yesterday in the city. The men were in the employ of McArthur Bros., contractors, and when Superintendent Wells was asked for the cause of the accident, he said somebody left the switch open.

The camp to which the dead and injured were brought last night presents the scene of a battle field. Under one of the six dead bodies taken from the wreck are lying side by side, and from the adjoining tents the moans of the wounded and dying could be heard. Rev. Father MacQuinn, of this city, was summoned and he administered the last sacraments to the Catholics. The Catholics of the city and neighboring villages are upon the ground rendering all the aid possible to the sufferers. Coroner Miller began an inquest to determine the cause by which the unfortunates came to their death.

MURDER, NOT ACCIDENT.

Evidence to Show that William Finney Was Deliberately Killed.

ASHLAND, Wis., Aug. 16.—A coroner's inquest is in progress over the body of William Finney, who was shot at Ashland Junction Sunday afternoon. A post mortem examination of the body shows two wounds from a shot gun, one in the shoulder and one in the thigh. Doctors differ as to whether the cause of death was the wound in the thigh or the wound in the shoulder. C. H. Schuster, companion of the two men when the shooting occurred, testified that the quarrel began by calling names. Then Finney took his gun by the barrel and struck Temple on the head with the stock. The blow dislodged the gun, the contents entering Finney's shoulder. Finney then threw the gun at Temple and retreated, but was shot in the thigh by Temple just as he was turning the corner of the depot. This wound, it is supposed, caused death.

A little girl, Mary Montgomery, the only other eye witness of the shooting, said Temple fired both shots at Finney, that Finney only threw his gun at Temple and then retreated, Temple following him. Temple will undoubtedly be held for murder.

ALL THREE KILLED.

A Flash of Lightning Killed a Man, a Boy and a Bear.

LOOK LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 16.—An itinerant Italian, a boy and a bear, who have been travelling through the mountains, took shelter on Sunday night under a tree when the terrible rain storm came on.

A flash of lightning struck the tree, splitting it open, tore open the skull of the man, passed down his body into that of the little son, whose foot touched that of the father, and passing through the boy also killed the bear. The bodies were buried together.

DON'T DOSE THE BABY.

When She is Sick It is Usually From Want of Proper Diet, and Better Food is Necessary.

In Fort Ann, N. Y., there is a flourishing bit of babyhood with bright cheeks, fat and round as one of Blake's dream-children, who owes her health and happiness, like thousands of other children in this country, to lactated food. Fortunately the time has gone by when people believed that if baby was sick baby needed a dose of medicine. People have begun to learn that medicines for infants are more sparingly used in physicians' families than in any others and that the average physician, when the mother's milk, for any reason is not sufficient, brings up his own children upon lactated food.

Mrs. Lucy D. Farr, the mother of the pretty baby whose likeness is here given, writes for publication: "Lactated food is everything that it is recommended to use. My little girl Frances was fed on it from five months old. She was a very delicate baby, but as soon as she was put on the food she thrived wonderfully and now has very hard flesh, though in addition to her weight, she has had scarlet fever, whooping cough and la grippe. My physician says, of all the foods, lactated food is the best."

MARRIED THE DUCHESS.

A Marriage in High Life in London Today.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The duke of Devonshire was married at Christ church today to the dowager duchess of Manchester, with whom his name has been so long associated. The ceremony was extremely quiet and only a few intimate friends were aware that the marriage was to take place. Sir Henry Calcraft acted as best man. The duke of Devonshire, formerly marquis of Hartington, was born on July 23, 1853, and arrived at the dukedom only a few months ago. The dowager duchess of Manchester was the countess Louise Frederick Auguste, daughter of Count d'Alten of Hanover. The late duke of Manchester married the countess, July 22, 1852, and they had no sons, the elder of whom is the present duke, and two daughters. The duke of Manchester died March 11, 1890. For a long time before his death the names of the marquis of Hartington, now duke of Devonshire, and of the duchess of Manchester had been connected in public gossip and the marquis made only conventional concealment of his deep devotion to the duchess. It was generally understood that if Hartington should survive the late duke of Manchester, he would marry the widow. The marquis, however, had to show some deference to the views of his father, the late duke of Devonshire, who, it was reported, did not look favorably upon his son's devotion to the duchess of Manchester. The recent death of the Duke of Devonshire removed this obstacle and left Hartington in full control of his own actions, as well as the position of one of the most illustrious and most splendid estates in Great Britain.

NOT VERY HARMLESS.

Hill and the Anti-Snappers do Not Pull Together.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—There is no indication of peace between the Hill men and "Anti-Snapper" Democrats in New York. The difficulty is that each of these factions imagines that it is more important and powerful than the other. While the Hill men can render the loss of the electoral vote to Cleveland absolutely certain, the Anti-Snappers can with ease make the next assembly Republican on joint ballot.

In the scale of Hill's revenge it is doubtful whether the defeat of Cleveland would outweigh the loss of a United States senatorship toward which Cockran and Flower are believed to be casting yearning eyes. It is more apparent than ever that Grace will not be able to keep the anti-snappers in hand, as he has promised to do. It is also more apparent than ever that the Hill men are more arrogant than before, and that while Whitney mistrusts them, they are also growing to mistrust Whitney. Assurances from Cleveland himself are demanded from both sides.

KILLED BY A CONVICT.

A Michigan Prison Contractor Murdered by an Insane Man.

JACKSON, Mich., Aug. 16.—William Cuddy, half proprietor of the prison broom contract, was murdered at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by convict No. 1705, Henry Blackman. The deed was accomplished while Cuddy sat in a chair at his desk writing, the skull being crushed in two places. Nobody except the convict was with Cuddy at the time, and as the latter never spoke no account of what had been given but what Blackman admits. Blackman is a life convict, having been sent here from Pontiac for murdering his mother and sister, and then burning the house above their bodies. He has always been considered mildly insane.

IS CHASING RAINBOWS.

Senator Peffer Indulging in Some Political Prophecies.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Senator Peffer, of Kansas, makes this unique claim for the People's party: "I think the People's party will carry not only Kansas but Nevada, Colorado, Nebraska, Montana, Wyoming and the Dakotas, and poll a much larger vote than ever before in Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin. In the South our gains will come from the Democratic party chiefly. I confidently expect the People's party to carry both Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi, to come very near carrying Texas, and to get a big vote in Arkansas and Missouri. The silver issue will aid us in the West. This is the rock upon which the old parties are divided."

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The duke of Devonshire was married at Christ church today to the dowager duchess of Manchester, with whom his name has been so long associated. The ceremony was extremely quiet and only a few intimate friends were aware that the marriage was to take place. Sir Henry Calcraft acted as best man. The duke of Devonshire, formerly marquis of Hartington, was born on July 23, 1853, and arrived at the dukedom only a few months ago. The dowager duchess of Manchester was the countess Louise Frederick Auguste, daughter of Count d'Alten of Hanover. The late duke of Manchester married the countess, July 22, 1852, and they had no sons, the elder of whom is the present duke, and two daughters. The duke of Manchester died March 11, 1890. For a long time before his death the names of the marquis of Hartington, now duke of Devonshire, and of the duchess of Manchester had been connected in public gossip and the marquis made only conventional concealment of his deep devotion to the duchess. It was generally understood that if Hartington should survive the late duke of Manchester, he would marry the widow. The marquis, however, had to show some deference to the views of his father, the late duke of Devonshire, who, it was reported, did not look favorably upon his son's devotion to the duchess of Manchester. The recent death of the Duke of Devonshire removed this obstacle and left Hartington in full control of his own actions, as well as the position of one of the most illustrious and most splendid estates in Great Britain.

IS LIKE A SAVAGE.

Southern Illinois Furnishes a Wild Man Who Lives Much Like the Beasts.

Has a Lair in the Cache Bottoms, Which are Filled With Heavy Timber.

When Recently Captured He Was Visited by Hundreds of the Curious People.

For more than a year the citizens of the swamp country around Metropolis have been frightened by the actions of a person so savage in appearance that many of the ignorant and superstitious declared that he was the devil. More than one band of men, following well trained bloodhounds, scoured the swamps in the vicinity of Me-

ropolis in hopes of capturing him, but without avail. One old hunter declared that the dogs were afraid. No sooner did they strike the scent than they huddled together and whined pitifully, refusing to proceed farther in spite of the lash or coaxing. The story was whispered about that the wild creature is none other than a ghoul—one of those half men, half beasts, who prey upon the dead.

He was known to have a lair in the Cache bottoms, which are filled with heavy timber and a dense undergrowth. When driven from his cave, or hole, in this jungle by hunger he would make his appearance at some farmhouse and ask for food, the language used being a sort of jargon, or half growl. He would seldom eat cooked meats, but if raw beef was thrown down before him he would devour it like some wild animal. His capture recently caused the most profound sensation. He had called at the farm residence of Madison Grum, and as he approached the house he seized a duck from among a flock and began devouring it, feathers and all. He ate a live chicken in the same manner, fleeing to his retreat in the meantime, and he was tracked by the feathers of the birds scattered in the way.

When the pursuers reached a large pond in the Cache swamps they found him engaged in devouring a quantity of live frogs. After a desperate struggle he was captured and taken to the calaboose in Metropolis, where he was visited by hundreds of the curious. He is a small man, dressed in tatters, which it would be charity to say were clothing, and which barely cover his nakedness. His hair is raven black and hangs far down over his shoulders in matted coils. Physically he is well developed and shows not the slightest fear.

When asked his name he replied that it was John Harvey, but those are nearly all the words he can utter. He cannot speak the name of another human being, knows no one on earth, seems not to know the meaning of "home" or "relative" and can only repeat the names of three states—viz., Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee, where he says he has lived for twenty years. He said he wanted to travel in the woods all the time, and fretted at confinement. While in jail he refused all food but raw meats. He refused all proffers of clothing or propositions to have his hair shorn. There being no charge against the poor creature he was released and has doubtless fled again into the fastnesses of the swamp or forest.

On the Lookout for Mobs.

The Richards and wife, residing in Clarksville, Tenn., are crazy on the subject of mobs. They take turn about at night sitting up on the lookout for a body of armed men. Richards declares that there are men who, as he puts it, are determined to land himself and wife into eternity at the end of a rope. They have been sitting up every night for the last three months, and are literally worn out. The police have been asked by Richards to help him stand his nightly watch.

A Growsome Custom.

A London paper is authority for the statement that the ancient tower of the church of St. Sepulchre, opposite the end of Newgate street, has now been restored. It is stated that in the old days, when criminals were carried to execution at Newgate, it was the custom for the clergy at St. Sepulchre's to wait for their arrival and present them with a flower.

Young Life Savers.

The part of hero or heroine, observes a New York paper, is growing to be a popular one among the youth of America, and life savers' medals are the adornment to which the young idea seems to aspire.

EDITH BRILL.

They range all the way from "Flip," the Gotham newsboy, whose Fourth of July was marked by saving several people from a watery grave, to the pretty fourteen-year-old girl who saved the life of Mrs. Reynolds at Seaside, N. J., recently.

In England the tots have been quite as active in the life saving industry. Two small boys recently insisted upon rescuing a woman who was attempting suicide. Another boy gave a little variety to the list by rescuing on land. He caught a four-year-old girl as she fell from an open window. At Woodwich, Edith Brill, aged ten, has received the Royal Humane society's medal for saving the life of a two-year-old boy. He and a companion had fallen into the King William dock, and the little girl tried valiantly to save both, but succeeded in bringing only one to land.

Following Their Advice.

There was not long since a venerable and benevolent judge in Paris who, at the moment of passing sentence on a prisoner, consulted his associates on each side of him as to the proper penalty to be inflicted. "What ought we to give this rascal, brother?" he said, turning over to the one upon his right.

"I should say three years," "What is your opinion, brother?" "I should give him about four years." The judge, with benevolence: "Prisoner, not desiring to give you a long and severe term of imprisonment, as I should have done if left to myself, I have consulted my learned brothers, and I shall take their advice. Seven years!"—Tit-Bits.

Beyond It.

Want of Sense.

Great learning is not always accompanied by large measures of "common sense." The celebrated Dr. Chalmers came home on horseback one evening, and as neither the man who had charge of his horse nor the key of the stable could be found he was puzzled as to the best temporary residence for the animal.

At last he fixed on the garden, and leading the horse thither placed him on the gravel walk. When Miss Chalmers, who had been away from the house, returned, and her brother told her he had been unable to find the key of the stable, she inquired what had been done with the horse. "I took him to the garden," said the doctor.

"To the garden?" she exclaimed. "Then all our flower and vegetable beds will be destroyed!"

"Don't be afraid of that," said Dr. Chalmers. "I took particular care to place the horse on the gravel walk."

"And did you really imagine that he would stay there?"

"I have no doubt of it," replied the doctor, with calm assurance. "So sagacious an animal could not fail to be aware of the propriety of refraining from injuring the products of the garden."

"I am afraid," remarked Miss Chalmers, "that you will think less favorably of the discretion of the horse when you have seen the garden."

True enough, the horse had rolled in and trampled upon the beds till they were a scene of pitiful devastation.

"I never could have imagined," remarked the doctor in deep disgust, "that horses were such senseless animals."

A retort about the surprising ignorance of a certain other order of animals must have been on Miss Chalmers' tongue, but no doubt she kept it back.—Youth's Companion.

IN SOUTH SUPERIOR.

The Good People of South Superior in a Furor of Excitement Over a Statement Made by Mr. Mat. Holzknecht, One of Her Citizens.

Mr. Mat. Holzknecht, employed at the La Belle Wagon Works in South Superior, says "he has been troubled three years with a stomach and liver difficulty. There was great dizziness of the head, pain in the stomach and bowels, with loss of appetite. I could not sleep at night and arose more tired in the morning than when I went to bed. There was pain in the back, general weakness and great mental depression. I was very despondent over my failure to obtain relief, and was on the point of giving up my position when I saw the testimonials of some persons who had been treated by Dr. Speer & Co. I called at their office in the New York Block, corner Tower avenue and Fourteenth street, West Superior, and they located my difficulty at once. I have only been under their treatment a few weeks, but am surprised at the result. My disagreeable symptoms have rapidly disappeared. I eat and sleep well.

"The mental depression and nervousness has left me and I feel that I cannot too highly recommend Dr. Speer & Co. for what they have done for me.

"I can be found at the St. Paul House, at South Superior, and would be glad to verify this statement to any one interested."

Attention, Mothers and Fathers! Why not have your Shoes and Kid Gloves as well as those of your Children looking like new continually? Why have them looking worn and rough when you can avoid it?

To do this you have only to oil them once a month with Tanner's Oil. Tanner's Oil does not injure but benefits the leather. It is now prepared by us for families uses. It prevents leather getting hard and from cracking, keeps it looking fresh and smooth, makes it soft and pliable and absolutely water-proof. Best of all—Shoes and Gloves kept thusly in good condition—will outwear three pair worn ordinarily. One box should last a family of three one year. On ladies' and children's wear you should use it instead of Blacking.

Gentlemen can shine their shoes after using it equally as well as before. All we desire is to have you give it a trial. Shoe Dealers, Glovers, and those Dry Goods merchants who sell Kid Gloves should have it on hand to furnish up their stock that has become shopworn. It will give it an absolutely new appearance. Your youngest apprentice can apply it. Price by mail 40 cents. Special price to Dealers.

THE NEWS WAS BEARISH.

Wheat Dropped Slightly Owing to Bearish Reports.

A good deal of outside news of a conflicting nature regarding the foreign prospective wheat crop for this year was received here this morning. The best early cables were bearish. Reports from South Dakota stated that wheat is not threshing out as well as expected and will run about 55 to 56 lbs. to the bushel. The market here ruled inactive. There was about an equal demand for spot and future wheats. Prices slowly declined from the opening. Trading after noon was quiet. There was a good demand early for cash No. 1 northern delivered at the mill at 80¢ and twenty-five cars changed hands. The close was dull and 1/2¢ lower than yesterday, as follows:

No. 1 hard, cash, 82¢; August, 82¢; September, 81 1/2¢; December, 82 1/2¢.

No. 1 northern, cash 78¢; August, 78¢; September, 78 1/2¢; December, 79¢.

No. 2 northern, cash 72 1/2¢. No. 3, 62 1/2¢. Rejected, 52 1/2¢. On track, No. 1 hard, 82¢. No. 1 northern, 80¢.

Car inspection today, 120. Receipts—Wheat, 47,300 bus. Shipments—Wheat, 115,560 bus. Owing to poor telephone service number of cars on track today cannot be learned. The flour statement for the week ended Saturday last shows: Production by local mills, 20,860 bbls; receipts by rail, 177,222 bbls; shipments, 245,011 bbls; flour now in store, 246,316 bbls.

Outside Markets.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—The close: Wheat: September, 77 1/2¢. Corn: September, 52 1/2¢; October, 51 1/2¢. Oats: September, 33 1/2¢; October, 33 1/2¢. Pork: September, $12.45. Lard, September, $8.12 1/2; October, $8.12 1/2. Spare ribs, September, $8.10.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 16.—Wheat—August closed at 74 1/2¢; September opened at 74 1/2¢, and closed at 74 1/2¢; October closed at 75 1/2¢; December opened at 76 1/2¢, and closed at 76 1/2¢. On track—No. 1 hard, 80 1/2¢; No. 1 northern, 78 1/2¢; No. 2 northern, 71 1/2¢.

HAS MADE CHANGES

Board of Equalization Considerably Alters the Assessor's Valuation Figures.

Valuation of the American Loan & Trust Company is $350,000 an increase of $70,500.

Duluth Street Railway Company Must Pay Taxes on $125,000, an Increase of $25,000.

The board of equalization of St. Louis county has completed its labors and has effected a great number of changes in the real and personal property footings of the assessors, though it will be several days, if not weeks, before the clerical force can correct the books and discover the true totals.

Among the personal property changes made houses are reduced in the following places, the figures indicating the percentage of decrease: Duluth, 25 per cent; Lakeside, 7; Fond du Lac, 20; Oneota, 28; Industrial, 20; Breitung, 20; town of Duluth, 10; town of Morse, 35; town of Herman, 10. The valuations were increased in the following places: Tower, 30 per cent; Mesaba, 33 1/2; New Duluth, 40; Gnesen, 40; Rice Lake, 33 1/2; Canosa, 15; New Independence, 05; West Duluth, 30; Ely, 33 1/2.

Cows were next looked up and in Tower, Lakeside, Ely, Mesaba, Fond du Lac, Oneota, Gnesen, Industrial, Rice Lake, New Independence, Duluth and Herman were raised all the way from 17 per cent to 90 per cent. The figures were lowered in New Duluth, Breitung and Morse from 24 to 36 per cent. Duluth and Lakeside wagons and carriages were increased 20 per cent.

The personal property list of the American Loan and Trust company was fixed at $350,000, an increase of $70,500. The Street Railway company had an increase of $25,000, their figures now being $125,000. There are a number of other interesting features which can be made public as soon as the totals are arrived at. The changes in the real valuations are very great.

THE CANAL QUESTION.

Secretary Thompson Answers Some of Mr. Hickey's Questions.

Secretary Thompson returned this morning from Washington after an absence of ten days. He was called there by the state department but for what purpose he cannot make public.

"I am not prepared to make public what developed upon this visit," said he, "but I am prepared to answer Mr. Hickey's communication which was published in The Herald the day I left. He denies what I said regarding the Canadian Pacific railway controlling the Canadian government and the result of a commercial war between the United States and Canada. Well, these are only differences of personal opinion and he is entitled to his as much as I to mine."

"But he asks why the state canals are not opened to Canadian vessels and says the treaty of Washington provided that the government should urge upon the state governments the opening of these state canals. He refers especially to the New York canals. Mr. Hickey and his Canadian friends and the newspapers over there have evidently never read the history of the treaty of Washington."

The protocols signed from day to day by the commissioners on the part of Great Britain on the United States. If they had they would have found that there never was any intention of giving the use of the Ohio state canals to the New York canals or of any other state except such canals as were constructed in aid of the navigation of the great lakes and their connecting waterways. The very wording of the treaty of Washington is plain enough: "The government of the United States * * * further engages to urge upon the state governments to secure to the subjects of her Britannic Majesty the use of the state canals connected with the navigation of the lakes or rivers traversed by or contiguous to the boundary lines between the possessions of the high contracting parties, in terms of equality with the inhabitants of the United States." The New York canals are connected with the great lakes just as the New York Central and Erie railroads are, but the New York canals are no more connected with the navigation of the great lakes than the railways mentioned.

"In the protocols which were signed from day to day during the Washington arbitration by J. C. Bancroft Davis on the part of the United States and Lord Tenterden on the part of Great Britain we find that the British commissioners on a certain day proposed that all canals in both countries should be equally open to the inhabitants of each, but on the succeeding day the proposition was limited by the United States commissioners to the canals constructed in aid of the navigation of the great lakes and their connecting channels. The Soo canal comes under that definition which was understood and agreed to by the British commissioners and the protocol embodying that understanding was signed as were all others by the commissioners of both nations."

"All their protocols as well as the confidential instructions under which the commissioners on the part of the United States were acting are published in full in the sixth volume of the papers relating to the treaty of Washington and I would recommend that Mr. Hickey, and Canadians generally who seem inclined to interpret the treaty of Washington entirely according to their own desires should make a study of those documents I have named in order that they may find out what their rights under the treaty really are. Under that treaty they have no right to New York state canals; never had any; it was never intended by our government that they should have any and it was not understood by the British commissioners that they had acquired any."

"Now in regard to the possibility of the exclusion of our vessels from Canadian waters which has been talked of. Our position is even stronger than I have supposed. In the first place the law of nations provides that where navigable waters constitute the boundary between the possessions of two nations one has exactly the same right as the other to navigate these waters without reference to the existence of treaty provisions relating thereto. This has been carried to such an extent in Europe that when a navigable stream runs for a considerable distance through the territory of one government but finds its outlet to the sea through the territory of another government the nation owning territory on the upper portion of the river has the right to navigate it out to the ocean."

"We are not compelled, however, to depend on the law of nations for there are distinct treaty provisions between the United States and Great Britain, providing that vessels of the United States shall have equal rights with those of Great Britain to navigate the St. Lawrence river where it is exclusively in Canadian territory the same as where it constitutes the boundary between the territory of the two nations. The Webster-Ashburton treaty, ratified in 1842, specifically names Capehart and other islands in the St. Lawrence river and Bois Blanc island in the Detroit river, and states that vessels of both nations shall have equal rights on both sides of these islands and to all natural channels in the Detroit and St. Clair rivers whether in Canadian or American territory. I hope vessel men who have been insisting that Canada can shut us out of these channels in case we adopt the same interpretation of the treaty of Washington in regard to the Soo canal as Canada applies to the Welland canal, will lay aside their fears. That no description of nations, the Dominion of Canada, has no right to shut us out of channels, the use of which is guaranteed by the law of nations and by treaties with Great Britain. An attempt to shut us out by Great Britain would be equivalent to a declaration of war against the United States."

THE BIG DULUTH.

Nine Drunks Fined.

"How much do you charge for a drunken man?" was the query which paralyzed Court Officer Gillon a short time before the opening of the municipal court this morning. "Can't tell," replied the officer; "the price is fixed by the boss and he isn't in yet," and the querist sat down. Twenty minutes later and eighteen appealing eyes gazed mournfully from nine whisky-soaked heads at Judge Winje who carefully stroked his beard, cleared his throat and laid a goodly sized "snipe" to rest until such a time as he could resume its destruction. Frank Brownman, Dave Smith, George Kelley, Nate Sutherland, Andrew Anderson, George Casey, William Hynes, C. Will and Bryan Dillon all pleaded guilty, and received the statutory dose, amounting to $12 or ten days. Only one paid his fine.

Street Car Line Extension Laborer Out On a Strike.

About 200 of the laborers who are employed by the Duluth Street Railway company on extensions to the line which are being made, struck for $2 per day yesterday. They have been getting $1.75. The gang on Fourth street quit first and were told to pack up their tools. They then marched down and persuaded part of the Superior street gang to quit and later on the Garfield avenue men.

Manager Wardwell says it would have been necessary to discharge them in a few days, anyway, and is not very much concerned over the strike. The company was running out of spikes and could not have kept them at work.

TROUBLE SOUGHT!

Strikers at Buffalo Are Trying to Provoke a Collision With the Militia.

It is at Present Impossible to Predict What the Day Will Bring Forth.

An Attempt to Wreck an Engine and Car and to Burn a Car.

The Sheriff Has Called on the Governor for the Entire State Militia.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 17.—The Rochester & Pittsburg switchmen struck at noon. It is reported that trainmen on all the tied-up roads will go out in twenty-four hours. The sheriff has called on the governor for the entire state militia. There have arrived so far about 800 additional troops, making 1600 now in camp in the yards of the Lehigh road. The other companies on the road number 400 men, and are expected momentarily.

There is an apparent desire on the part of the strikers and their sympathizers to create trouble. They appear to be doing everything in their power to bring about a collision between their forces and a part of the militia, and are leading up to it gradually in order to throw the blame for the first of the outbreak on the militia. It is impossible to predict what the day will bring forth.

An attempt to wreck an engine and car at Black Rock was made last night. About 8:40 o'clock an engine and car loaded with coupling pins left the Erie yard for Buffalo. It had gone but a short distance when it ran into an open switch and jumped the track. The locomotive was not seriously damaged, but the car was wrecked and the coupling pins were scattered about the tracks for some distance.

The switch light had been turned and was burning "clear." The police arrested Samuel Louy, Henry Abbach and William Sanders, all strikers, on suspicion of having turned the switch. At 4:04 this morning, fire was discovered in a freight car loaded with tan bark at Clinton and Hick streets. The fire department put the blaze out. The strikers are suspected of the incendiaryism.

Passenger trains on the Central are all moving on good time today, and those on other roads affected by the strike are moving without difficulty. Freight trains, however, are badly blocked. The yards at East Buffalo are filled with cars and tied-up engines.

Private Frederick W. Elssesser, of the Sixty-fifth, was accidentally shot by a fellow-soldier named Lucien Holmes this morning. Holmes was snapping the trigger of a rifle when it went off, the bullet striking Elssesser in the head. He was removed to the hospital and died at 1 p. m.

SPOONER AND KEECH.

Wisconsin Republicans Have Named Their State Ticket.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 17.—At noon today the Wisconsin Republicans met in convention at the West side Turner hall in this city. Eugene S. Elliott, of Milwaukee, was temporary chairman. M. S. Jeffries, of Janesville, was chosen permanent chairman. John C. Spooner, for governor and John C. Keech, of Milwaukee, for lieutenant governor, will have no opposition.

There is apparently no opposition to Attorney Peterson, of Crawford, for treasurer. R. W. Jackson, of Shawano; J. E. Geg, of Walworth, and R. L. Rosecrans, of Waushara, are candidates for secretary of state. D. L. Jones, of Portage; W. G. Wilson, of Grant, and James O'Neill, of Clark, want the attorney generalship. Jones claims he has votes enough to get it.

Whitford has no opposition for superintendent of schools. C. Bullock, railroad commissioner, has an open field so far. E. W. Trowbridge, of Trempealeau, and W. H. Bliton, of Green, are rivals for the nomination for insurance commissioner.

EXCITEMENT IN VIRGINIA.

Reported Attempt to Rescue the Outlaw, Talton Hall.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 17.—A dispatch has been received from Big Stone Gap, Wise county, Va., saying that intense excitement prevails there over the news received from Wise court house that an attempt will be made to rescue Talton Hall, the noted outlaw and murderer, under sentence of death.

Every able-bodied man in the community is being summoned to go to Wise court house tonight, and a special train has been tendered by the Louisville & Nashville railroad authorities to carry the guards to Norton, from which place they will march five miles across country to reinforce the guard now on duty at the jail.

THE ROBBERS FOILED.

A Bold Attempt at Train Robbery in Colorado.

GREELEY, Col., Aug. 17.—As the Denver and Cheyenne passenger train came Union Pacific stopped at the coal chutes at Lasalle last night, two masked men entered one of the cars and with loaded revolvers ordered the passengers to hold up their hands.

Hands went up in profusion and the two men were about to collect toll from the astonished passengers, when one of the latter opened fire from his revolver. The men returned the fire, but one of them getting hit, they both jumped from the car and fled. The sheriff organized a posse and went in pursuit.

THREE DEATHS RESULTED.

Millionaire Bostwick and His Coachman and Footman Dead.

MAMARONECK, N. Y., Aug. 17.—A fire occurred on the Sound shore at this place at an early hour this morning that resulted in the death of Millionaire Jabez A. Bostwick and his coachman and footman. The fire broke out shortly after midnight in the stables of Mr. Bostwick, which adjoined his beautiful summer residence on Oriental Point.

Soon after the fire broke out, Mr. Bostwick, who was in his room at his residence, hurried out on the piazza laboring under great excitement. He shouted a few orders, then suddenly clasped his hand to his heart and sank down unconscious. Members of his family carried him inside, where he gave a convulsive gasp and fell back dead.

The family physician gave it as his opinion that the millionaire had died of heart failure produced by undue excitement.

After hard work the firemen got the fire under control. Then it was discovered that Mr. Bostwick's coachman and footman were missing. They were known to have been sleeping in their apartments on the second floor in the stable. An examination was made as soon as possible and their blackened and charred bodies were found among the ruins.

Mr. Bostwick was 62 years old, and up to seven years ago was a member of the executive committee of the Standard Oil trust. His wealth was estimated at $39,000,000.

A Desperate Fight.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 17.—It is reported here that after a desperate fight between the troops and the miners at Oliver Springs, the former retreated and are now bringing the 200 convicts from Oliver Springs to this place.

MATTERS WERE LIVELY.

A French Neighborhood Quarrel Is Aired in the Municipal Court.

Judge Winje had a "full house" this morning, and but for the presence of his honor, the assistant city attorney and Court Officer Horgan one could well imagine the scene to have been laid in Paris. All the French "sassy" of lower Garfield avenue was on deck, and a long row of very pretty women graced the side of the court room where the bums and drunks generally congregate.

It was a very lively neighborhood quarrel in which petite Mrs. Casille L. Andre was charged with having said some very nasty things about Mrs. Aloa Goodro. There was lots of angry looks from very dark eyes, and lots of tossing heads and little "chic" laughs, and Attorney Bureau who was conducting the defense got excited once or twice and questioned the witnesses in French and the judge and city counsel looked hopelessly at one another as much as to say "we are not in it," but Bureau was courteous and remembered himself and came down to plain Anglo-Saxon. The case was still on at noon with a probability that it will be dismissed with costs on the defendant.

Boats Are Crowded.

The Transit line passenger boats are having an enormous business now. Every boat is filled two or three weeks ahead and many people are prevented from traveling because they cannot secure passage. People will travel in spite of the fact that the boats are of a very poor class. If a fine line of passenger boats should be put on between Duluth and Buffalo they would not only catch the business, but the summer travel would be greatly increased.

The Sarnia boats are also doing a good business. The Monarch on its last trip carried 200 passengers out of Duluth and brought in about 175 yesterday.

Visits the Land Office.

Secretary Noble visited the land office before leaving yesterday and expressed himself as being very much pleased with the admirable order in which he found everything. He admired the view from the windows and said he would like to have a scene like Lake Superior to gaze upon at Washington. He also said there ought to be a larger room for hearing contests in.

Paid the Dividend.

The Cincinnati Iron company's dividend of 20 cents per share, declared some time ago, was paid during the forepart of this week. Although this seems to be a very small amount, it is about 10 per cent on the present market price of the stock.

There Was No Fire.

Alex. W. Hartman says that the statement that the Hartman General Electric company's plant caught fire yesterday is incorrect. There was no damage done to the system except to burn out a few fuses, something which occurs during every severe electrical storm.

THE NEW CABINET.

Comments of the British and Irish Press on the New Gladstone Ministry.

The Appointment of Lord Houghton as Viceroy of Ireland Viewed with Surprise.

On the Whole the Cabinet is Generally Considered a Duly Representative One.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—The Chronicle thinks that Mr. Gladstone selected the members of his cabinet rather on the theatrical star company system. It says: "Forces of genius are with difficulty discernible, but they are sound and faithful men who will stick to business and to the leader in sunshine, and perhaps will form as good a ministry as the premier, who is himself a ministry of all the talents, could wish for, while he has to depend upon a vacillating electorate and a heterogeneous majority."

The Chronicle considers a young peer willing to say "tutto" to Mr. Morley, a better appointment as Irish viceroy than Lord Brassey, whose sympathy with Ireland is a trifle doubtful. The Chronicle complains of the giving of a seat in the cabinet to Arnold Morley, when important rural interests represented by the ministry of agriculture are left out. It thinks Mr. Buxton equally as worthy of office as Mr. Asquith and Mr. Acland.

The News says: "We consider it important that the viceroy of Ireland is just now, as long as Mr. Morley has the practical conduct of the government of Ireland; but it is satisfactory to know that Baron Houghton is regarded as a man of great promise and as likely to go far in a career of statesmanship. The new government, so far as it has been arranged, has a good deal of youth about it. The heaviest work will fall upon Mr. Gladstone, Lord Spencer, Sir William Vernon Harcourt, and John Morley as the inner council for drafting the home rule bill. It can hardly be said that the new cabinet is not a duly representative one. Nor can it be complained of that the peers have had it all their own way."

The Freeman's Journal (Dublin) is an editorial article on the new government says: "If there is substance in the modern theory of heredity, Baron Houghton is likely to be a justly popular lord lieutenant of Ireland. His father was a gentleman and a scholar, of winning personal courtesy, with deep sympathy for Ireland's national aspirations. The son is said to be active, distinguished and popular. His own country, endowed with political ambition and ability, and with wealth and personal accomplishments that will enable him to fill the position with dignity and success. But unquestionably the chief lesson of the appointment of Baron Houghton as viceroy, without a seat in the cabinet, is that John Morley will take the administration of Ireland completely into his own hands. We trust and believe that his administration will be thorough. Hitherto a change in government has but slightly changed the administration of Ireland. This, the first government ever elected with a distinct mandate to do full justice to Irish opinion, means a revolution in caste methods."

The Times says: "It is not without significance that Sir George Trevelyan's political promotion moves like his political professions, in a circle. Baron Houghton is a surprise, but he possesses important qualifications for the post, in spite of the obvious disadvantage which bespeaks public sympathy, and there is every reason to believe that he will prove as efficient a representative of the sovereign as that mongrel, a home rule viceroy, can be. Taken as a whole, the ministry can scarcely be expected to display, with one or two exceptions, that independence of thought which was formerly supposed to be an honorable distinction of Liberal administrations. It approaches closely Mr. Gladstone's ideal of himself as the government and his colleagues as the chief clerks, which he was unable to realize when he had independent colleagues like Lord Hartington, John Bright, the duke of Argyll and Joseph Chamberlain. Putting Lord Roseberry aside, the cabinet is not likely to have much influence on Mr. Gladstone's policy."

The Standard thinks Baron Houghton old enough to have given some evidence of the qualities essential to a statesman. It promises that the new government will fail in the trial. Lord Roseberry's appointment, it says, is evidence of the conservatism with which his more advanced admirers have often reproached Mr. Gladstone and is a warrant for predicting that Mr. Gladstone's bark will prove worse than his bite.

The Telegram announces that Lord Salisbury, in an unselfish spirit, will accept no distinction from the crown except the privilege of wearing the Windsor uniform, which has only been granted within the present reign to Lord Melbourne, Lord Palmerstone and Earl Gray.

Thirteen Drunks.

Thirteen drunks pleaded guilty before Judge Winje this morning, and Isaac Isackson was the only one with money enough to pay his fine. Henry Hill, Johns Mokey, John Johnson No. 1, John Downey, Henry Cobb, M. Keating, Olie Anderson, W. E. Clarke, Dan McDonald, Andrew Johnson, John Johnson No. 2 and Tom Flynn were the others, and they went on the hill for ten days. John Erickson, G. Thompson, Andrew Lee and Knute Nelson pleaded not guilty and will be tried this afternoon. John Madison for petit larceny, was bound over until Aug. 24 in $100 bail for a hearing. He was committed.

HOOPES. SPERRY.

markedly enterprising journalist, and has, one may say, "come up through great tribulation." He and Edgar M. Hoopes, in 1882, formed the News Publishing company, of Wilmington, Del., and together they have made The Morning News a journal of note.

Watson Robertson Sperry was born at Saquoit, Oneida county, N. Y., and in early life suffered much from nervousness and general ill health. For this reason he abandoned the idea of a college course and went to newspaper work. Later, however, he resumed his studies and was graduated from Yale in 1871, winning high honors. He at once took a position on the New York Evening Post and was its managing editor from 1878 to 1881, after which he located in Wilmington. His partner there, Mr. Hoopes, is a native of Minnesota, O., and did his early journalistic work in Chicago.

A Notable Invention.

A problem which has been puzzling mechanical engineers all over the world ever since steam as a motive power came into general use has at last been solved, it appears. British papers state that an engineer living in Glasgow has lately completed, after nineteen years' experimenting, a device for steam engines by which all steam is returned back to the boiler after doing its work in the cylinders. In several cases, it is said, he has installed his engine and it is at work with extraordinary results. In one case, in a textile factory, the engine with his device is doing as much work with one ton of coal as it formerly did with ten tons. The problem of how to make use of the vast amount of steam everywhere blown off into the air after doing certain work has long occupied engineers, and its thorough solution would be worth many millions of dollars in many ways.

Sold Papers in New York.

But a little more than thirty years ago Andrew H. Burke was a homeless New York street newsboy. He is now governor of North Dakota, and the Republican state convention has recently renominated him to succeed himself.

Andrew H. Burke was born in New York city May 15, 1850. He has had a struggle with the world from early childhood. His mother died while he was a baby, and his father passed away before the future governor had begun to wear knee breeches. Young Burke was sent west by one of the children's aid societies, and lived on a farm in Indiana until he was twelve years of age. Then, in 1862, he enlisted as a drummer boy in the Seventy-fifth Indiana volunteers. He served in the Fourteenth army corps under "Pap" Thomas.

After the war Master Burke, ambitious to obtain an education, matriculated at Ashbury university, Greencastle, Ind. He supported himself by sawing wood and doing other manual labor. His health broke down under the strain, and he was obliged to leave without graduating. Mr. Burke was for a short time thereafter connected with newspaper work in Greencastle. In 1880 he went to Cass county, N. D., where he has since resided. A few years later he was elected treasurer of the county, a position which he held until he was nominated and elected governor of North Dakota.

Where the Presidents Were Born. Virginia, as is well known, leads all the states in the number of her sons who have become presidents of the United States. In fact, she has been called the mother of presidents. Massachusetts has been the birthplace of 3 presidents; New Hampshire, 1; Vermont, 1; New York, 3; Pennsylvania, 1; Virginia, 7; Ohio, 4; New Jersey, 1; North Carolina, 2; Kentucky, 1.

The World's Smokers.

It will be small comfort to those persons who hope to see the smoking habit abandoned to know that at the present day considerably more than two-thirds of the male population of the world use tobacco, while thirty years ago less than three-fifths of the sterner sex were addicted to the use of the seductive narcotic.

ALMOST A SEA TRAGEDY.

The Story of a Newly Wedded Pair and a Bathing Suit.

They had been wedded a week and this sweet day they were down by the sea, where the billows beat musically upon the silver sands and fall in rhythmic cadence upon the sentient shore, changing ever, as if it were a living thing.

They had wandered away from the crowd in the earlier morning, but as the hour approached when Neptune holds his reception to the bathers they mingled again with the throng and shyly tried the wetness of the waters.

She was so blushing, so timid, and he was so brave, so daring.

He met the waves face to face and breasted them, and when she screamed as a breaker dashed upon him, he said to her: "Tut, tut, Mamie! it is nothing."

She leaned upon his strong right arm and clung to him fondly, as he took her out into the briny and boisterous surf, and she was so proud of him.

Strong limbed and lithe and lissom, he was a picture even in his bathing suit and well might Mamie feel that George was a prize package.

Once more they essayed the billowy depths, and George had made a mighty effort against a wave to prevent himself and his fair bride from standing on their heads before a thousand eyes upon the beach.

She screamed in merry glee, but when George came up clutching at himself and growing deadly pale she screamed in wild affright.

"Oh, George! George!" she cried.

"Sh—sh—," he hissed through the seething salt water.

She would have screamed for help, but he caught her.

"Keep still, keep still," he whispered hoarsely as a great wave engulfed them, and she kept still.

"What is it? Oh, George, what is it?" she moaned as he dragged himself along on the bottom with only his head visible.

He steadied himself as he best could and looked at her dreamily for a moment.

"Mamie," he murmured, "do you love me?"

"Oh, George," she cried, "more than life itself," but she did not touch him, for she was fearful.

"Well, dear, if you do," he said, "skip across the beach and bring a closed carriage here. I've ripped my bathing suit up the back and if I move six inches I'll fall out of it."

And Mamie skipped.—Detroit Free Press.

SHOT HIS PARAMOUR.

A Murder on the Brooklyn Bridge This Morning.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Joseph Roberts, colored, shot his supposed paramour, Emma E. Redwell, of 369 Myrtle avenue, at 5 o'clock this morning, at the Brooklyn entrance to the bridge and then shot himself in the mouth twice.

The man is dangerously wounded in the throat and the woman had her jaw shattered by the bullet. It appears that Roberts, who had just returned from Boston, wrote Miss Redwell requesting her to meet him this morning at the Brooklyn bridge. They met at that time and after a short conversation, during which they appeared to be quarrelling, Roberts drew a pistol with the above results.

Newspaper Changes Hands.

ST. CLOUD, Aug. 17.—It is understood here that Alvah Eastman, former owner of the Anoka Herald, has bought the St. Cloud Journal-Press from W. B. Mitchell. Eastman will form a stock company and start a daily which will make its appearance probably early in September. He will retain the controlling interest and many citizens will take small blocks of stock. The Journal-Press was founded thirty-five years ago by Jane G. Swishelm and has been owned and published by Mitchell for over thirty years.

A PECULIAR CASE.

The Strange Insanity of a San Francisco Madman. Compelled to Commit Arson.

She Confessed to the Crime for Which She Had No Motive at All.

Her Insanity on the Subject Apparent and No Harsh Punishment Was Inflicted.

The other day Maggie Cummings was locked up in the city prison in San Francisco. She is but fourteen years old, yet her arrest was based upon her confession that she had committed arson.

It seems, comments the San Francisco Examiner, to be one of those terrible cases where a poor hysterical, nervous creature has lost control of herself and committed a crime for which she has no motive. Fortunately she was so clumsy in her attempts that none of the first which she says she started proved serious. They were serious enough, however, to thoroughly arouse the neighborhood.

MAGGIE CUMMINGS.

One day a fire broke out at 21 Hollis street. Later there was another fire in a neighboring flat. In a few days more there was another, then another and another. Six times the apartment building was set on fire.

In each case there was a little bundle of kindling soaked with coal oil found on the back porch.

The neighborhood was in a ferment of terror and anxiety. Although the fires were discovered in every instance before any serious damage was done, there was an element of mystery that made life very irksome to any nervous person who lived in the vicinity of the ill-fated block. No possible motive could be imagined for the crime. No one in the neighborhood had an enemy vindictive enough to attempt such a vengeance, and there was no large insurance to be gained by the matter was reported to the fire marshal, but he could offer no suggestions. He did not know whom to suspect.

At last this modest little girl confessed that she had set the fires. She confessed at a convent. She has never associated with vicious companions. She has always been a dutiful daughter and a loving sister. Her parents are honest, respectable people. Yet she confessed to the crime of arson. She had no motive, no reason—she says she "had to do it."

It all happened in this wise: Maggie's father has been ill for some time, and Maggie was anxious to go to work so that she might help her mother. She found a place as nurse girl with Mrs. Eichwald at 21 Hollis street. She had only been there a day or two when the house was filled with mysterious noises. The doorbells rang in the night. When the door was opened there was no one there.

Great lumps of coal came crashing through the windows and shattered the glass into atoms. Then came the fires. One night Mrs. Eichwald discovered that Maggie was the person who broke the windows. She sent her home at once. The fire marshal heard of this discovery and he sent for the girl. She went down to his office and he questioned her closely. She broke down completely. "I did it," she cried. "I set the fires. I couldn't help it. They were all good to me there. I didn't want to hurt any one. I couldn't help it." The fire marshal took her to the city prison and charged her with arson. All day long she sat down in the prison hospital. She sat in a chair in a corner of the room and cried as if her heart would break. She could not explain. She could not give any excuse or shadow of excuse. She shook like an aspen shaken in the wind. She could scarcely speak coherently.

"I had to light the fires," she moaned. "I had to do it. Something told me to, and I had to do it. I didn't want to—I didn't want to. I broke all the windows. I couldn't help it. Then I scared me. Oh, how I scared me. I hate fires. I scare me so. That always did. I was always afraid of them—but I had to light them. When I was at school I used to want to do it, but I kept from it then. Now I've done it at last."

The girl's insanity on this subject was so apparent that no harsh punishment was inflicted on her.

Dowry Insurance.

The Swedes seem to easily lead the world in novel methods of insurance. A somewhat similar and equally interesting scheme to the matrimonial insurance organization is a dowry insurance, which has been introduced by an insurance company in Sweden. By this scheme a father can, by paying a reasonable premium, secure for his daughter a dowry on her marriage at any time between twenty and forty years of age, or a sum of money for her in case she is unmarried when she completes her fortieth year. The premium is reckoned from the year of birth, and the whole plan is on somewhat similar lines to life insurance.

Assessing a Sunday School Pledge.

A Canadian customs officer distinguished himself a few days ago by assessing a Buffalo Sunday school picnic party $5.00 on ice cream which they took over into Canada as a part of their lunch.

WHIP AND SPUR.

Allerton trotted seven fast miles at Independence, Ia., not long ago, the best being 2:13 1/4.

Baritone, by a son of Lexington, ran a mile in 1:44 1/4, recently over the half mile trotting track at Wapakoneta, O.

The bookmakers have the best of it in the long run, for there is no race so easy to beat as the human race, says The Horseman.

Some London horse dealers prefer American bred horses for carriage purposes because they are speedier and of better blood.

Robert J. by Hartford, paced the three fastest heats of the year in his winning race at Cleveland. The time was 2:13, 2:15 1/4, 2:14 1/4.

The new rule at Palo Alto is that each of the three trainers shall handle exclusively the horses in his string and drive them in their races.

The brown colt Herald, by Kyle Daly, that was entered for the American Derby of 1892, is pulling a harrow and doing other farm work in Kern county, Cal.

Spirit of the Hub says that it is pretty sure to beat that Natty Hanks, Sunol, Palo Alto. Allerton, Nelson, Delmar and Artell will all beat 2:08 this year.

Don't put a harsh, cruel or torturing bit in the horse's mouth, for nearly all animals of nerve fight abuse; the greater the torture the more vicious the animal will become, says a turf writer.

Nearly all the required $600,000 has been subscribed for the new racing track at Sunset Island, N. Y. The site will be perfect oval, one mile and three furlongs around, and the six furlong homestretch will be straight as a bee line.

A well known turf writer says: "Such names as Mand S. Dictator, Nelson, Allerton, etc., should be secured. If we had one governing power in trotting matters laurel crowned and honored names could not be adopted by any or everybody."

THE JEWEL CASKET.

Iridescent single petal roses are among the new brooches.

Large turquoise brooches in shape like flower-bell are new.

"The Baby's" is a little silver box to hold baby's safety pins.

Frosted silver has taken a fresh impetus, probably because it looks cool.

Silver bracelets in heavy links and corresponding to popular styles in gold are produced in numbers.

Smoking sets of frosted silver are ornamented with flowers in enamel. The fancy is for such delicate blossoms as the May flower.

Conch shell hearts, double and single, mingled with pearls, make the prettiest of new summer pins and are by no means expensive.

Rings have scroll work set obliquely in small diamonds, with a large colored pearl in the center. This is a new and very pretty fashion.

Large oval sleeve buttons of white lusterless enamel are powdered with tiny gold disks. This is one of the handsomest of the new designs.

Olden brooches containing the name of Jeanne, Ida, Lucie or the like in a lot of ornamental wreathing, is an English fancy that has come in.

There is some pretty new gold jewelry. It is floral with a fine rough finish, if the term may be allowed, and rich in color. There is an attractive lightness about it.

Maggie's lovely worn watch chains in some instances have the different sections treated so as to give coppery tints, yellow, steel, blue, and as a novelty are very pretty.

Silver head necklaces are in demand for summer wear. They are like the strands, but prettier and more desirable are collars of three or more strands and small in size—Jewelry's Circular.

FIN, FEATHER AND FUR.

In the United States there are about 16,000,000 cows—one for every four persons.

A species of crow in India has a note which exactly resembles the human voice in loud laughing.

Fish breeders promise that we shall have within a few years a shad comparatively without any bones to speak of.

Lobsters often travel in regiments seeking new feeding grounds. Their migrating armies are always led by the biggest and strongest ones, while the meek and weakly struggle along behind.

There is a variety of pigeon hawk in Syria which kills pigeons by cutting their throats with its sharp bill as they fly. It gives a swoop, a quick dart and presently there is a tumble, and the pigeon is finished up with a gash across its throat.

The bodies of the spiders of Ceylon are very handsomely decorated, being bright gold or scarlet underneath, while the upper part is covered with the most delicate green colored fur. So small are they that the bird's size of larks are frequently caught therein.

Porcupines, which abound in the lumber regions of northwestern Pennsylvania, are passionately fond of salt, and should the four sides of the camp should be salted from ground to roof these little animals would eat it down over the very heads of the inmates and not leave a splinter of it to mark where it stood.

FLOWER AND TREE.

The leaf of the banana is usually six feet long by two feet wide and the flowers are pink.

It is calculated that 1,000 thrifty coffee trees will yield an average of 3,000 pounds of coffee per annum.

There is a tree in Jamaica known as the life tree on account of its leaves growing even after being severed from the plant. Only by fire can it be entirely destroyed.

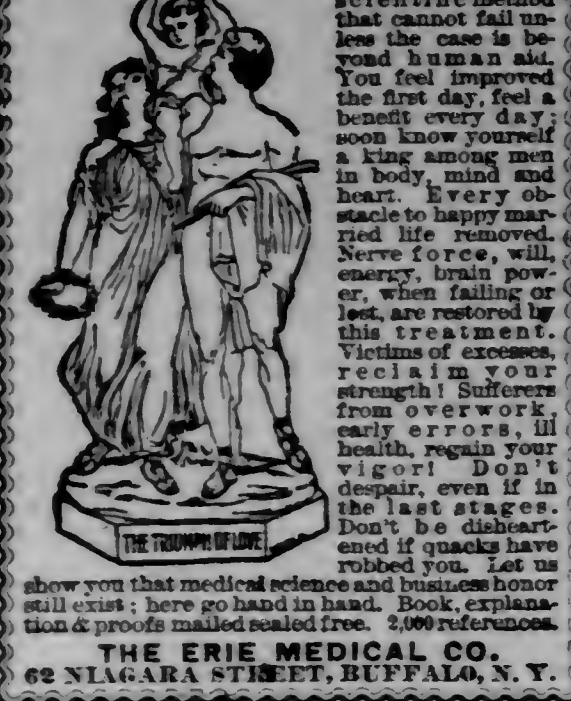

In most cases where flowers droop and fade they will be found suffering from lack of water. Turn them out of their tubs or pots, and the bottom of the mass of earth will be found dry as dust.

When roses grow too tall, branching off can be induced by cutting off at least half the stalks. Keep the ground mellow and rich. After a crop of flowers has been produced, cut back each branch about half.

The primrose has a very uncomfortable way of creeping out of the pot, and this can only be prevented by planting them deep. Keep them in a cool place through the summer and in the fall place them where they are to remain through the winter. Give them plenty of light and not too much water.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN DULUTH.

Entered at the postoffice at Duluth, Minn., as second-class mail matter.

The Weather.

C. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Aug. 17.—Rain is falling over Montana and the Canadian provinces in the Northwest, and generally fair weather prevails over the lake region and central portion.The temperature still remains high, there having been very little change in the past twenty-four hours. Over the Northwest it is cool ranging from 51° to 53°.
The rainfall has not been heavy, except here, and confined entirely to the Northwest. The fall here amounted to .14 inches, .25 of which fell in five minutes last evening. The first shower amounted to .25 inch and the other .46 fell between 3 and 4 o'clock this morning.
The mean temperature here yesterday was 52°, highest 58°, the lowest last night 61°.DULUTH, Aug. 16.—Forecast till 8 p. m., tomorrow: Generally fair; slight change in temperature today. Cooler tomorrow; light easterly winds.B. H. BRONSON, Local Forecast Official.WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Forecast till 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Wisconsin: Fair; preceded by showers in northern portion; cooler; southwesterly winds. For Minnesota: Showers; cooler in eastern and southern portions; winds shifting to northerly.

THE BUFFALO STRIKE.

The strike of the switchmen at Buffalo and other points in New York state is assuming very great proportions, and its effects now appear likely to be felt in the Northwest, owing to the stoppage of grain shipments from Buffalo to the Atlantic coast. According to today's dispatches, nearly 1000 men are now out on strike, and there is a probability that their numbers will be increased by 300 or 400 within the next twenty-four hours.
The lines involved are the Erie, the Lehigh valley division of the Reading, the New York Central and the West Shore, while the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western men are reported to be on the point of striking in sympathy with the others.Already coal shipments have been stopped at Buffalo, and receipts of grain there are so heavy that the elevators will soon be filled, owing to the inability of the roads to carry the grain eastward from that point. This means that business on the lakes is virtually blocked, so far as Buffalo is concerned, and it cannot fail to have a bad effect upon the shipment of grain from Duluth. Until the troubles are ended in some way and the roads can handle the grain at Buffalo, it will be useless to send any more forward from this point. The stoppage of coal shipments is serious, owing to the fact that it may shorten the supply for the Northwest for the coming year and thus increase the price above the present figures, which are already excessively high.The work of destruction of property by the strikers has ceased, for a short time at least, and this is a good sign. It may be that the riotous element among the strikers has finally perceived that the commission of such dastardly deeds has injured the cause of the switchmen and divested them of all sympathy from the public. Possibly, however, the cessation of violence and arson is due more to the presence of the militia than to any returning sense on the part of these lawless classes. Such men have a wholesome dread of soldiers. Their cowardly natures shrink from a conflict with the militia, and they are not prepared to run many chances of having their miserable lives ended by a charge by the soldiers.These creatures, who always bring the cause of labor into disrepute and inflict fasting injury upon men who have quit work in support of what they deem a vital principle and a just demand, are very brave when there are no representatives of the law in sight or when they feel that their superior numbers make them safe. Then they are ready to burn and destroy property and commit fiendish acts of violence. The sight of the soldier's uniform and flashing bayonet, however, casts terror into their craven souls, and that is probably why the rioting and disorder have ceased.

THE SENATORIAL SCHEME.

The News says that "the Republicans of the Fifty-third legislative district owe it to Senator Davis and the Republican party to get together on their legislative candidate." The News is evidently still under the impression that the election of Republican candidates to the legislature means the certain re-election of Cushman K. Davis to the United States senate. It may, and then it may not mean such a result. The probability is that it will not.The Herald has on several occasions asserted that there is a well planned conspiracy on the part of several Republican bosses in this state to defeat Senator Davis and prevent his return to the position which he now ably fills.
The conspiracy has been cleverly carried out so far and from present appearances it is likely to succeed. The trouble in Aitkin county to which the News refers was caused by this conspiracy. Governor Merriam is pulling every wire which seems likely toland him in the United States senate as the successor of Cushman K. Davis and he has enlisted in his service some of the cleverest wire-pullers in the Republican party in this state. His success depends upon the Republicans having a very narrow majority in the next legislature or having the balance of power held by People's party representatives. In the latter case his money will have the necessary effect. In the face of the scheme which he is working the resolutions passed by the state conventions in favor of Senator Davis will count for naught. Merriam does not expect to get the Republican caucus nomination for senator, but he does expect to have a fair-sized number vote for him in the caucus.
Senator Davis will be unable to get sufficient votes in the legislature to nominate him, and then the Republicans and several People's party representatives will vote for Merriam and the latter will be elected.To ensure the success of this scheme, it is necessary that there shall be a number of Merriam's friends elected to the legislature. It is well known that in several districts in the southern part of the state he already has candidates in the field. It is an attempt to get a Merriam candidate nominated in the Fifty-third district that has caused the trouble in Aitkin county. Sheriff Markham is a pronounced Davis man, and that is the reason that his nomination is being hotly opposed by a certain element there, acting under instructions from St. Paul.
This may be news to our morning contemporary, but it is not news to those who are posted on the political situation in this state. Perhaps the News is not even aware that there is a quiet move being made now in Republican circles in St. Louis county to nominate anti-Davis men.One of the morning papers says that C. S. Benson, of St. Cloud, will probably be re-elected chairman of the Republican congressional committee for this district, and that "he is recognized as a political manager of no mean order." Yes, his ability was demonstrated two years ago when he led Mr. Comstock down to defeat. He will repeat the journey with Judge Searle this year.A communication signed "Observer" has been received by The Herald. As the proper name of the writer is not attached its publication is deferred. No communication is published in The Herald unless the real name of its author accompanies it.Duluth's interests demand that the congressman from this district shall be a resident of the city who is fully acquainted with its needs in the way of legislation.

The Next Congressman.

Little Falls Herald: Maj. M. R.
Baldwin, the Democratic nominee for congress in this district, was a member of the famous Iron Brigade during the war of the rebellion, and was several times severely wounded. He is a man of good ability, a man who readily makes friends, and will be the next congressman from the Sixth district.

AMUSEMENTS.

Last Evening's Concert.

The Detroit Philharmonic club and Cyril Roderic Tyler drew a large audience at the Temple last evening and everyone who expected a musical treat of more than ordinary excellence was abundantly satisfied. The Detroit Philharmonic club is an admirable organization and fully deserves the flattering recommendations which it has received.
Each member is an artist and in the ensemble there is a harmony and beauty of tone which carries one away. All of the quartet numbers were encored and the musicians generously responded.But it was the solo playing which captured the audience and William Yunk's violin solo, the Faust fantasia, was most enthusiastically received. He was simply superb. The tones which he brings from his instrument make the audience almost believe that a wizard is there, and they can easily realize why the violin is king of instruments. Mr.
Yunk received a double recall, something which very few violinists have ever received in Duluth. But although the audience in general seemed to appreciate Mr. Yunk's violin playing more than any of the other soloists, there were many to whom Alfred Hofmann's cello solo was equally pleasing. His is one of the best of its kind in existence.
The clearness and accuracy of the tone which comes from it is marvelous and he handles it like a master. He also responded to an encore. Walter Voightlander's solo for the viola "D'Amour," Kral's fantasia, was a beautiful thing and when in answer to a recall he played "The Last Rose of Summer" the audience fairly went wild over it.It was Cyril Roderic Tyler, the boy soprano, however, who was the center of attraction. Many who were present had heard Blatchford Kavanagh, and were anxious to compare impressions. It must be said that the boy was equal to the test. He has a remarkable pleasing stage presence and warms an audience to him at once. When he utters the first note of Handel's beautiful hymn, "Angels Ever Bright and Fair," there is a feeling of delightful surprise. It is so unusual to believe that the strong, sweet notes which spring forth are coming from a rather delicate looking boy standing before the audience.
It would be hard to imagine anything more beautiful than this solo. Master Tyler throws into it a depth of feeling and appealing inflection which one would hardly believe him capable of. As an encore he sang a simple German ballad "Du bist wie eine Blume." His second selection an aria in the French, "Thou Brilliant Bird" exhibited the power and range of his voice much better and also the thorough control which he maintains over it. As an encore he sang "Home, Sweet Home" so sweetly and with such exquisite expression anddelicacy of feeling that the large audience seemed as if it mesmerized. Not a sound could be heard until the last note died away and then the applause was deafening.Berger-Dainty Company.
The appearance of the Berger-Dainty Concert company tomorrow evening at the Lyceum is attracting unusual interest. Anna Teresa Berger, the cornetist, is an artist of very high ability and her playing always brings forth great applause. Laura Dainty is a brilliant reader and elocutionist. An exchange says of her:"Her clear, musical voice, her exquisitely beautiful enunciations, and her straightforward delivery, animated but singularly free from the artificial straining for effect in details so common to most of her guild—these quickly complete the charm which gives the reader her pre-eminent hold on a popular audience of the better class."The great advantages of the company have equally good reputations in their particular lines, and an excellent entertainment may be anticipated.

FOUR LIVES WERE LOST.

Fatal Fire in a Workmen's Lodging House.LONDON, Aug. 17.—At Tredgart, a flourishing industrial town in Monmouthshire, last night four lives were lost by the burning of a model lodging house erected for unmarried men to live in.
The four inmates of the model lodging house had retired the building was discovered on fire. There was a frantic rush for life by the inmates.
When the fire was extinguished it was found that four of the inmates of the lodging house had perished, and that a large number were burned and otherwise injured.The weather was warm so that there was very little suffering from exposure, and clothes were promptly given to the rescued. The cause of the fire is being investigated today. It is believed to have originated in the room of a lodger who had a habit of smoking in bed and who, perhaps, fell asleep with a pipe in his mouth.Other causes are also given. The awful affair has greatly shaken faith in the security, so far as fire is concerned, of the workmen's model lodging houses.

SHOWING ITS ADVANTAGES.

Trial of the Ten-Inch Pneumatic Gun Carriage.NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—The second trial of the 10-inch pneumatic gun carriage took place yesterday at Sandy Hook. Owing to the presence of a large number of vessels, which were constantly crossing the proposed line of projectiles, it was nearly 3 o'clock before the first round was fired.Only 240 pounds of powder were used.
The projectile weighed 575 pounds; the velocity was 1033 and the pressure 37-200 pounds. The second round had a result of 36,200 pounds pressure and 1025 velocity. The result was within several inches of the buffers. The strength of the powder was 10 per cent less the estimated power.Although no opinion has been expressed, the tests seem to have demonstrated the advantages of the carriage in warfare. The experiments today will be in rapidity, velocity and manipulating the gun by hand power.

CHOLERA IN STILLWATER.

A Case Which Has Caused Considerable Alarm.STILLWATER, Aug. 17.—Joseph Lu-pion, aged 74 years, died Monday evening under circumstances that lead to the belief that the malady was Asiatic cholera. Dr. Legault, the attending physician, so reported the death.The authorities refused to allow the remains of Lupion to be taken into the church for burial on the grounds that it was better to be on the safe side in the matter. Lupion was a prominent French Catholic, but the body was buried yesterday only a few hours after his death without religious services.City Physician Merrill is inclined to believe that the case is exaggerated and that Lupion died from a peculiar form of cholera morbus.

A SPARKLING DISPLAY.

Perhaps, of all other seasons of the year, this is the best for making advantageous purchases of Jewels. There isn't much fluctuation in the value of
what a jeweler sells, because jewellers
have nothing perishable to dispose of,
but there are times when for a variety of reasons, prices fall off a little, and this
is more particularly the case when business generally is feeling the effects of oppressively hot weather. You will readily understand, therefore, why just now, we are offering some especially attractive inducements in Jewels.

nected with the drug store owned by J. E.
Phelan, and known as the West Duluth Drug company, nor is he in any manner connected with or employed by Mr.
Phelan.Dr. Forin claims to have been done an injustice in the account of the Talton case at New St. Louis in last evening's Herald. The doctor says that he received a telegram at 9:30 o'clock to come to St. Louis. He was compelled to drive out a distance of about six miles, over bad roads, and did not arrive until 10:40 o'clock when he found the woman dead.
He has made inquiries and states that the telegram did not leave St. Louis until she had died. Dr. Forin is somewhat aggrieved to think he should be charged with dilatoriness under the circumstances.[There was no intention in The Herald's article to reflect on Dr. Forin.—

TO BAYFIELD FOR TRIAL.

Ashland Saved Expense in the Finney Murder Case.ASHLAND, Wis., Aug. 17.—Judge Briley yesterday remanded Temple, the murderer of Brakeman Finney, to Bayfield county for trial. The shooting occurred just across the line in Bayfield, but Finney did not die until he reached Ashland county.The state supreme court has made it optional in such cases, where the trial should be held, either in the county where the shooting occurred or in the county where the victim died.
Attorney Tannahill, for the defense, wished to have the trial come off in Ashland county, but the prosecution, on account of too many such cases already, wished to deliver the matter to Bayfield county, and the latter was ordered.
Sheriff Halloran came over from Bayfield and took charge of the prisoner yesterday.

TO STORM THE CAPITAL.

Gen. Crespo is About to Push Matters to a Crisis.NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—A cablegram to the Herald from its Curacao correspondent gives the following news, which the correspondent, however, does not vouch for:The most important information is that Gen. Sarria is returning to LaGuayra from Barcelona alone. He recently embarked with forty soldiers to join Gen.
Montages and his return would indicate that he either failed to effect a junction or, fearing disaster, sought safety in flight.Kojas Paul has left Caracas for Cura-cao, having failed in his mission to bring about a settlement of the revolution.
Gen. Crespo is about to push matters to a crisis and storm the capital. It is said that the advanced army of the Legislatives already threatens. Caracas and an attack is daily expected.

CINCINNATI WANTS GREEN.

Another Case Against the Wire-Tap-per and Bigamist.BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Handsome John Green, alias George Howard Chevalier, who up to date is accused of having married nine wives during the past two years, the last of whom was Miss Helen Tripp, of this city, is wanted in Cincinnati for wire-tapping. The Western Union Telegraph company has had detectives searching the country for Green ever since the latter part of April.
They have an excellent case against him.In the middle of last April the wires leading to Cincinnati were tapped. The gang bought pools on Eastern races and realized many dollars by the operation.

HE SHOT HIS WIFE.

Tragedy in Michigan Which May Re-

Houk, of this place, parted from his wife, Stella Davis, about two years ago.
She, in company with her sister and Frank Gray, were encountered by Houk pulled in the Flint & Pere Marquette train last Monday night.
Houk told her that Stella was his wife and pulled a revolver and shot his wife in the abdomen and Gray in the mouth. He then turned the weapon on Stella's sister, but he was prevented from firing. The woman died yesterday and Gray's condition is doubtful. Houk was taken into custody.The world's greatest lady cornetist,

IN NEW QUARTERS.

R. M. Hunter Will Erect a Building on Fifth Avenue for the Stone-Ordean Company.

Will be One Hundred Feet Square, of Solid Brick, and Six Stories in Height.

To be Completed Ready for Occupancy by November 1—Plans Are Being Prepared.

Duluth is soon to have another handsome wholesale building added to its already creditable list. It will be built in what may be properly called the big wholesale district of Duluth, the territory below Michigan street and between Fifth and Seventh avenues west. The Stone-Ordean company, the oldest wholesale grocery firm in Duluth, will occupy the new building.

The building is to be erected by R. M. Hunter on his property on Fifth avenue west, north of the Wells-Stone Mercantile company's building. In size it will be 100 feet and six stories high. It will be of solid brick, with a stone and pile foundation and will be fitted out and finished in complete and admirable style. It is to be complete and ready for occupancy on Nov. 1. Trap-hagen & Fitzpatrick are preparing plans and will have them ready in a few days for the contractors to figure on.

The Stone-Ordean company have been cramped for room for some time and have felt the need of having a building suited to the capacity of the business they are doing. The erection of this building will give them ample accommodations and will enable them to largely increase their present capacity.

COURT MATTERS.

Paine & Co. Are Sued for $10,000

Damages—A Divorce

Paine & Co., the Carlton lumbermen, have been sued by William Beattie for $10,000 for personal injuries received in the defendants' mill while employed as an oiler. He alleges that he was sent out to oil an endless chain, and while he was doing so the machinery was started up and he was caught in it. His arm was lacerated and he was also ruptured.

Louisa Seibert has commenced an action against her husband, John Seibert, for divorce. They were married in May, 1882, and parted in June, 1888, after six years of strife and misery. She accuses him of drunkenness and cruelty and failure to support her. She asks for the custody of her 9-year-old son George.

The Marine National bank sues W. Montague and F. B. Lazier, as Montague & Co., to recover $1568.50 claimed to be due on a promissory note.

SUPERIOR NEWS.

Pier of the Duluth & Winnipeg Bridge to be Completed Today.

The stone work on the center pier of the St. Louis steel bridge for the Duluth & Winnipeg and the Superior Belt line will be finished today, and thereafter the superstructure will be erected as rapidly as possible by the King Bridge company.

The iron has been on the ground for some time ready for the workmen, but the great bed of quicksand struck by the contractors prevented completing the contract within the specified time.

The steel rails for the Duluth & Win- nepeg and Belt line tracks from Allouez bay to the St. Louis river were shipped from Chicago Monday by the Illinois Steel company, and track-laying will commence next week.

Work on the ore pockets on Allouez bay is progressing rapidly. Dredges are at work on both sides of the dock, and it is expected that boats will be able to get in and out without tugs.

Richard B. Dear has been given the contract for putting in the dock work of the Freeman mill. It will consist of dockage about 150 feet long and 25 feet in width.

T. Williams was arrested yesterday afternoon for forgery. He went into a clothing store and purchased $7 worth of clothing paying for it with a $15 draft on the Bank of Commerce, purporting to be signed by H. M. Stocking. Woodcock found to be a forgery when deposited, and Williams was arrested. When arrested he tore up an envelope which contained another forged check upon the same person for about the same amount.

James McCloskey, a grain trimmer, fell out of the third story window of the Merchants hotel, Fourth and Banks, at 1 o'clock this morning. He struck upon a shed under the window, and escaped with but a broken ankle and some internal injuries.

The Labor day celebration in Superior will be held on Wisconsin Point.

The Open Season.

In view of the fact that the game season will open in a short time, Game Warden Frank Stetson is distributing cards containing a synopsis of the game laws of the state. The open season for Minnesota is as follows: Woodcock, July 4 to Nov. 1; prairie chicken, Sept. 1 to Nov. 1; wild ducks and wild geese, Aug. 20 to April 25; snipe, Aug. 20 to April 25; elk and deer, Nov. 1 to Dec. 1. No moose or caribou shall be killed, sold or taken in Minnesota for five years from April 20, 1891.

Secretary Noble Leaves.

Secretary Noble and wife left yesterday afternoon for the Pacific coast, but will stop at Yellowstone park and other interesting points along the Northern Pacific line. They were entertained at a planked whitefish dinner yesterday at the Spaulding, Monroe Nichols being the host.

Will Push the Campaign.

The People's party will push the campaign in the city of Duluth and vicinity. Ignatius Donnelly, candidate for governor, will be in Duluth and West Duluth during the early part of September, and it is also stated that Gen. Weaver, the presidential candidate, will be here.

IMMENSE GLACIAL FIELD.

The Discovery Made by a Geologist in Idaho.

BOISE CITY, Idaho, Aug. 17.—F. J. Thorne, geologist and mineralogist, who is working in the interest of the Idaho exhibit at the World's fair, writes under date of Aug. 8 that he has discovered an immense glacial field in Central Idaho, beneath which lies a series of glacial lakes.

The field probably covers an area nearly as great, though not as thick, as the great field of the Alps. He located sixteen terminal moraines, eleven of which were receding, four were stationary and one was advancing. None of them extended more than 200 feet below the snow line.

The glaciers are located about twenty-five miles south of Shoup, amid a number of high peaks not down on the map.

Laura Dainty, the queen of entertain- ers, at the Lyceum Thursday.

The voracity with which the bass are biting now at Deer Wood is a great temptation to the "market" fisherman, and keeps the game warden there busy looking after violations of the law. Two parties from the Southern part of the state last week shipped to market from Deer Wood station 350 pounds of the black-backed beauties, but took a hasty departure yesterday in time to avoid arrest upon learning that the warden was about to lodge information against them. It is hoped that the many true sports- men from Duluth who frequent the lakes in that vicinity will lend their aid to the officers in their endeavors to break up this wholesale catching of Minnesota's game fish for market purposes.

A GENERAL TIE UP.

That Now Seems to be the Aim of the Striking Switchmen at Buffalo.

There Are Now Nearly One Thousand Men on Strike and More Are Expected.

Business on the Lake is Nearly Blocked so Far as Buffalo is Concerned.

BUFFALO, Aug. 17.—The strike situation this morning is most alarming and the danger can hardly be overestimated. There are nearly 1000 men on a strike, with the probability of 300 or 400 more being added to the number in the next twenty-four hours. The aim now seems to be a general tie-up. The wild rumors prevail as to the probable outcome of the trouble which the strikers predict will extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific, unless their demands are ac- cepted.

Up to midnight the situation was not ominous. Only two arrests had been made of strikers for rioting, and in one instance twenty-five policemen suc- ceeded in dispersing a body of 200 de- structive strikers. But as the strikers grow in numbers more outbreaks are feared. With trouble at Sayre, Hornellsville, Binghamton and prospective at Jersey City and other points, the handling of freight by men imported to take the place of strikers must necessarily be im- peded, and it is not easy to foresee the outcome of the difficulty.

The strike of the Central was ordered by the switchmen's union. The griev- ance committee of the New York Cen- tral waited on General Superintendent Voorhees yesterday evening for a final answer to their demands. The com- mittee met at Kaiser's hall last night, after their demand had been refused, and decided to strike. The committee continued in session until a late hour, but about 9 o'clock the order was sent to the various yards of the company at Black Rock, Suspension Bridge, and Niagara Falls to stop work at mid- night.

The order in Jersey City was not expected to go into effect until 2 o'clock this morning when the passenger train arrived from Buffalo. The switchmen in this city were also ordered to go out at midnight. It was understood that the order will not for the present affect passenger train service, but may at any moment. An enormous amount of freight will be piled up by this strike, as it will no doubt involve the Lake Shore road and perhaps all the lines in Buffalo. The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western switchmen have plainly been in sympathy with the striking brethren of the Lehigh and the Erie, and they will not probably remain long at work, handling freight for the other lines. The strike is extending and may be far- reaching in its consequences and disas- trous to the business community.

TO SEE THE QUEEN.

Mrs. Martha Ricks Has Her Great Wish Gratified After Waiting Fifty Years.

A Colored Woman Who Had Her Mind Set Upon Seeing Queen Victoria.

The Story of "Jessie of Lucknow" Proven to be Simply a Pleasant Myth.

Perseverance will accomplish almost anything. For more than half a century Mrs. Martha Ricks, who was once a slave, but has for many years lived in Liberia, has had her mind set upon seeing Queen Victoria.

This is not an easy task for any one to accomplish, and it certainly looked for a long time as though Mrs. Ricks' dream would never be realized. But this daughter of Ham never despaired, and a short time ago feeling, as she afterward explained, that her time on earth was getting short, she determined to make one supreme effort. She set out from her African home alone for London. She carried no letter of introduction, and her only credential, if such it may be called, was a satin quilt upon which she had herself embroidered a pattern of the coffee plant. This she intended to present to the queen.

Of course the poor old creature's mission would have resulted in failure and consequent disappointment had it not been for the accident of an acquaintance formed on the steamer on the way to England. By this means some persons of influence, who were on board, heard her story and interested themselves in her behalf. When the party arrived in London, Aunt Martha was introduced to the Liberian consul, Dr. Blyden, who after considerable trouble succeeded in getting Queen Victoria to promise an audience. On the appointed day Mrs. Ricks, accompanied by Dr. Blyden, his wife, daughter and grand daughter, proceeded to Windsor, where the queen received them graciously, shaking hands with each of the party in turn and saying many pleasant things to all. Besides her majesty, there were present at the informal reception the following members of her family: The Prince and Princess of Wales, Princess Beatrice, and her granddaughters the Princesses Victoria and Maud. Mrs. Ricks was thoroughly delighted when the queen said to her, "I feel greatly honored by the trouble you have taken to come to visit me." The whole party of Liberians left Windsor highly pleased.

Another Idol Shattered.

One by one the cherished idols are being dragged from the high pedestals upon which sentiment has placed them and humbled and discredited in the galling dust of repudiation. The last to tumble was "Jessie of Lucknow," the highland lassie who, in the sorely besieged city during the Indian mutiny, heard the pibroch of her clan afar off above the din of battle and long before any others could be made to hear it, and who cheered her companions just on the point of surrender to renewed exertions by her thrilling exclamation: "The Campbells are coming! Oh, dinna ye hear it, dinna ye hear it!" She is proved by the Scots themselves to be simply a pleasant myth. The matter has been thoroughly investigated and testimony from many of the survivors of the famous siege has been taken.

It is proved that there was no such person as Jessie Brown in the Residency, and that anyway it was impossible to hear the bagpipes at the distance declared. Nothing but the roaring of guns could be heard anywhere in the city, and the pipes of the highlanders were only heard long after the city was practically relieved and when the pipers were nearing the Bailey guard gate. More than this, says the New York Sun, the story has been traced to its origin in a little romance written by a French governess at Jersey for the use of her pupils, and followed through its journeyings until it reached the London Times on Dec. 12, 1887. It is sad and a shame, but Jessie has been sent to join William Tell and the other dethroned gods and goddesses, and the Scots gave her up finally and publicly a few weeks ago.

England and Edison's Phonograph. Some one writes to a leading English newspaper and asks, "What has become of Edison's phonograph?" The writer proceeds to say that this is "one of the most mysterious disappearances of modern times. A few years ago it was announced that the famous American inventor had perfected this instrument, and some public experiments that were given certainly seemed to support this view. A simple little apparatus, costing probably not more than a sovereign to make, was made to reproduce indefinitely any sound, even to a grand instrumental performance that had taken place in another hemisphere. Where is a phonograph to be bought?" This prompts the New York Sun to remark: "With phonographs singing popular songs, with banjo, piano or orchestral accompaniment, playing Wagner and Gilmore selections by orchestras and brass bands, and discussing politics in every corner store in this country, and with many hundreds of phonographs, each doing the work of half a dozen stenographers in offices all over the country, one simply stands aghast at the medieval state of British civilization, for if the people were ready for the Wizard's wonders the supply would surely be there."

"Old Booty."

There are very few English tars who "plow the water" who have not heard of "Old Booty," the name given to the volcano of Stromboli, but not many of them know whence the nickname came. According to George Augustus Sala, the famous London editor, the legend is that one Captain Booty, a master mariner trading to the Mediterranean in the Seventeenth century, became so notorious for drinking and swearing that he was seized upon by the fiend and carried off to the interior of Stromboli, from which he has continued ever since to utter profane language by means of tongues of fire and puffs of smoke.

LIGHT AND AIRY.

Better Than Pure Gold.
For love and wealth, fame, peace and health Mankind has striven
Since Eve was driven
With Adam from the garden fair
To struggle through a world of care.
The forces these
That ever please,
That make for mortal happiness,
Who gets the first is not accursed,
Though lacking all the rest.
And happy he, whoever he be,
Whom with all these the gods shall bless.
I have no wealth,
No love no health,
And yet I count me truly blest.
Oh, happy we as we can be,
No more shall bitter strife embroil us,
For, after years of fights and tears,
We got a hired maid to suit us.
—Detroit Tribune.

Poor, Dear Martyr.

"You need not deny it. I know that he kissed you while you were sitting on the steps last night."
"Yes, mamma, eight or ten times, I guess."
"Eight or ten times! Why—I—you!"
"Yes, mamma dear. I told him the first time if he did it again I wouldn't speak to him, and after that I could not tell him to stop without breaking my word. And I knew you would not want your daughter to tell a fib."—Indianapolis Journal.

Useless to Do It.

Jones—Why on earth do you offer such a large reward for the return of that horrid, yapping, snarling cur?
Brown—To please my wife.
Jones—But such a large reward will be sure to bring him back.
Brown—Oh, no, it won't. He's dead. I drowned him myself.—Judy.

After the Magazines.

Some mystic meaning shimmers o'er
The dewy dingle of the hills—
One day of tranquil life the more
Has passed into oblivion's chills.
The silken strands of tawny light Stream o'er the emerald lake
And glorify the coming night,
As love's hopes on my heartstrings break.
This sweet refrain of chastest rhyme—
What is it for? What does it mean?
Such stanzas, mystic and sublime,
Make the average poem in the magazine.
—Chicago News-Record.

An Excellent Motive.

Head Clerk (in a large concern)—You are hardly twenty-two and already want to get married; a large dowry, I suppose?
Clerk—No, sir.
"Then you are in love?"
"No, but I should like to have a week's holiday."—Petit Journal Illustré.

It Answered the Purpose.

Mr. Fitz-Racquet (at the seaside)—Don't you miss your husband, now that he's gone back to town, Mrs. Spooner.
Mrs. Spooner—Oh, no. You see, I just open an umbrella and let a newspaper peep from underneath it—so—and I forget he isn't with me.—Funny Folks.

Disenchanted.

She sat at a table opposite
The seat I always occupied.
Her dress was silk, a perfect fit,
With frills of lace attached to it;
Her silvery speech was full of wit,
Her face by smiles was beautified.
I marked her eyes, her satin skin,
The while my heart gave many a throb;
Her snowy brow, her dimpled chin,
And wished that I her hand might win.
Alas! why did she then begin
To eat her corn from off the cob?
—New York Press.

Foretold.

Dinguss—Hello, Shadbolt! You don't seem to have any crease in your trousers this morning.
Shadbolt (remembering him of old)—No, and no change either, Dinguss. Left it all in my other trousers. Morning!—Chicago Tribune.

Bicycle-Tricycle.

He, on the bicycle,
She, on a tricycle,
Together, side by side,
Down the lane they went.
On pleasure intent,
Two lovers taking a ride.
To encircle her waist
With an arm, in haste,
Three times in vain he tried;
And the maiden said,
As she raised her head,
"I wish 'twere a buggy ride."

A Popular Girl.

Fred—There seems to be a lot more fuss made of Miss A.'s singing than Miss K.'s, and I am sure Miss K. has by far the richer voice.
Jack—Ah, yes! but Miss A. has by far the richer father.—Pick-Me-Up.

Hard Luck.

Many days he hesitated,
Then his bitter fate he cursed,
While for some good chance he waited
Another man, less agitated, Proposed and was accepted first.

Onto the Journalist.

Ethel—I just am almost sure that the market reporter boards here.
Helen—Why do you think so?
Ethel—Why, the very first thing in the report is "butter growing stronger." Chicago-Inter Ocean.

An Epitaph.

The king of the Cannibals nothing could save.

EXCITEMENT

The Good People of South Superior in a Furor of Excitement Over a Statement Made by Mr. Mat. Holzknecht, One of Her Citizens.

Mr. Mat. Holzknecht, employed at the La Belle Wagon Works in South Superior, says "he has been troubled three years with a stomach and liver difficulty. There was great dizziness of the head, pain in the stomach and bowels, with loss of appetite. I could not sleep at night and arose more tired in the morning than when I went to bed. There was pain in the back, general weakness and great mental depression. I was very despondent over my failure to obtain relief, and was on the point of giving up my position when I saw the testimonials of some persons who had been treated by Dr. Speer & Co. I called at their office in the New York Block, corner Tower avenue and Fourteenth street, West Superior, and they located my difficulty at once. I have only been under their treatment a few weeks, but am surprised at the result. My disagreeable symptoms have rapidly disappeared. I eat and sleep well.

"The mental depression and nervousness has left me and I feel that I cannot too highly recommend Dr. Speer & Co. for what they have done for me.
"I can be found at the St. Paul House, at South Superior, and would be glad to verify this statement to any one interested."

CUT DOWN YOUR SHOE BILL

Attention, Mothers and Fathers! Why not have your Shoes and Kid Gloves as well as those of your Children looking like new continually? Why have them looking worn and rough when you can avoid it? To do this you have only to oil them once a month with Tanner's Oil. Tanner's Oil does not injure but benefits the leather. It is now prepared by us for family uses. It prevents leather getting hard and from cracking, keeps it looking fresh and smooth, makes it soft and pliable and absolutely water-proof. Best of all—Shoes and Gloves kept thusly in good condition—will outwear three pair worn ordinarily. One box should last a family of three one year. On ladies' and children's wear you should use it instead of Blacking. Gentlemen can shine their shoes after using it equally as well as before. All we desire is to have you give it a trial. Shoe Dealers, Glovers, and those Dry Goods merchants who sell Kid Gloves should have it on hand to furnish up their stock that has become shoptorn. It will give it an absolutely new appearance. Your youngest apprentice can apply it. Price by mail 40 cents. Special price to Dealers.

Rumors of Pending Negotiations for Increase in Size of the York Plant.

Nothing Has Been Consummated But There is Something in the Wind.

Marinette Iron Works Gets a $30,000 Contract to Furnish the Roofing.

There are some negotiations pending which may result in the material enlargement of the works of the Iron Structural Steel company, or York plant, as it is more familiarly known, over the size called for by the contract which Jas. E. York made. These negotiations are, however, in a very vague condition, but it is among the possibilities that certain arrangements will be made which will result in the building of an enormous plant.

As it is now, the plant being built will require an outlay of over one-third more than was originally proposed. The foundations are being put in and the work is being vigorously pushed. The company means business, has the cash and is letting its contracts for the work as fast as possible.

The Marinette Iron works was given another contract this week. This one is for the roofing of all the buildings of the plant and the contract price was about $30,000. A particularly commendable feature in connection with the building of this plant is that Mr. York lets all the work to Duluth institutions as far as possible. This is the second contract taken by the Marinette works, the former being for the machinery. Mr. York speaks highly of this institution and says it is a credit to the city.

CAUGHT A BIG ONE.

J. L. Williams Lands a Seven Pound Brook Trout—It Will be Preserved.

Since J. L. Williams returned from the Nepigon river where he was fishing, the fish stories are beginning to circulate.

Mr. Williams caught a 7-pound brook trout. He has only told this to a few of his intimate acquaintances who, knowing his reputation for veracity, would not be incredulous. The fish was sent by the Hudson Bay agent at Port Arthur to the fish commissioners of Ontario and will be preserved. Four members of Mr. Williams' party caught forty pounds of trout in fifteen minutes a few days ago.

R. M. Hunter and the Misses Hunter, Mrs. E. W. Markell, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Manley and others went up last evening to spend a few days. The Nepigon river is said to be the choicest fishing spot on the north shore.

The Stryker Seminary.
Miss Anna K. Stryker, of Minneapolis, principal of the Stryker seminary at St. Anthony park is in the city in the interest of that institution. The Stryker seminary is rapidly rising in the estimation of people as one of the best educational institutions in the state. The board of advisers includes the names of some of the most prominent men in the state and the list of references is a very flattering one. The school year begins on Sept. 14, and closes May 24, 1893. An advertisement will be found elsewhere.

Politicians Here.
Judge Searle and D. E. Myers arrived in the city last evening from St. Cloud and are here today. This morning Judge Searle went up to Maj. Baldwin's office and made his acquaintance having never met him before. The meeting was a cordial one and each expressed a devout wish that the other would be beaten.

D. T. Calhoun of St. Cloud is also here. He was chairman of the Democratic congressional convention at Brainerd and is here to confer with Maj. Baldwin in regard to the appointment of the congressional committee.

Ran Into the Dock.
The Philip Minch ran into the face of the Northern Pacific dock this morning while moving around the harbor and damaged it considerably. It was close to the Innman tug office and shook up that structure somewhat. No one was hurt and the vessel was uninjured.

Isle Royale Passengers.
The Booth steamer Dixon had about sixty passengers for Isle Royale this morning. In addition to those who have been previously mentioned as intending to take the trip, starting today, were W. E. Covey, wife and children and five friends, Dr. C. F. McComb and two sisters and a brother from Stillwater, and a great number of St. Paul tourists, who arrived on the trains this morning. Over half the number were ladies and several of them will remain on the island several days.

BITTER BATTLE.

A Terrible Conflict Between the Tennessee Miners and Soldiers Seems Almost Certain.

The Miners are Four Thousand Strong and Declare They Will Resist the Troops.

It Now is Impossible to Perceive How Hard Fighting is to be Avoided.

The Only Hope Seems to be in Calling on the Federal Authorities.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 18.—A special from Coal Creek received at 1 o'clock this morning says that 600 miners captured a train just before midnight at Jellico. The engineer refused to pull it out, but the close proximity to his head of a dangerous looking Winchester made him quickly obey all commands made upon him. They ran at the rate of fifty miles an hour through tunnels and over bridges to Coal Creek, having just arrived at the time the dispatch was sent.

All but a few alighted at Coal Creek, the few keeping possession of the train and giving their attention to the prisoners. It is announced on good authority, the special states, that the miners have wired their ultimatum to the governor, which is that unless he orders the withdrawal of the soldiers and convicts they will attack the fort this morning.
An answer was received from Buchanan in a brief space of time, evading the question and advising in a pacific tone, saying: "Be orderly, be quiet."

This greatly incensed the miners and they at once wired him an exact copy of their previous dispatch and are awaiting an answer. The plan of the miners is to attack under cover of darkness. Col.
Carter Woolford, who has his "brave Chattanooga soldiers" at Harbin still, has wired Superintendent Munger to turbish himself and troops transportation to Knoxville.

Governor Buchanan wires that he will remove the convicts in a few days. It would be hard to tell correctly just what effect the report of this message had upon them. The cool-headed ones, the men who so successfully carry the plans out, take the answer as final. They have been apprised of the scheme of the governor for the abrogation of the lease system, which at shortest must take twenty days, and recognize that the troops and convicts cannot well be removed with dignity before that time.
They are counselling the men whom they control to return to their homes, as everything is now settled.

On the other hand, the hot-headed, warm-blooded ones want to attack anyway. They think Buchanan is merely figuring for time in which to get more troops at Coal Creek. But there is one thing sure, that the prospects of an attack are much gloomier, and should one be made it will be by but one-half of the original number massed at the scene.

There is great excitement here over the mining troubles this morning, but it is mainly over the events of last night, as nothing serious has been heard from the seat of trouble since last night.
The state authorities have received numerous telegrams from Knoxville this morning, but none of them convey news of any developments. Adj. Gen. Norman says there has been no new movement or attack for the last twelve or twenty-four hours, the situation being the same as last night.

There had been no attack on the troops at Coal Creek, nor could any information be had as to the probability of any. That the garrison was in a state of siege, however, was shown by a telegram received by Col. Keller Anderson this morning saying: "I have not surrendered and will not surrender until ordered to do so by the governor." The telegram came from Knoxville, however, and as there is no wire communication between Coal Creek and Knoxville, the telegram was doubtless delayed, as another telegram was shortly afterwards received at the capital, saying that the soldiers under Col. Anderson had been captured by the miners and were on their way to Knoxville with the captured of Coal Creek.

The miners have now abolished convict labor, at least temporarily, in every mining camp in Tennessee. A number of deputy sheriffs left here this morning with about 200 conscripts to aid in restoring order. "These companies are composed of young men who have little training and will be of small service in any engagement with desperate miners.
Many of them are mere boys and go very unwillingly or with the idea that it is a mere holiday frolic. The exception to this is the Washington Light Artillery of thirty-two men. These are well trained and many of them have been actual service."

The posse summoned by the deputy sheriffs presented an odd appearance, being armed with pistols, muskets and all sorts of firearms. The militia companies of the small towns have responded very unwillingly to the call for troops. In many instances nearly all of the company has hidden until hunted up by sheriffs and deputies. The surrender of the militia at Coal Creek is still the subject of much comment here, and if these, the best trained men in the state militia, so promptly gave up with all their advantages of arms and situation, the question is asked what the raw recruits can do.

Governor Buchanan is still the subject of much bitter comment and on some sides it is charged that he is in sympathy with the miners and knew a week ago what they were going to do.
On the other hand the governor insists that he has been trying to have the matter settled peaceably and was surprised at the outbreak. Two carloads of convicts from Oliver Springs reached here at 11 o'clock. Their story of the release is exactly as heretofore telegraphed.

They were taken to the penitentiary where there are now 1,200 prisoners in accommodations and quarters barely sufficient for 500.

The guards with these convicts say that the camp doctor came in and reported that the miners numbered 2,000 and after a brief conference the surrender was made. They are very sore and say that they were tricked, as the few men in the attacking party could have been held at bay until reinforced. The reinforcements that went from Chattanooga are still awaiting orders at Harriman. The exact facts from the seat of war cannot be had promptly, as newspaper reporters caught by the miners are carried out and warned not to return under penalty of death.

Battle Reported Raging.
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 18.—A courier from Coal Creek arrived here at 1 o'clock this afternoon. When he left the valley Gen. Anderson held the fort with a mob of 3,000 to 5,000 miners surrounding the camp. Anderson has sent them word that he will die with all his men before he will surrender.

The wires to Coal Creek are down and the wildest rumors are flying. It is reported that a battle is raging, but owing to the wires being cut, the report cannot be confirmed at this hour, 2:30 p. m.

NEARING THE CRISIS.
The Miners Prepared to Attack Any Troops that Come.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 18.—News
just received at the capital says that 4,000 miners are gathered at Coal Creek and say that if the soldiers come they will be forced to return at all hazards. They are well armed and seem determined. This is the body that attacked the troops at Coal Creek this morning, and whose strength showed Col. Anderson that resistance was useless. There was a report that the governor would come at the head of the troops, but the miners declare the governor or no governor, the troops shall be turned back, and that not even will they negotiate until every soldier has been sent away.

The report of the news here caused much excitement. The capital is full of state militia, who came in on the morning trains and who leave in the afternoon for the front, many of them being made very nervous by the indications of a bitter battle. No one doubts that the miners are in earnest in their threats, and unless the state authorities back down squarely it is impossible to see how hard fighting is to be avoided.

It is now said that the governor will order every sheriff in the state to raise from 100 to 200 men for service, but as the state has no arms even for those now sworn in, the equipment of the conscripts would be very poor and efficient organization is well nigh impossible. The only hope seems to be in calling on the federal authorities, and this is advocated by many prominent people now as the existing condition is both riot and rebellion. Every large city in the state will hold mass meetings tonight to urge prompt action and discuss measures to be adopted to redeem the fair name of the state. The meeting here is expected to be a lively one.

MASSING THE FORCES.
Troops and Citizens to March on Coal Creek This Evening.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 18.— Chattanooga is today the massing point of the force that will march on Coal Creek this evening. The drizzling rain of yesterday is continuing to fall upon the troops as they move about the city waiting for the time of departure. Gen.
Sam L. Carnes arrived this morning and is quartered at the Read house. Here the companies are reporting to him and getting in shape for business.

The famous Chickasaw guards of Memphis was the first to arrive. These men marched with precision and finish.
Sixty men were there and they soon became the nucleus around which 500 men formed. The first regiment brought in 200 men and a battery of artillery. The Second shows 200 or more well disciplined men. They will leave for Coal Creek at 3 this evening.

While the soldiers are gathering, a different scene is being enacted at the courthouse. Here the sheriff's force is trying to muster 500 men as a posse.
One hundred and forty-seven have been enlisted by the force up to this hour, and bankers and business men are making all sorts of excuses to get out of serving.
Forty lawyers were summoned, and only two responded.

At the mines, nothing has yet been done. The miners have stopped every train and not allowed them to pass until they knew who was on board. Today some are inclined to view the governor's illness as a hoax. By midnight, 600 troops will be in the field ready for fight.
Deputy Sheriff M. A. Considine, with a posse of thirty citizens, reached here from Nashville at noon. Nearly all are armed with rifles, some pistols and non-descript armament.

The Copenhagen Consul.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Action has been taken in the case of Henry B.
Ryder, of Copenhagen, now under arrest for embezzlement and forgery, without waiting the arrival of the minister and consul general, Clarke Carr, at his post of duty. William Harrison Bradley, of Illinois, now consul at Nice, has been ordered by cable to proceed to Copenhagen and take charge of the con-sulate there.

Northwestern Headquarters.
NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The national Democratic campaign committee unanimously voted this evening to establish headquarters for the Northwest at Chicago. They will be in charge of Don M.
Dickinson, of Michigan, and there will be associated with him Congressman E.
B. Cable, of Illinois, and E. C. Wall, of Wisconsin.

Two New Members.
LONDON, Aug. 18.—The cabinet was completed today by the appointment of Professor J. Bryce, the distinguished writer and M. P. for South Aberdeen, to be chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster.
Right Hon. George Shaw Lefevre was appointed today first commissioner of public works and buildings.

GAVE HIMSELF UP

An Old Man Says He Committed the Borden Murder at Fall River, Mass.

He Declares He Killed Both People Out of Pure Love for Blood.

Had Borne the Knowledge of the Crime as Long as He Was Able.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 18.—Charles H. Peckham, of Central Village, Westport, Mass., walked into the Central police station this morning and said to Assistant Marshal Fleet: "Well, Mr.
Marshal, I killed Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Borden and I have come to give myself up. I went over the back fence and through the rear door of the Borden house two weeks ago today, and I killed both of those people out of pure love for blood. I went out the rear door and over the back fence and walked over the New Bedford road home. I'm the mur-derer and I want to be locked up."

The marshal took him to a cell and searched him. He found a pocket book with a few receipts in it, and also unearthed some official communications from the Russian bureau at Washington.
Peckham is 65 years old, about 5 feet 6 inches tall, and is a thin, gray-haired man. The police have started to hunt up his relatives and friends.

When asked why he committed the crime, Peckham said he had good reasons for doing it which he did not care to state. Mr. Fleet asked him what clothes he wore and he replied that he wore the same that he had on. He was asked if they were not spotted with blood and he replied no, there were no spatters because the first blow caused death and stopped the heart's action.
He said he struck the other blows by way of precaution. He then told the deputy marshal that he expected no sympathy and wanted to be held. He had borne the knowledge of the crime as long as he was able and now wanted relief of mind.

Deputy Marshal Fleet further questioned him regarding various particulars of the tragedy and he answered in a coherent manner. Immediately after he was locked up Mr. Fleet telephoned the mayor of New Bedford for particulars about Peckham. The mayor replied that he knew him very well and that he was in some way an eccentric person, but was never thought to be insane. He said that Peckham leased a small farm from the Davis estate in Westport, situated a few miles out of the city of New Bedford.

Mr. Fleet also communicated by the telephone with Andrew Jennings, attorney for Lizzie Borden. Mr. Jennings replied that he wished to see the prisoner.

THE PYTHIAN KNIGHTS.
Opening Ceremonies of the Kansas City Encampment.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 18.—Maj.
Gen. Canahan, of the Pythian Knights, arrived this morning and the white lily now floats over the headquarters tent at Fifteenth and Woodland streets. He was accompanied from Indianapolis by the quartermaster general and the commanding general and is now in full charge of the camp.

The party was met at the Union depot by a reception committee and escorted to the grounds where the encampment was formally turned over to the general.
After breakfasting at the Midland hotel, the first ceremonies of the encampment took place at Camp Shaw.

VERY HOT IN FRANCE.
Sickness and Discomfort Caused by Extra Warm Weather.

PARIS, Aug. 18.—The intense heat is causing both sickness and discomfort throughout France. Several fatal cases of sunstroke are reported. Not only was yesterday abnormally hot, but the heat was attended by peculiar variations of barometer and thermometer.
At the Mousmours at 3 o'clock in the afternoon the thermometer in half an hour fell from 86 to 83½ degrees and the barometer fell from 30 to 29.33. At 5 o'clock both instruments had resumed the normal state. At Bordeaux and Biarritz the mercury rose to 107, at Limoges to 104, Lyons to 98 and Nantes 94 in the shade.

MANY LEGS BROKEN.
Fall of a Grand Stand at an English Horse Show.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—The grand stand at the horse show being held in Buxton, Derbyshire, fell today while crowded with hundreds of persons. About 700 persons went down in the ruins. Fortunately there were, so far as can be ascertained, no fatalities.

Right Rev. George Henry Sumner, D.
D., bishop of Guildford, who was present, escaped with a broken leg. Others also had arms and legs broken, and some are said to be suffering from concussion of the brain.

Duke of Manchester Dead.
LONDON, Aug. 18.—George Victor Drogo Montague, duke of Manchester, who has been lying dangerously ill at Tanderagee castle, county of Armagh, Ireland, is dead. He was born in 1853, and on May 22, 1876, was married to Consuela, daughter of Don Antonio Vazquez Del Valle, of Ravenswood, in the United States.

Castle Renominated.
ST. PAUL, Aug. 18.—The Fourth dis-

STATE BUILDINGS

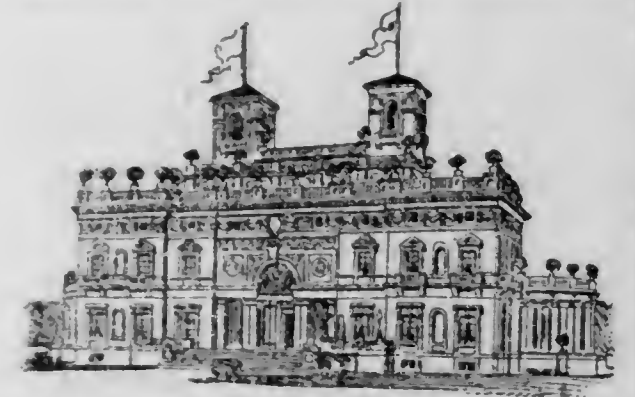

Some Structures That Will Prove Great Attractions at the Chicago World's Fair.

The Buildings of the Empire States of the East and of the South.

They Will Have Homes Befitting Their Dignity—Glance at the Swedish Building.

Of the various state buildings at the Columbian exposition that of New York will be the finest, especially in its decorations. To that state was given the most commanding position, the front place in the group of state reservations in the northern end of the exposition inclosure, and its building is flanked on one side by that of Massachusetts and on the other by that of Pennsylvania and directly fronting the Art palace.

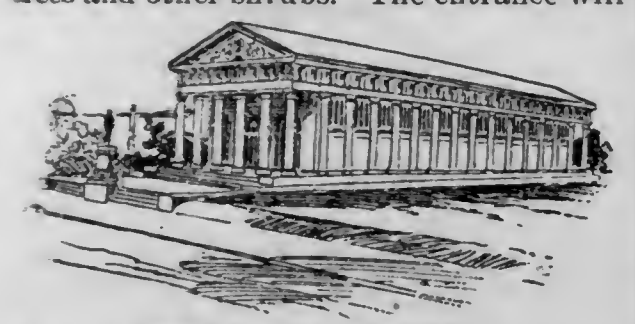

The two neighboring states decided to reproduce colonial conditions, that of Pennsylvania being modeled after Independence hall and that of Massachusetts after the Hancock house. To avoid too much uniformity New York decided upon a building in the style of the Italian Renaissance, and the architects hurried their

THE NEW YORK BUILDING. design to a completion. The result is a composition uniting the main features of the Villa Medici, the Barberini, the Farnesini and other structures of that class in Rome.

It will cover an area of 14,338 square feet, exclusive of terrace and porticoes, which have an additional area of 3,675 feet. It is rectangular in form and is approached on the south by a flight of fourteen steps 46 feet wide, giving access to a grand terrace 15 by 80 feet, from which the loggia or open vestibule, 46 by 17 1/2 feet, is reached. The length of the building proper is 154 feet, and, including porticoes, 214 feet. The depth on foundation line, including terrace and steps, is 142 feet, and the height from grade to main cornice is 63 feet 2 inches. The height to clear story cornice roof line is 77 feet 5 inches, and the height of deck 6 or between belvedere is 81 feet. The apex of the tower roofs is 96 feet above grade.

The most striking feature of the structure will be the terrace garden formed by the roofs of the east and west porticoes, the main roof and the connecting deck between the belvedere. It will be set with orange trees and other shrubs. The entrance will be flanked by the Barberini lions recently sent in Rome. There will be fountains, lamps, statues and many other exterior decorations, and the interior will be fitted up with great elegance, having not only the regular state hall, but clubroom, visitors' parlor and others. Only $125,000 were appropriated for the building, but public spirited citizens have contributed liberally to the furnishings.

Georgia was one of the states whose legislators did not make an appropriation for a building, but the citizens raised a volunteer fund of $100,000. The structure will be 150 feet long and 50 feet wide in front, built in imitation of the temples of ancient Greece, of materials exclusively Georgian—wood and plaster for the general work and panels in marble. The roof is to be terra cotta, and the floor tiled with marble. At the bottom of the front steps will stand a statue of the late Henry W. Grady.

Sweden will also erect a building on a plot conceded for that purpose opposite the Fisheries department. As the plot is triangular, the structure will be also, covering 12,000 square feet, as the plot contains but 17,300 square feet. The style will be that of the old Swedish cathedral, and the building will consist of a main floor and gallery, having a south front of 164 feet. Rising from the corner of the front elevation will be a characteristic tower 300 feet in height. The structure will be made entirely of wood.

THE SWEDISH BUILDING. Entirely in Sweden, of wood, and shipped from Stockholm to Chicago in sections. A novel feature of the Swedish exhibit will be a successive series of dwellings and articles showing the common life of Swedes for 500 years past.

Crematoriums for Garbage. The idea of cremation seems to be spreading rapidly on this side of the Atlantic. Many appliances have been invented for doing the work satisfactorily. The city council of Chicago has passed an ordinance, which has been signed by the mayor, appropriating $75,000 to build or buy crematoriums for the purpose of disposing of the city's garbage. The health commissioner has advertised for bids for the lowest figures at which anybody will furnish the city with crematoriums. This will enable inventors who have put up plants to state the price at which they will sell them.

Fell Dead. These words are very familiar to our readers, as not a day passes without the report of the sudden death of some prominent citizen. The explanation is "heart disease." Therefore beware if you have any of the following symptoms: Short breath, pain in side, smothering spells, swollen ankles, asthmatic breathing, weak and hungry spells, tenderness in shoulder or arm, fluttering of heart or irregular pulse. These symptoms mean heart disease. The most reliable remedy is Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, which has saved thousands of lives. Book of testimonials free at all druggists who sell the New Heart Cure.

Hosiery and Corsets

AT RARE BARGAINS.

LADIES

do you realize that when you buy of the retailer, you are paying three times as much as you could for the same goods if you buy direct from the manufacturer? The manufacturer sells to the commission house, the latter to the jobber, and the jobber in turn sells to the retail merchant. You must pay the manufacturer a profit first, and then pay each of the subsequent handlers a profit, not infrequently paying two profits to the retailer.

Manufacturers' Commission Co. is a responsible syndicate which sells direct to the consumer. By investing in manufacturers' samples and the stocks of insolvent manufacturers, in connection with our regular commission holdings, we are able to sell to the consumer direct at the commission price, which is but one remove from the manufacturer's.

We offer the following bargains in hosiery: Ladies' extra length, full regular made, fast black and seamless hose, very fine gauge, retailing everywhere at 50 cents) we will sell at 25 cents per pair in quantities of one-half dozen, or for $1.35.

This exceptional offer is made merely to introduce our name in your section. Send 15 cents additional and we will repay express charges at special rates secured by us for the benefit of our patrons.

We are positively offering as a leader, the cheapest corset for the money in the world, The Jenness Tailor-Made Corset is made of heaviest drab jeans, with patent stripes of gold. Made like a glove-fitting corset; boned with unbreakable stays. Has double busk and side steel. Is retailed everywhere at $1.50 and in remote sections at very much more. Our price is only 53 cents.

Send 15 cents additional to prepay express charges. Mention sizes desired in ordering hosiery or corsets. We will positively refund money if goods are not satisfactory and just as represented.

Orders must be accompanied by cash in either money-order, postal note, stamps or registered letters, addressed to the

EXCITEMENT

The Good People of South Superior in a Furor of Excitement Over a Statement Made by Mr. Mat. Holzknecht, One of Her Citizens.

Mr. Mat. Holzknecht, employed at the La Belle Wagon Works in South Superior, says "he has been troubled three years with a stomach and liver difficulty. There was great dizziness of the head, pain in the stomach and bowels, with loss of appetite. I could not sleep at night and arose more tired in the morning than when I went to bed. There was pain in the back, general weakness and great mental depression. I was very despondent over my failure to obtain relief, and was on the point of giving up my position when I saw the testimonials of some persons who had been treated by Dr. Speer & Co. I called at their office in the New York Block, corner Tower avenue and Fourteenth street, West Superior, and they located my difficulty at once. I have only been under their treatment a few weeks, but am surprised at the result. My disagreeable symptoms have rapidly disappeared. I eat and sleep well.

"The mental depression and nervousness has left me and I feel that I cannot too highly recommend Dr. Speer & Co. for what they have done for me.

"I can be found at the St. Paul House, at South Superior, and would be glad to verify this statement to any one interested."

CUT DOWN YOUR SHOE BILL

Attention, Mothers and Fathers! Why not have your Shoes and Kid Gloves as well as those of your Children looking like new continually? Why have them looking worn and rough when you can avoid it? To do this you have only to oil them once a month with Tanner's Oil. Tanner's Oil does not injure but benefits the leather. It is now prepared by us for family uses. It prevents leather getting hard and from cracking, keeps it looking fresh and smooth, makes it soft and pliable and absolutely water-proof. Best of all—Shoes and Gloves kept thusly in good condition will outwear three pair worn ordinarily. One box should last a family of three one year. On ladies' and children's wear you should use it instead of Blacking. Gentlemen can shine their shoes after using it equally as well as before. All we desire is to have you give it a trial. Shoe Dealers, Glovers, and those Dry Goods merchants who sell Kid Gloves should have it on hand to furnish up their stock that has become shopworn. It will give it an absolutely new appearance. Your youngest apprentice can apply it. Price by mail 40 cents. Special price to Dealers.

THE LABOR PARTY

George B. Keim, the gubernatorial nominee of the New Jersey Socialist Party.

Has no Hope of Election but is Running to Test the Party's Strength.

The Socialist Labor Party has no Sympathy or Affiliation With the Anarchists.

The Socialist Labor party of New Jersey has nominated as its candidate for governor George B. Keim, of Elizabeth.

In appearance Mr. Keim is about as unlike the popular ideal of a socialist as it is possible to be. He is a man of medium height, with light hair, and a particularly pleasant face, upon which are the lines of firmness and determination. His forehead is particularly high, his eyes are full and kindly in their expression and his good looking face is well set off by a dark beard and hair. Mr. Keim's social connections are excellent. His ancestors fought in the Revolutionary war, one of them holding a general's commission.

Mr. Keim is a cousin of the late receiver of the Reading railroad, and of ex-Sheriff Keim, of Philadelphia. He has a fine looking wife and an interesting pair of children, both of whom give great promise as musicians.

The Socialist nominee for governor of New Jersey is thirty-eight years old. He was born in Reading, Pa., where he lived until he was twenty years old, serving his time meanwhile as an ornamental house painter and decorator. He got married soon after in Philadelphia, and made his home in the Quaker City for fourteen years. He removed to Elizabeth about four years ago. He worked in the latter place at his trade until the beginning of the present year, when he determined to strike out for himself, and accordingly opened an establishment of his own.

Mr. Keim of course had no hope of being elected. He has no sympathy with the movement which has been active in the state and perhaps three times that many sympathizers. We expect to poll from 10,000 to 15,000 votes at the next election. I have been selected as the party's standard bearer because I have been very actively identified with the movement for the past ten years and fully understand its principles. Our chief object in putting a ticket in the field this year is to test our strength and also to educate the masses (the people to a better knowledge of what the real meaning of socialism is. It will also give us an idea what the outlook will be for our party as a political power in the future.

The socialists will not run any candidate for president, their highest aim being the government. We have no sympathy or affiliation with anarchists, and that is where the American people make a big mistake when they connect us with these rabid revolutionists. We want a better system of government than that under which we are now living—one that will be fairer in its actions toward the workingmen. We believe in legislation to reform existing abuses and think that in a few years our party will be strong enough at the ballot box to command the respect of the old parties and to help them bring about a better order of things. Our views are fully set forth in the platform adopted last year by the American Socialist Labor party and which I heartily endorse.

European Centennial Anniversaries. While the people of the western hemisphere are celebrating centennials and sesquicentennials, and erecting ready commemorations their first quoadcentennial, it seems strange to read in the European papers of jubilees in small towns at anniversaries of events of much more remote date. Basle, Switzerland, celebrated the other day the 500th anniversary, not of its foundation, which long antedates that, but of the union of great and little Basle. Early in the morning the authorities and societies of the two parts of the city met on the middle of the bridge over the Rhine, and felicitated one another upon the benefits of the union of 500 years ago. Then followed a religious service at the cathedral, a grand dinner and a great out of door historic play, in which 1,500 actors took part, with 12,000 spectators.

The performance consisted simply of four tableaux with dialogue, solos, choruses and dances and a very effective orchestral accompaniment. The tableaux represented first the Emperor Valentinian founding Basle out of the half savage fishing community, then Basle under the suzerainty of Bishop Henry of Thun, and the building of the first bridge over the Rhine, then the oppressive rule of Rudolf of Hapsburg and his downfall at Sempach, and finally a grand scene with all the characters united under the wing of Helvetia. The costumes and armor made a most brilliant display.

The Higher Education of Women. The conservative University of Virginia has partially fallen into line in the matter of the higher education of women, who will hereafter be admitted to the academic department under certain conditions. The conditions include a testimonial of good character and evidence of adequate preparation, either by certificate or examination. The female students, however, will not be allowed to attend the regular lectures of the schools, and must obtain their instruction from the professors in charge in the form of suggestions as to the text books to read and explanations of difficult passages, etc. Examinations of the women will be held from time to time on the same subjects as are included in the curriculum of the men, and to successful candidates certificates will be given. The names of the female students are to be entered on the books of the university and the privileges of study may be withdrawn at the option of the faculty.

Birds in an Organ. A rather unusual thing occurred recently in Cardiff, Wales. The organist at a church found several of the notes soundless. An examination revealed the fact that six birds, including a robin, had built their nests in the pipes.

It teaches one to wait;
For fish are very hard to court,
And slow to take the bait.

MISS NARRAGANSETT.
Her bathing dress, to make a stir,
Sticks to her like a brother;
That's why, although it pleases her,
It doesn't please her mother.

FLY PAPER.
Inward not, my sticky friend,
You look so fresh and new,
For I can see from end to end
There are no flies on you.

He Approves Them.
As the park policeman came up the gravel path the gentleman who sat with his back to a clump of bushes raised his hand warningly and inclined his head like one listening intently.
The obliging officer granted himself a special dispensation to walk on the grass and approached noiselessly.
The gentleman on the seat still strained his ears to catch the sounds from beyond the intervening screen of foliage. He was rewarded.

"Sir!"
"Oh, come now."
"You forgot yourself!"
"Yes, when I think of you."
"Flatterer!"
"Where truth is flattery, who wouldn't speak it?"
"Umph!"
"Then now, why not?"
As the lounge and the policeman peered through the branches they saw an arm stealing around a waist and heard a suppressed "Ah-h!"
Then the young man said, "Do you know I used to scratch my wrist with pins all the time until you took to wearing sun-penders?" —Detroit Tribune.

Making the Most of It.

—Life.

Johnny Reasoned from Analogy.
"Sister, how does it feel," said Johnny Squidwig to Mr. Dinwiddie as the latter waited in the parlor for his adored one.
"Indeed," replied Dinwiddie, much gratified. "Here's a quarter for you, Johnny."
The boy placed the coin in his pocket,
and the young man asked:
"What did she say about me, Johnny?"
"Well, I heard her say you were very fresh, and I know she likes fresh things, because she scolded the cook awfully this morning because her eggs at breakfast weren't fresh."
When Miss Squidwig reached the parlor
Mr. Dinwiddie was not there. —Pittsburg Chronicle.

The Usual Excuse.
Two ladies who had not seen each other for years recently met in the street. They recognized each other after a time and their recognition was cordial.
"So delighted to see you again. Why you are scarcely altered."
"So glad, and how little changed you are. Why, how long is it since we met?"
"About ten years."
"And why have you never been to see me?"
"My dear, just look at the weather we have had." —Trib. Bits.

True Love.

"Will you promise to snub that odious Miss Van Astor all this week?"
"I will."
"Well, then—yes." —Chicago News-Re-

A Fear, Ah! Too Often Justified.
It is not her husband's loneliness that brings a woman back to his waiting arms;
it is the fear that he isn't lonely.—New

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN DULUTH.

Entered at the postoffice at Duluth, Minn., as second-class mail matter.

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Aug. 18.—A storm of considerable energy passed over this section last night from South Dakota, where it originated, and has been for the past two days, and is now central over the northern part of Lake Superior.

Heavy rain fell on the northern face of the storm, principally in the Canadian provinces. Some of the heaviest of the storm was in the Northwest, where it was reported that the rain was confined entirely to the Northwest, none fell in the East or central states or around this section. Weathered had nearly half an inch and Port Arthur and St. Vincent slightly over that amount.

There has been quite a fall in temperature all over the Northwest, registering 50° to 45° in that section. Frost is reported from the upper Missouri valley. The cool wave will move rapidly this way and a set this country by tomorrow, but not to any great extent.

DULUTH, Aug. 18.—Forecast till 8 p. m. tomorrow: Fair till Sunday; slightly cooler; high northwest and west winds, becoming light tomorrow. Local Forecast: Official.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Forecast till 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Wisconsin: Showers today, followed by fair Friday; cooler; northwesterly winds. For Minnesota: Fair, preceded by showers today; cooler in eastern portions; northwesterly winds.

THE TROLLEY'S SUCCESSOR.

The attention of those interested in rapid transit has been drawn recently to a storage battery system of street railway which has been in operation in Milford, Mass., since April, 1891. The trolley system is in use in many cities merely by the sufficiency of the public, because the storage battery or some other system less dangerous and unsightly than the trolley system had not reached a state of perfection that would warrant its general adoption. The success of the system in use at Milford, however, is said to be complete and apparently will be permanent. The satisfaction it has given to its owners and to the public is said to be thorough, and consequently it must receive the attention of all street railway men as well as the residents of cities where the trolley system is used.

According to the statements of those who have recently investigated the Milford system, not a single day have the cars failed to run since the line was opened, even in the hardest winter weather. This system is not in use anywhere else. It has not been brought to the attention of the public at all. Not a share of stock in the capital of the company has been offered for public sale. There are about six miles of track, including the branches, and the equipment consists of six cars of 16-foot bodies, inside measurement. Where the track turns into the main street the combination of curve and grade makes an equivalent of a grade of 8 1/2 per cent, or, if the car turns to the right instead of the left, as usual, of about 9 1/2 per cent.

An account of a trip over the line says: "The trip we ran first was the regular one of two and one-half miles to Hope-dale, and the running time was fifteen minutes. This grade of 8 1/2 per cent was the steepest ascent, but there was a sharp descent just over the line in Hope-dale, where the grade was 10 per cent for a short distance. The car ran with perfect smoothness and even speed both going and coming. It was under complete control. It was free from the annoying whizzing sound of the trolley car. When the car is going down hill it is not necessary to use the brake at all unless it is desired to bring the car to a perfect standstill. By a turn of the lever the momentum of the car is set at work storing up electricity again in the batteries, so that when they reach the bottom of the hill they have more power than at the top. The motor is converted into a dynamo or generator of force, and it is the generation of electricity by the effect of gravity in carrying the car down hill which acts upon the wheels to cause them to move more slowly. The brake is not used at all in this operation."

The cars use each two 7/2 horse power motors, or a total of 15 horse power for a car, while the trolley system has two 15 horse power motors for the same size of car. But these motors are ample. These cars have repeatedly carried as many as ninety persons at a time up the steep grade and around the curve mentioned, without failing. These are interesting facts, because they lead to the belief that the storage battery system has been made a success. It is fully demonstrated, as it seems to have been, the objectionable trolley must speedily give way to the new system.

A GOOD CUSTOM.

Judge Allen B. Morse has been nominated by the Michigan Democrats for governor. He is a very strong man and will give Mr. Rich, the Republican nominee, a hard race at the polls. Judge Morse will at once resign his position as a member of the supreme court, feeling that it is not proper and in good taste for a man engaged in a political campaign to hold a judicial office at the same time. This has always been the custom in Michigan and in most other states and it is a good custom.

The dignity of the bench is certainly lowered when its occupant is found running around soliciting votes for a purely political office and appealing for support on party grounds. This is the surest way to drag the judiciary into the mire of politics, and members of the bar who take a pride in their profession and are desirous of having the tone of the judiciary upheld will condemn the man who will accept a political nomination without resigning his judicial position.

It is remarkable how touchy the News has become when any reference is made to the Merriam scheme to defeat Senator Davis for re-election, and equally remarkable is its professed ignorance of such a scheme being worked. Its labored attempts to show that there is no such scheme, when every man who is at all acquainted with what is going on in inside Republican circles in this state knows to the contrary, lead to the suspicion that the News is in the deal.

The St. Paul News of yesterday published in its telegraphic columns under date of Grand Marais, Minn., Aug. 17, the statement that a large wood fire has started and unless rain comes it will surely prove disastrous to Grand Marais and vicinity. As there is no telegraphic communication with Grand Marais, the alleged dispatch must be viewed with the suspicion that it is a deliberate attempt to bull the wood market.

E. G. Rogers has pulled out of the race for the Republican congressional nomination at St. Paul, leaving a clear field to Col. Kiefer. This is tough on the Pioneer Press, which has pinned its faith to Rogers, and has always opposed Col. Kiefer whenever he sought an office. If the colonel becomes the nominee, as now seems probable, the Pioneer Press will have a nauseous dish of "crow" to eat.

Charles A. Mackey announces that he has discontinued the publication of the New Duluth Pioneer, because there is a lack of business at that point. The Pioneer was a good local paper, and it is to be regretted that Mr. Mackey has felt the necessity of discontinuing it.

Another second has been clipped off the trotting record, and Nancy Hanks is now the queen of the turf, retiring Robert Bonner's Sunol from the throne. The dream of a two-minute record may yet be a reality.

The spread of anarchism is alarming. There are insurrections at present in New York, Pennsylvania and Tennessee. Whither are we drifting?

The Master Painters' association is in session in Minneapolis, and the delegates promise to decorate the town with a bright vermilion.

Can They Afford It?

Buffalo Journal: Knute Nelson was never accused of being a bribe-taker and corruptionist, consequently he was never compelled to sue for damages to his character and reputation. The farmers of this state are importuned to vote for a man who was so accused, who did sue for damages, and who had the value of his character and reputation assessed by a jury of citizens and fixed at the magnificent sum of $1. Can any farmer in Minnesota afford to vote for such a man?

Scared the Ismies.

Delano Eagle: The nomination of Knute Nelson has scared the Alliance party out of the field, and Ignatius Donnelly is looking for some loop-hole of escape. The way things are going is enough to scare almost any party with the exception of the "great unfettered."

AMUSEMENTS.

Berger-Dainty Concert.

The Berger-Dainty concert company which will give an entertainment at the Lyceum this evening comes with flattering advance notices. The Baltimore Sun says of Anna Teresa Berger, the cornetist: "She has a soft, sweet tone, and yet has abundant power when she chooses to bring it out. She does the crescendos and pianissimos and double tonguings in the approved school, and she occasionally uses the staccato, obtaining a delicate tone of exceeding sweetness." Of Laura Dainty, the elocutionist, the Omaha Bee says: "Mrs. Dainty's first and greatest merit is her naturalness. She never overdoes her performance. She enters heartily into the spirit of each condition, and a clear and distinct articulation, a very flexible voice and a considerable power of dramatic action aid her in conception of her selections in a manner which is always effective."

Leon Marx, the violinist, also receives many compliments. His playing is noticeable for clearness of execution, great mastery over mechanical difficulties, delicacy of shading, and a fire and verve which carries an audience irresistibly with him. Miss Kate Eloise Donahue, the contralto, has a voice of exceptional range and purity and is obtaining an enviable reputation. Miss Evelyn Stoddard, the pianist, is a young lady who is rapidly coming to the front.

The Breton Fete.

Preparations for the Breton Fete are progressing favorably and the interest is not lagging in the least. The dances are being rehearsed every day in the stock exchange room and will be very interesting and unique. The erection and arrangement of the booths will be a very short matter, everything being in readiness. The supper will be served each evening by the different churches of the city.

THE EARTH SHOOK

Southern Part of Wales Visited by Three Shocks of Earthquake Last Night.

The People Awakened From Sleep Rushed Into the Street in a Panic.

Crockery was Smashed and Furniture Moved by the Shaking of the Buildings.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—An earthquake last night caused considerable consternation in Pembrokeshire, the extreme southwestern county of Wales. People were generally asleep, when a low rumbling noise was heard, and the houses rocked and shivered like a ship. In Haverford west, the rumbling and trucking motion were particularly heard and felt, and hundreds of people awakened from their sleep and rushed out into the street in their night gowns without waiting to dress. Crockery was smashed and furniture moved by the shaking of the buildings which lasted, however, but a few seconds.

The people remained in the streets panic stricken and fearful of a more disastrous visitation. After an interval another shock came, but it was slight as compared with the first, and did no damage. Then was another interval and another shock, also slight. After some time, as there was no more sign of seismic disturbances, people returned into their houses and tried to sleep. The day preceding the shock had been extremely sultry for that section, so near the breezes of the Irish sea, and a dull, heavy heat seemed ominous of something unusual.

At St. David's, the shock was felt with as much force as at Haverford west. The day was very warm, and toward evening there was a dull, copper hue in the sky, while the slight breeze entirely ceased and the atmosphere was oppressively still. The color of the sky aroused considerable remark, and was thought to portend a storm. The night was almost as oppressive as the afternoon, and when the shock came many of the people were out in front of their houses, dozing or trying to sleep in the open air.

The shock was a smart one, and the damage resulting was chiefly to property. In one instance a mirror cracked in a house. In St. David's most of the people remained up almost all night and many of them in the streets. The people living near St. David's say that the sea was unusually quiet, and almost glassy last evening. The first shock was accompanied with considerable turbulence of the waves, and a large wave swept in, tossing the foam high upon the rocks.

This tumult of the water continued for some minutes and ceased shortly after the final shock. In other parts of South Wales the earthquake was not felt so severely as in Pembrokeshire, but the disturbance was noticed as far east as Monmouthshire.

Swamp Land Decisions. WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Twelve decisions were rendered against the state of Minnesota yesterday. They were swamp land contests in the Duluth and St. Cloud districts. The commissioners had decided against the state, and Acting Secretary Chandler affirmed the decision.

Planing Mill Burned. FT. SCOTT, Kans., Aug. 18.—Early this morning the Ft. Scott planing mill, together with its contents, was completely destroyed by fire. The Navy Carriage works adjoining the planing mill were badly damaged. The total loss is about $25,000. During the fire a number of horses attached to the fire steamer ran away and were captured after a chase of three miles.

To Repulse the Afghans. CALCUTTA, Aug. 18.—The Indian government has ordered 350 infantry and cavalry to Bhootan, in the eastern Himalayas, to counteract the intrigues and aggressions of the Afghans in that direction and to assist the natives, if necessary, in repelling an attack.

A SPARKLING DISPLAY.

Perhaps, of all other seasons of the year, this is the best for making advantageous purchases of jewelry. There isn't much fluctuation in the value of what a jeweler sells, because jewellers have nothing perishable to dispose of, but there are times when for a variety of reasons, prices fall off a little, and this is more particularly the case when business generally is feeling the effects of oppressively hot weather. You will readily understand, therefore, why just now, we are offering some especially attractive inducements in jewelry.

No Money Can Buy This Boy.

Mrs. William May Smith, of Provincetown, Mass., a portrait of whose little son is given here, writes:

"My baby was a frail little thing when he was born. He was nursed at the breast until he was four months old, when the doctor said he and his mother would both die if he was not weaned. We tried cow's milk, which was not adapted to his needs, so we used lactated food, following the directions exactly. Since then he has gained a pound a month, has had very little sickness and seems strong and bright. One friend said of him: 'I would not have given two cents for him when he was two weeks old, but now, if he was mine, no money could buy him.' And I am sure his father and mother agree with the last clause of that statement."

There is considerable talk of starting a co-operative meat market at this place. The matter is being looked into and seriously considered by a considerable number of people who do not look with favor on the recent combine of the market men and the simultaneous rise in the price of meat. One of the market men was fined $50 yesterday by the association for selling for less than the agreed price and several of these market owners consider the price of meat as extortionate. The market men's association have secured the co-operation of the wholesalers at this point, and it is reported that no shop outside of the association can buy a pound of meat from them. There are loud complaints here and the people are getting very angry.

Company H did itself proud last evening, it being the occasion of the company's annual ball. The members never looked better than in their new dress uniforms, and the large attendance from the other company and the outsiders crowded the hall. The music was exhilarating and the pleasantly cool weather was very appropriate for a summer ball.

Mr. O. H. Nelson is no longer connected with the drug store owned by J. E. Phelan, and known as the West Duluth Drug company, nor is he in any manner connected with or employed by Mr. Phelan.

Mrs. B. Carroll leaves this evening for Toronto, Canada, where she will visit her parents.

At the Church of St. Anthony of Padua, Northeast Minneapolis, this morning, Miss Tina Burns, of Minneapolis, was married to J. J. Ryan, of West Duluth. Miss Burns is a former resident of this place and the young people have a host of friends here. After a trip east, visiting Milwaukee, Chicago and Sault Ste. Marie, Mr. and Mrs. Ryan will return to this place about Sept. 1.

Charles A. Brophy, of Chicago, was a guest of his brother, R. C., at this place yesterday.

Mrs. M. J. Mullalley, of Marquette, Mich., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Day.

Emil Zauf returned last evening from Two Harbors.

Ticked With Denver.

Nearly all of the Duluth Knights Templar who attended the triennial convocation at Denver have returned. They speak very highly of Denver and the reception given them by the people of that city. The illuminations, they declare, were the grandest thing ever seen in the country and probably in the world. It was not only a few streets that were lighted up but the illuminated way extended to all over the city. Denver even went to the extent of building another electric plant for furnishing lights for the illumination. The set pieces were nearly all secured for the Minnesota state fair. Before returning many of the Duluth knights visited the various places of interest around Denver and they are very numerous.

District Court Matters. D. H. Twomey, R. F. Willcuts and S. T. Harrison, the commissioners who were appointed to appraise lands which the Duluth Transfer Railway company is condemning, reported yesterday in favor of awarding $8000 to the owners of that part of government lot 1, section 5, 10-14 lying south of the St. Paul & Duluth and Northern Pacific right-of-way.

Martin Wheeler has brought suit for $2400 due on two promissory notes given to H. S. Gillette by Daniel Duggan and by him transferred to the plaintiff.

Enormous Sale of Zola's Novels.

Those persons who are of the opinion that the school of so called realism, of which M. Emile Zola is the leading exponent, has no considerable following will doubtless be astounded that more than 1,300,000 copies of that erratic and erotic Zola's novels have been sold, and the translations are not included in this estimate. It is not surprising to learn that "Nana" heads the list with 160,000 copies, for Zola grows fastest in literary as well as in other fields. The great royalties which these enormous sales must yield to the author ought to console him for the injury done his vanity by the academy in refusing him admission to the ranks of the "Immortals."

How the Skirt Dance Originated.

Twenty years ago there were two kinds of professional dancing. One was of the court, the other of the gutter; one of high and ancient lineage, the other of obscure and servile origin; one belonged to the theater and appealed to society, the other flourished at the music hall and entertained its beery patrons. In other words, there was the classical dance of the academy—the ballet—and there was the clog dance, which is believed to have originated in the factories of Lancashire. The modern skirt dance, about which we all seem to have gone more or less crazy, is the result of a union between them, and the hand, or rather the foot, which brought them together was that of Mr. John D'Auban. This gentleman, an Englishman, was brought up in the straightest sect of the Pharisees—that is to say, in the strict school of the academy. But he happened to be a man of ideas, and early in life conceived the notion of turning his accomplishment to a better purpose than could be done in the regular ballet. With the help of his sister he brought out a novel and dance sketch called "Ain't She Very Shy?" in which classical means were adopted to "grotesque" ends, and thus the modern skirt dance was begun.

The Battery Worked Too Well.

A resident of Riverside, Cal., owns a lazy horse. He fixed up a battery in the buggy to give the animal an electric shock occasionally instead of using a whip. He was to press the button with his foot, and the electricity was to do the rest. At the first pressure, however, the horse kicked the carriage so hard that some portions of it have not come down yet.

Woman's World in Paragraphs.

In these two things put not overmuch faith: A man's honor and woman's silence.

Two American women writers, Kate Sanborn and Marietta Holly, are blessed with an exquisite sense of humor.

Susan B. Anthony says she can always tell what kind of a wife a man has by his views on the woman question.

Carroll D. Wright, United States commissioner of labor, makes one of the best contributions to knowledge of the woman question that has appeared in years in his recent magazine article on the "Industrial Emancipation of Woman." In that noble paper he declares that this industrial emancipation is the forerunner of all other emancipation for the sex. He is right.

Score one for woman. The opening ode to be read at the dedication of the Columbian fair in October was written by a woman, Miss Harriet Monroe, of Chicago, and the committee on ceremonies paid her $1,000 for it.

Kindergarten training is the foundation of the new education which is to make mankind happier, better and more beautiful. Every woman whose soul is large enough and sweet enough to understand the true meaning of kindergarten work has a field of usefulness here. If she is rich, she can pay her debt to the race by working gratuitously in this field. If she has her living to earn, she can earn it nobly here.

This Calf Was Almost Twins.

A cow owned by William Bower, a farmer living near Keyport, N. J., recently gave birth to a calf which had a round head with three eyes, two noses, four ears, two throats, two tongues, two sets of teeth and a double lower jaw. One of the eyes was in the center of the forehead, from which projected a double ear.

Final Assessment

For Sewer in Blocks 59 and 60, Endion Division.

Office of the Board of Public Works, City of Duluth, Minn., Aug. 18, 1892.

Notice is hereby given that a contract has been completed for the construction of a sanitary sewer through blocks 59 and 60, Endion division, in the city of Duluth, Minnesota; that the board of public works of said city will meet at their office in the city hall in said city, on Monday, the 29th day of August, A. D. 1892, at 10 o'clock a. m., to make an assessment of the sum of one thousand three hundred and twenty-six ($1326) dollars and forty-eight (48) cents upon the real estate benefited by such sanitary sewer, for the purpose of raising money to in full defray the expense thereof.

The following lands situated in said city, viz: The northern half of blocks 59 and 60 in Endion division of Duluth are deemed benefited by said sanitary sewer and will be so assessed unless cause be shown why any of them should not be so assessed.

A GREAT SUCCESS

The Q. F. U. Fair Exceeds the Anticipations of Its Most sanguine Projectors.

Brilliant and Beautiful Scene With Bewitching Young Ladies in Charge.

A Handsome Sum Will be Turned Over to the Children's Temporary Home.

The young ladies who arranged the Q. F. U. fair have labored persistently and very hard, but they were more than amply repaid by the success which crowned their efforts yesterday afternoon and evening. Several hundred persons visited the Spalding parlors and all evening they were crowded with young and old with a few pieces of silver which were willingly transferred to the coffers of the Q. F. U. club and will be turned into the not overhanging treasury of the temporary home for women and children.

The booths were all very pretty and equally so were the fair maidens who presided over them. The fancy article booth was stationed in the center of the eastern parlor and was presided over by Miss Telza B. Hirsch, who impersonated Martha Washington, and was attired in a colonial gown and wearing a powdered wig. The flower stand was in charge of Miss Florence Bailey and Miss Mae Maxwell, who were as bright and charming as the buds they sold. The Japanese booth was a delightful creation and its destiny was under the guidance of Miss Julia Chapin, who looked very dainty as Yum-Yum or some other equally dashing Japanese maiden. Off in another corner was the gypsy tent, looking mysterious and wild, and supposed to be inside a fascinating gypsy in the person of Miss Virginia La Vague revealed the past and future for a meek sum. Her costume was particularly fine. The young men and the old men as well found the candy booth a very pleasing spot, and well they might, with two such young ladies as Miss Mabel White and Miss Jessie Stocking, who, as some one remarked, were sweeter than the candy they sold. The lemonade stand was stationed just outside of the parlor. This was an enchanting little booth and was splendidly patronized. The refreshments were served from this booth by Miss Bernice Crowley, a bewitching young lady, who was surrounded by a crowd of admirers all evening. A number of young ladies assisted in the charge of the booth, among them Misses Bessie Strayer, Alice Peyton, Minnie McLean, Jennie Magoffin, Margaret Graff, Fannie Edwards and May Ford. George Spence carved the cake and Don McLennan captured the ring.

The parlors were beautifully decorated and the scene was an alluring one indeed. A handsome sum was realized although it is not known just yet what the receipts were. The young ladies on the result of their work and are indeed entitled to great credit for a more commendable object could not have been chosen.

A PECULIAR ACCIDENT.

A Gravel Train On the St. Paul & Duluth Carries a Truck. Yesterday's southbound "limited" on the St. Paul & Duluth road was delayed near Stacy station about three-quarters of an hour by a peculiar accident, and the passengers gathered out en masse and gathered golden rod and other wild flowers and picked berries. The accident was occasioned by the cable hook on a gravel train becoming detached from the plow just at the end of the gravel train. Before the engine could be stopped the great iron hook had thumped along the ties finally lodging in the rods of the slide rails at the switch, utterly destroying the alignment of the track.

Just before reaching Harris and while the limited was rushing on southward about fifty miles an hour a drove of cattle rushed on the track from behind some bushes.

The engine struck the last one fairly, and the huge beast went fifty thirty feet into the air landing by the side of the track stone dead. There was no noticeable jar.

LARGE PINE PURCHASES.

The Weyerhaeuser Get a Large Tract on the Rainy River.

It was stated the other day at the meeting of the lumbermen in Minneapolis, that Fred Weyerhaeuser, the Rock Island lumber prince, has purchased a large tract of pine on the Rainy river, in the north of Itasca county. The rumor was generally believed, but Mr. Weyerhaeuser who was present, would neither affirm nor deny the report, treating it, as his wont in the largest of transactions, very lightly.

This pine goes into Canadian waters, and this is the first move the Weyerhaeuser has ever made on lumber going necessarily to the Canadian market. Since the last meeting of the Mississippi Valley association, the Weyerhaeuser has purchased, exclusive of this reported deal, nearly $1,000,000 worth of pine on the Upper Mississippi. They secured over 300,000,000 feet in the Wright & Davis deal on Swan river and Swan lake, also in Itasca county, and nearly twice that amount in the Northern Pacific deals.

The Weyerhaeuser syndicates, including the Pine Tree Lumber company, own not less than $2,000,000 worth of white pine in the state at its purchase value, all obtained within the past two years.

Her Trial Trip.

The new whaleback steamer Pillsbury, built for the Soo line, was given her trial trip yesterday afternoon, and quite a number of Duluth and Superior people went out on her. She went out in the lake and steamed around for a while, behaving admirably. Henry Beattie, manager of lake traffic of the Canadian Pacific road, was among those aboard the boat. After her return she went to the Great Northern elevators to take on

SUPERIOR NEWS.

Assignee Fowler, of the Woolen Mills, Makes a Statement.

Assignee Fowler, of the Superior Woolen mills, has made a statement of the condition of the company, and places the nominal liabilities at $128,000 and the nominal assets at $86,000. Of the liabilities the Land and River Improvement company holds a mortgage on plant for $31,200, and the Farmers' National bank, of Portsmouth, O., puts in a claim of $35,800. When the stock on hand is figured the liabilities do not come much above $25,000. The Land and River Improvement company may bid in the property when the sale comes off.

No reply has been received as yet by Coroner Whitney from Madison, where the stomach of Mrs. Helen Talton was sent to be analyzed.

Mike Doe, working on one of the vessels in port unloading railroad iron, had his feet crushed by a rail falling upon him.

The following delegates to the Grand Forks reciprocity convention have been chosen: E. M. Hills, Martin Patison, James H. Agren, E. E. Barton, Frank Nathan, Ed Kennedy, Fernando Winsor, W. F. Street and Graham L. Rice. Fifteen more delegates will be selected later.

Arrested for Contempt.

John Gagnon was arrested yesterday for contempt of court. He was fined $50 at the instance of the district court for assaulting Thomas Sammers and was allowed to go in order to raise the money. He did not turn up again and a warrant for contempt has been out against him for some time. He will be called up for a hearing Saturday.

Held to the Jury.

Edward Norton, who was arrested for keeping a house of ill fame at St. Paul, was given a preliminary examination yesterday before Judge Winje in the municipal court. The evidence against him was very strong and he was held to the grand jury with bail fixed at $500.

The case against Mrs. Casille L. Andre for using abusive language to a neighbor was dismissed.

Coming to Duluth.

N. R. Stohr has been appointed assistant city ticket agent of the Great Western, succeeding W. E. Thorn, who comes to Duluth with Frank Ross to take charge of the St. Paul & Duluth ticket office during A. Nelson's leave of absence for a year. The change will occur about the end of the present month.

Will Organize.

The meeting called for last evening to organize a uniform Republican organization in taking the preliminary steps toward that end, a committee with T. W. Abell at its head was appointed to prepare a plan of organization and report next Wednesday evening.

The owners of Wynka Lodge at Deerwood, have just been entertaining a gentleman from Milwaukee, who is so enthusiastic over the place that he proposes to go home and interest a number of his Milwaukee friends in forming a rod and gun club for Deerwood, in spite of the fact that it is a twenty-four hour ride from their homes. He says: "I have heretofore been unable to tell any fish stories that were not lie; now I can tell bigger ones than ever, and they will be true."

IT LOOKS GRAVE

All the Lake Shore Switchmen at East and South Buffalo Have Struck.

Sheriff Beck has Called for the Whole National Guard and Orders Issued.

All Quiet in the Yards Today, the Many Soldiers Compelling Good Order.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 18.—The sixth day of the strike has dawned and the situation is grave and threatening. At 1:30 this morning all the Lake Shore switchmen at East and South Buffalo struck and the Lackawanna men are restless and the sheriff has asked the governor to call out the entire National Guard for the protection of railroad property. After declining, on the ground that it would involve a needless expense to the county, the railroad's quest was acceded and a dispatch signed by Sheriff Beck and Mayor Bishop, was sent to the chief executive of the state. Troops are being mobilized and soon Buffalo will be nothing more than a huge barracks.

"Among railroad men the feeling is 'not or never' as regards organized labor. It is looked upon by them as a fight to the death, in the light of their experience of two years ago with the New York Central and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy. A conference of the tied-up lines was held at midnight, and a formal and urgent demand was made upon the sheriff to call for more troops, and he made a demand on the governor. Ten minutes after the message had been sent Mr. Webb received a telephone message from Gen. Porter saying that he was preparing the orders as rapidly as possible, and that when all the papers were ready the governor would be awakened and his signature obtained. Shortly before 3 o'clock a message was received that the governor would be awakened and his signature obtained."

It was about 1:30 o'clock this morning when the Lake Shore switchmen went on strike. Shortly before 1 o'clock the New York Central offered to the Lake Shore west bound yards at East Buffalo, two trains of freight and one passenger train to do so by the night yardmaster. He at once discharged them and the rest of the men followed them. There are about 200 switchmen employed in the yards. Word was at once sent to the camp and Col. Welch aroused. He ordered a company under arms to go to the yards.

Gen. Supt. Blodgett was on the scene and at once prepared to take command of the company. This morning a formal notice will be served on the authorities holding the county responsible for the safety of the company's property. The agreement with the switchmen of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh was signed last night and the men are at work again. At 2:30 o'clock this morning a report was current that the Lackawanna and Nickel Plate men had gone out. Investigation shows that they are still working, but no one can tell what will happen.

The meeting of division No. 187 of the Brotherhood of Trainmen last night did not conclude until after midnight. The discussion was loud and animated and the occasional outbursts of cheers attracted attention on the streets. Of course, the session was strictly private, but it was freely rumored on the outside that the trainmen are in the firemen's strike and ready to join in the strike, should further measures be deemed necessary.

Rumors are also prevalent this morning that the engineers are in sympathy with the strike and may join it.

"This strike," said one of the railroad employees this morning, "will be the greatest this country has seen and will extend from California to the Southern states unless it is settled soon."

Camp Lehigh presented a quiet appearance last night and not a ripple of trouble occurred to mar the slumber of the tired out soldiers. Nothing but the solemn and silent night march of the sentries and the glistering of the electric lights on their bayonets indicated that here was the scene of the military camp. Here and there on the outskirts of the camp, lines could be seen, the pickets of the strikers keeping watch of the movements of the soldiers in the shadows of the camp. Occasionally a train would go through the silent yards with a roar and a rumble and a swishing of steam, which would make every man in camp turn over and take another grip at his knapsack.

Camp Lehigh was asleep there were many people concerned in the strike who were wide awake and busy the long night through. Grand Master Sweeney and his men were in conference. Grand Master Wilkinson was conferring with representatives of the Trainmen's union, and the arbitration committee was laboring among themselves and the strikers and accomplishing nothing at all. In addition to this the firemen's union was in session endeavoring to straighten out their tangle, and Chief Arthur, of the Locomotive engineers, was speeding toward Buffalo as fast as a train could carry him. Within twelve hours all the labor leaders will have assembled here and the exact situation will be known.

There simply was not a ripple of excitement this morning in the Central, Erie, West Shore, Lehigh, Lake Shore and other freight yards at East Buffalo. Soldiers were everywhere and sentries, footsore and weary, paced up and down the hot tracks. But a few strikers were to be seen. They attempted no violence. There were altogether too many soldiers on hand for them to do anything of that kind. They stood around in little knots whispering to each other mysteriously, but they were not making any threats.

There is a blockade of freight that from present appearances will take weeks to remove. Only perishable freight is receiving any attention and it is getting very little. The Central, West Shore, Erie, Lake Shore and Lehigh Valley yards are simply choked up with freight cars. The engines are idle and the crews pass the time discussing the issues of the strike, and wondering what the next move is to be. Only the main tracks are kept open and this is a difficult job.

So far there is no delay to passenger trains. They are coming in and going out on schedule time. The strikers say that they will not bother them. The different yards are well taken care of by the militia. A long line of sentries surrounds the Lehigh and Erie yards in Cheektowaga, and it is next to impossible for stranger or strikers to get anywhere near the yards. The soldiers have strict orders not to admit anybody except those who really have business there, of the most important character, and then they are only admitted inside the lines on passes. There are guards everywhere in fact.

The strike on the Lake Shore resulted in a thorough tie-up of all freight traffic this morning, but the passenger trains were leaving and arriving nearly on time. Militiamen are stationed at points through the yards, and at the Exchange street depot, but there were few in number. The big yards are literally glutted with freight cars and passenger trains glide between them like tapes. A Rochester & Pittsburgh passenger train tried to run in at 8:30 o'clock, but was obliged to back out again. There was much difficulty entering the Exchange street depot.

The big train house was glutted with cars. The switchmen at work were greenhorns and they had the difficulty naturally to be expected from inexperienced men. So far no disposition toward evil interference has been shown at these yards, and the green hands are at work and are attending to their duties under military guard. When Trainmaster Barnett told Col. Welch he wanted soldiers to accompany them, and that officer detailed two companies to go with the trains. The soldiers accompanied the trains to Attica and there left them, the trainmen saying they could get through all right. More trains will go east today.

The Lackawanna switchmen are still at work at 11 o'clock this morning. A fireman told the United Press reporter that the men were all at work as usual. "We are handling our own cars, but not any cars of other roads," he said. "We are getting along fairly well." At the same hour, at the Nickel Plate offices, it was stated that their switchmen were all at work. "Whether they will go out," said the official in charge, "we do not know."

NEW QUEEN OF THE TURF.

Nancy Hanks Clips a Second Off the Trotting Record.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Nancy Hanks trotted a mile at Washington Park yesterday in 2:07 1/4. The great mare was sent to beat her own record of 2:09 and not only upset that mark so decisively, but broke all existing records of the trotting turf. The 2:08 1/4 of Maud S. dwindles into obscurity and the world's record of 2:03 1/4 held by Robert Bonner's Samol, pales by a full second before the clip set by the peerless Nancy Hanks, now supreme queen of trotters.

The heat was a memorable one. Nancy Hanks was a short mile to warm her up, and the attempt to reduce her record began. Frank Starr accompanied her with a runner. The mare sped toward the wire like a machine and Doble having noticed the time, was on the ground, and the famous mile race was on. The fan of the whip just tickled her sides as she raced toward the first turn and she passed the club house so rapidly that veterans of the turf declared that she was going too fast to hold out at that pace to the end.

The quarter was reached in 31 1/2, but the mare was going as steadily as a statue. When she flashed past the half-mile pole in 1:03 1/2 there was a great murmur of surprise. Just then Starr moved the runner to Doble's wheel. He had been trailing up to that point. The thoroughbred, however, appeared to be an unnecessary continuation for the mare neither faltered nor lost courage.

When the three-fourths flag went down the time recorded was 1:36 1/2, and then for the first time Doble began to urge the mare. Into the stretch she leaped, Starr now sending the runner level with Nancy and as she came toward the finish the more enthusiastic of the spectators began to cheer. On swept the mare, and faster and faster Starr urged the runner. At the final eighth pole Doble's hands were raised. With voice and rein he coaxed her to the effort of her career and thus forced her out to the very limit of speed and endurance. The applause died away and an amazed crowd stared at the mare. Doble lifted Nancy Hanks under the wire, and so placed the mare as ruler of the trotting kingdom.

MURDERED A KEEPER.

Escape of a Notorious Crook from a Workhouse.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 18.—Charles Havers, alias Hunter, a notorious crook, sawed his cell door at the Allegheny county workhouse at 3 o'clock this morning, and after cutting Keeper J. W. Eberhart so that he will die, made his escape. Havers was serving his third term of imprisonment. Yesterday he played sick and did not work.

He used a saw made of an old case knife and with it cut his cell door. Keeper Eberhart was beaten to insensibility with a bar of iron and badly cut with the saw knife. The murderous demon then jumped on him, tramping his vitals out.

Havers then drew his victim in his own cell, took his keys, locked the cell door and fled. The prison authorities did not discover the assaulted man until early this morning.

Two Were Killed.

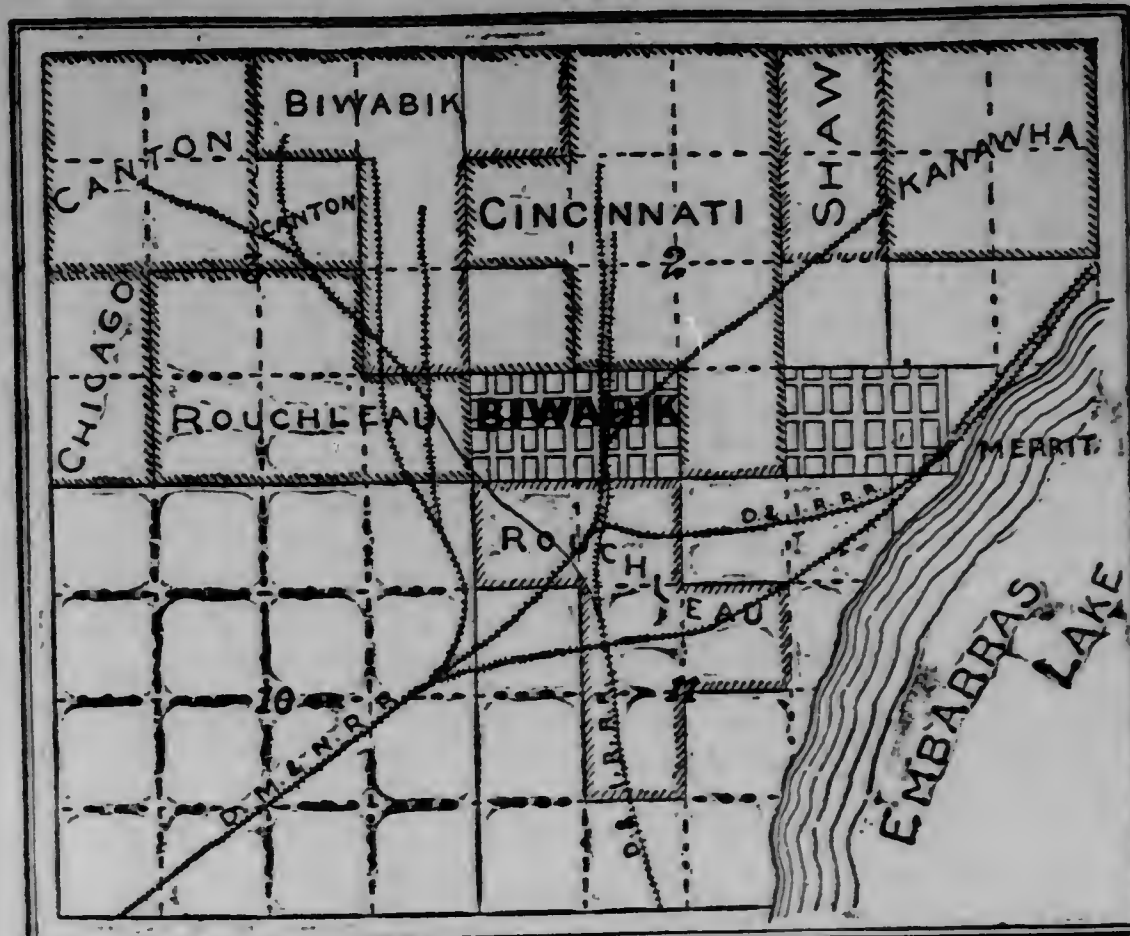

PRINCETON, Ky., Aug. 18.—A general fight with guns and knives took place between the Hynes and Payne families last night. The fight grew out of an old grudge and was participated in by about a dozen members of both families. It is believed that two of the Paynes were killed.

A Town in Danger.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 18.—The threat of a levee is threatened with inundation, the result of a crack in the levee. The crack is about six inches wide and is spreading rapidly. Large gangs are at work trying to stop the crevasse.

A Town Devastated.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 18.—Fire broke out in the rear of the Advocate office at Kenrick, Idaho, and devastated the yesterday morning, and devastated the entire business portion of the town. The loss is estimated at $80,000.

TOWN OF BIWABIK

Located at the junction of the Duluth, Mesaba & Northern and the Duluth & Iron Range railroads, and near the Biwabik and other big mines, is the most promising town on the range for a center of population. Several hundred men will soon be employed there and must have homes. Lots are selling every day and BUILDINGS ARE RAPIDLY GOING UP. A good opening for business or for profitable investment. Now is the time to buy, as prices start low and will advance.

CONSUMED BY FLAMES.

The Business Portion of An Ohio Town Destroyed By Fire.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 18.—The business portion of South Charleston, O., five miles southeast of here on the Little Miami river, was destroyed by fire early this morning. It broke out in J. B. Allen's tin and stove store, and owing to the inefficiency of the fire department, spread to Allen's grocery store and dwelling, McIntyre's bakery and ice cream parlor, Lucky's drug store and furniture warehouse, Nicholson's grocery and dwelling and the G. A. R. hall. The loss will reach $30,000, most of the goods being saved.

KIEFER HAS A WALK-OVER.

Rogers Pulls Out of the Congressional Race at St. Paul.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 18.—Edward G. Rogers, who has been running a neck-and-neck race with Col. Kiefer for the Republican congressional nomination in the St. Paul district, is out in a letter withdrawing from the contest.

The reasons given by him in this action are that he is anxious not to imperil the fruits of the victory won over the city hall gang in the spring election. He says that he and his friends will support Kiefer. This makes the nomination for Kiefer practically certain.

A St. Cloud Separation.

ST. CLOUD, Aug. 18.—A sensational divorce case is said to be on the tapis, to be brought by Ed. A. Brown, a well-known railway employee, against his wife.

They have separated and she has placed his case with an attorney. She was formerly Mrs. Pat Roakes and is a handsome woman, young and of a respectable family. This case will be a great shock to her friends. The other man in the case is a prominent local sport.

Sponsor Nominated.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 18.—The Republican state convention yesterday nominated ex-Senator Spooner for governor by acclamation. John C. Koch, of Milwaukee, was named for lieutenant governor. The other nominees are: Secretary of state, R. W. Jackson; attorney general, James J. O'Neill; superintendent of public instruction, W. H. Chandler; railway commissioner, John D. Bullock; insurance commissioner, James E. Heg.

The Schads Case.

ST. CLOUD, Minn., Aug. 18.—Judge Searle has rendered a decision in the celebrated Albany mill case, which has been hanging fire in the district court for two years. The order of the court is that if P. J. Schaps will pay defendants, Dredrich, Lehner and Kulzer, $3,000 within sixty days after the filing of the judgment the deeds shall be set aside and he shall be entitled to the full possession of his property.

May be a Murder.

ST. CLOUD, Aug. 18.—Dr. Beebe was summoned to Avon to attend Bartel Worwas, who was brutally beaten a week ago Sunday in a fight. It was stated yesterday that Worwas cannot possibly live and his assailants who are now in the county jail may have to answer to the charge of murder.

The First Train.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 18.—The first train over the Great Northern road arrived in the city yesterday morning. The train arrived at the Union Pacific depot shortly before 9 o'clock. A large crowd was present to witness its arrival. The train left Spokane last night for St. Paul, making the first train through both ways on the new road.

City of Duluth, Minn., Aug. 15, 1892.

To the President and Common Council of the City of Duluth:

At a meeting of the board of public works held August 15, 1892, the acting city engineer submitted estimates of work done by sewer contractors, as follows:

John P. Cleveland & Co., sanitary sewer in blocks 2, 3, 20, 21 and 22, $1,109 04
E. Engle, sanitary sewer in Fifth street from Sixth street to Tenth avenue east, 1,015 62
McIntire, sanitary sewer in Third street from Seventh avenue east to Tenth avenue east, 1,519 38

Total, $3,644 04
The estimates were approved and ordered sent to the common council.

Respectfully submitted,
T. W. ABELL,
Clerk Board of Public Works.

Referred to committee on streets, alleys and bridges.

Office of the Board of Public Works,
City of Duluth, Minn., Aug. 12, 1892.

To the President and Common Council of the City of Duluth:

It will be necessary for safety to place a coping and railing along the top of the retaining walls on Second street, near Eighth avenue west. This was not included in the original estimate, and the board respectfully ask authority to have it constructed. An approximate estimate of the cost is $500.00.

Respectfully submitted,
T. W. ABELL,
Clerk Board of Public Works.

Referred to committee on streets, alleys and bridges.

Office of the Board of Public Works,
City of Duluth, Minn., Aug. 15, 1892.

To the President and Common Council of the City of Duluth:

ground by the Shillier Bridge company for the construction of an iron viaduct over the railroad tracks on Lake avenue, amounting to $14,581.55. The estimate was approved and ordered sent to the common council.

Respectfully submitted,
T. W. ABELL,
Clerk Board of Public Works.

Referred to committee on streets, alleys and bridges.

Office of the Board of Public Works,
City of Duluth, Minn., Aug. 15, 1892.

To the President and Common Council of the City of Duluth:

At a meeting of the board of public works held August 15, 1892, the acting city engineer submitted a final estimate of work done on the contract of John A. McLean & Co. for the improvement of Third street from Twenty-eighth street to the west city limits, amounting to $1,932.34. The work was accepted and the final estimate approved and ordered sent to the common council.

Respectfully submitted,
T. W. ABELL,
Clerk Board of Public Works.

Referred to the committee on streets, alleys and bridges.

Office of the Board of Public Works,
City of Duluth, Minn., Aug. 15, 1892.

To the President and Common Council of the City of Duluth:

John McLean, contractor for the improvement of West Third street, abandoned some time ago, leaving the bondsmen to finish the work. When the work of graveling the street was begun the city allowed the contractors to obtain gravel from the city's pit at the rate of one cubic yard for $2.00, and the acting city engineer has filed a bill for the amount of $1,200.00 for the gravel. The contractors have refused to pay the bill, and the city is now in a position to sue them for the amount.

T. W. ABELL,
Clerk Board of Public Works.

Referred to committee on streets, alleys and bridges.

Office of the Board of Public Works,
City of Duluth, Minn., Aug. 15, 1892.

To the President and Common Council of the City of Duluth:

It has been the custom in publishing the council proceedings to include in one sum under the heading "engineer's pay roll" the cost of maintaining the city's water works, including the roller and rock crusher, repairing streets, the gas and water company, and other items which are related to the engineer's department only in so far as that department is entrusted with the supervision of the work. The board would most respectfully ask that the city clerk be instructed to have these various items published separately so that the taxpayers may understand clearly how the total expense is incurred.

Respectfully submitted,
T. W. ABELL,
Clerk Board of Public Works.

Referred to committee on streets, alleys and bridges.

Office of the Board of Public Works,
City of Duluth, Minn., Aug. 15, 1892.

To the President and Common Council of the City of Duluth:

The board of public works have had under consideration the communication of Davis & Co. relative to the relation of the city to the Pennsylvania avenue, and would respectfully report that in their opinion the firm is entitled to the sum of $500, which is a fair estimate of the cost of doing said work.

Respectfully submitted,
T. W. ABELL,
Clerk Board of Public Works.

Referred to committee on streets, alleys and bridges.

To the President and Common Council of the City of Duluth:

At a meeting of the board of public works held August 12, 1892, the acting city engineer submitted a final estimate of work done on the contract of Edward Low for the construction of an 8-foot sidewalk on both sides of Second street from Fourth street to Tenth avenue east, amounting to $17,290. The work was accepted and the final estimate approved and ordered sent to the common council.

An assessment roll covering the cost of the work is herewith sent you.

Respectfully submitted,
T. W. ABELL,
Clerk Board of Public Works.

Referred to committee on streets, alleys and bridges.

Office of the Board of Public Works,
City of Duluth, Minn., Aug. 15, 1892.

To the President and Common Council of the City of Duluth:

The board of public works has had under consideration the resolution of the common council relative to the construction of a sanitary sewer in Fourth street from Tenth avenue east to Thirtieth avenue east, and having investigated the proposed improvement, respectfully report:

1. That the contemplated improvement is necessary and proper.

2. That the improvement is not petitioned for by a majority of the owners to be assessed therefor.

3. That real estate can be found benefited to the extent of the damages, costs and expenses to be incurred in making the improvement.

4. That the estimated expense thereof is $2,191.70.

We herewith send you a profile of said improvement and an order for your adoption if you desire the work done.

Yours truly,
HENRY TRUESMAN,
President.

Respectfully submitted,
T. W. ABELL,
Clerk Board of Public Works.

PERSONAL

James Kasson, of St. Paul, is in the city today.

Grain Inspector A. C. Clausen, of St.
Paul, is at the Spalding today.

T. D. Underwood, general manager of the Soo road, is up from Minneapolis today.

Guy Gilman left for the woods last evening and will be absent four or five weeks.

H. H. Horton, the St. Paul lawyer, is in the city accompanied by his wife and daughter.

C. S. Benson, chairman of the Sixth district Republican congressional committee, is in the city.

Mrs. D. Duggan left yesterday for a visit to New York, Boston and Maine.
She will be absent several months.

Gen. J. K. Shaw, Emil Hartmann, L. H.
Grieser, M. Wessenberg and other Duluthians, returned from the Twin Cities
this morning.

Theodore E. Tenney returned last week from a visit to his former home at Oberlin, Ohio. He brought with him for a short visit his mother, Mrs. L. H.
Tenney.

Mrs. H. C. Edmunds has returned to her home in Cambridge, Mass., after a very pleasant eight weeks' stay in Duluth. She leaves Cambridge in a few days with her husband for a month's tour in New Brunswick.

Richard Shell is back from a two weeks' visit to Chicago and thereabouts.
He traveled from the Windy city to St.
Joe on the new Graham & Morton liner, the City of Chicago, which he graphically describes as a "bute and as slippery as an eel." Capt. McIntosh pulls the bells on the fine steamer and Chief McCluer and Second Phillips, all well known here, look after the machinery.

Professor H. W. Slack, of St. Paul, passed through this city yesterday. He expects to spend some weeks on the north shore of Lake Superior, between Duluth and Port Arthur, collecting specimens for the St. Paul Academy of Science. He was accompanied by Principal Charles McGee, of the Van Buren school.

THE CROP OUTLOOK

State Grain Inspector Clausen, Although not Well Posted, has a Little to Say.

There Will be Considerable Poor Grain and Much That Will be Shrunken.

No. 1 Hard Wheat Will not be Abundant But There Will be Some.

State Grain Inspector A. C. Clausen was in the city today for the first time in several weeks, having just returned from a visit with his mother in Boston. A reporter asked him about the crop outlook but he said that he has not been back long enough to become very thoroughly posted. It is somewhat early yet anyway, to give much of an opinion as to what the average quality and yield in Minnesota will be, although it is certain to be larger than usual.
R. B. Langdon, of Minneapolis, recently remarked that there would not be any No. 1 hard wheat in Minnesota this year, but afterward concluded that this was a pretty broad statement and qualified it by saying "along the line of the Hastings & Dakota railroad anyway." Mr.
Clausen says that it is true that there will not be a very heavy yield of No. 1 hard wheat in Minnesota this year, but there will be a fair amount. Indications at present are, however, that there will be considerable poor grain and a good deal that will be shrunken. The storms in the southern part of the state have lodged the grain very badly in sections, some of it so severely that it cannot recover.

Inspector Clausen will be in the city again before long and will then be able to give a fairly comprehensive statement of the crop outlook.

A Fine Desk.

The boys in the manual training department of the Duluth High school, under the guidance of Instructor Hutchinson have finished an elegant roll top desk which will be placed in Principal Crittchett's office in Central High school tomorrow. It is a handsome piece of furniture and the cabinet work displayed in its make-up is simply without a flaw. Mr. Critchett is justly proud of the work of his boys.

They Are After Him.

Frank Bell, an inmate of St. Mary's hospital, who was brought there from somewhere near Grand Rapids, is being examined as to his sanity this afternoon before Judge Ayer by Drs. Magie and Brunet. Bell is 50 years old and is supposed to be married. He has a belief that all the good looking women are running after him and consequently carries a club to protect himself.

WHEAT ROSE SLIGHTLY.

Little Outside News to Affect the Market Today.

The wheat market was quiet and dull but fairly firm during the early hours today. There was no news to affect the market in either way, and the general feeling is that prices are at a point where decisive news on the crops will greatly affect them, especially if on the bullish side. The blockade at Buffalo owing to the strike is causing part of the dullness.
The principal demand early was for cash wheat at prices about the same as yesterday and at higher prices later in the session, there being a tendency to strengthen prices after noon. The close was $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ higher, except for track wheat, which was unchanged. Following were the closing prices:

No. 1 hard, cash, 82¢; August, 82¢;
September, 81¢; December, 82½¢.
No. 1 northern, cash, 78½¢; August, 78¢; September, 78½¢; December, 79¢.
Rejected, 52½¢. On track, No. 1 hard, 81½¢. No. 1 northern, 79½¢.
Receipts—Wheat, 50,240 bus; rye, 605
bus. Shipments—Wheat, 100,880 bus.
Cars on track—Wheat, St. Paul & Duluth 11, Northern Pacific 2, Great Northern 30, total 43, last year 34; corn, Northern Pacific 17.

An Unlucky Number.

Thirteen drunks went through the grand march before Judge Winje this morning in the Municipal court. Twelve of them pleaded guilty as follows: El-rick Costello, John McKay, John El-rick, William Collins, John Johnson, George Duffey, Andrew Swansen, Patrick Shannon, Peter Duff, John Connors, E. Anderson and Robert Mitchell. Only one man, John C. Downey, had the efrontery to say he was not guilty and he will be tried this afternoon.

The case of the city against Willie Posick and Frances Posick for obstructing Poundmaster H. McLennan in driving four hogs to a pound was tried. Willie is 7 years old and Frances, the girl, is 12 years old. Their offense consisted in "shooting" the hogs and the poundmaster, who is himself a large man, had three or four witnesses. The boy was discharged and the girl was found guilty. She was fined $1 and costs which amounted to something like $6. It was paid.

The Frost vs. Inman Case.

In the damage suit of Asa D. Frost vs.
B. B. Inman, S. D. Allen, the attorney for the plaintiff, has filed a motion to strike out certain allegations from the defendant's answer. When R. K. Reed & Schmidt appeared for Commodore Inman. The case will come up at the special term Saturday, but will probably then be postponed.

THE BUFFALO STRIKE.

Firemen and Engineers Likely to Go Out Soon.
BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Advices from the railroad yards at 3 p. m. say that the impression is growing hourly that the firemen and engineers will soon go out. The soldiers say the engineers give them as much trouble as the strikers and annoy them in every possible way. Col. Welch says that the whole state militia will not cover the territory to be guarded any too well.

The Reading road sent out three freights this morning. Charles O'Hara, of the Forty-eighth separate company,
of Oswego, was killed at 11:15 this morning on the New York Central at Curtis.
Reports from the Black Rock yards at noon say everything is quiet there. Commissioners Purcell, Donovan and Robertson, labor arbitrators, were seen at the Broel house this morning. None of the three appeared at all sanguine of the results and although they all had hopes, none appeared to have any positive expectations behind them.

A serious state of affairs exists at the stock yards at East Buffalo. Only a few cars of stock arrived this morning and considerable difficulty was experienced before they could be unloaded.
The Lake Shore tracks were blocked with cars and they cannot be moved.

HOGG WAS NOMINATED.

The Texas Democratic State Convention Held Today.

HOUSTON, Texas, Aug. 18.—The Hogg, or "Regular," Democratic convention assembled at 9 o'clock this morning and adopted the majority report of the committee on platform. The report advocates the free and unlimited coinage of silver; opposes the issue of fictitious stocks and bonds; favors an income tax, and endorses the railroad commission law.

The report was adopted by a vote of 604 to 168. Balloting for governor immediately began, and resulted: Hogg, 607; Clark, 168½. Governor Hogg accepted the nomination in a short speech.

THE FORMAL TRANSFER.

Gladstone's Ministers Are Now Installed in the Offices.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—The members of the cabinet started for Osborne today by train to accept the seals of office from her majesty. On a separate train the members of the retiring cabinet started to surrender the seals of office and to make the formal transfer of power to their successors. The Liberal ministry generously cheered their opponents, who courteously recognized the greeting.

The house of commons met today and writs were ordered issued for the elections to be held in the cases of members who had accepted offices under the new administration. The members then changed sides, in accordance with the change of government, and the house adjourned for an hour. Before going to Osborne today there was a brief session of Mr. Gladstone's cabinet.

STRIKER SHOT FATALLY.

A Serious Affray at Pittsburgh Early
This Morning.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 18.—Every department at the Thirty-third street mill of the Carnegie Steel company is closed down this morning on account of breakages in the various departments. Nothing whatever is being done. The entire output of yesterday and last night was unfit for anything but scrap.

At 3 o'clock this morning John Fleischman, who resides on Thirty-eighth street, one of the strikers, who was doing guard duty at Forty-third street and Valley railroad, was probably fatally shot. Two men were coming toward Fleischman up the railroad track and a third from the opposite direction. A stone was thrown by some unknown party and fell at the feet of the two men, who immediately pulled their guns and fired four shots, one of them striking Fleischman in the stomach and another in the right hip.
The two men who did the shooting then ran away. An hour later Fleischman was discovered lying insensible and was taken to his home. The attending physician reports his injuries very serious and probably fatal.

TWO TRAIN MEN KILLED.

A Bad Collision on the Boston & Maine Railroad.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 18.—At 5:50 yesterday evening, a passenger train from Rockport to Boston collided with a freight train at Paradise Crossing, Beverly, on the Boston & Maine railway.
Both engines were demolished.
Brakeman Frank Heney was killed.
Engineer Jones of the freight, sustained a bad scalp wound and fracture of the skull, and died while being taken to the hospital. Engineer Ran was badly bruised about the legs. Fireman Harper had his leg broken and was otherwise badly injured. James Whelan's leg was broken and his scalp badly cut.
Conductor McComber had his ankle fractured.

A Sad Disappointment.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—The Daily News referring to the labor troubles in America says: "There has been nothing like these riots in the experience of this generation. It is the saddest disappointment to lovers of liberty in the history of our time. It is useless to say that America is no worse off than her neighbors. If she is better off, she has distinctly failed."

CARNAGE BEGUN.

One Thousand Armed Men Under Fearless Leaders Now Face the Tennessee Miners.

Various Rumors That Gen. Carnes Has Fought a Battle and Captured Coal Creek.

The Miners Are Said to be Withdrawing Before the Troops and Posses.

Gen. Anderson Still Held by the Miners and Carnes Swears to Free Him.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 19.—Brigadier General Carnes wires Supt. Huger, of the East Tennessee road, that all the miners at Coal Creek have unconditionally surrendered to him, and Capt. Anderson will be delivered at 1 o'clock. George Irish, a leader among the miners at Coal Creek, is in the city. He is supposed to have led the attack on the Briceville stockades a year ago. He said he advised the miners and their friends to leave the convicts at Coal Creek alone. A meeting of a secret committee was held and he was given twenty hours to leave the city. He says he will never return to Coal Creek. A special train carrying Springfield Rifles, 50 men of the Montgomery Guards of Clarksville, 75 volunteers from Knoxville, 25 from Nashville, and 20 from Chattanooga, left for Coal Creek at 11 o'clock. The train also carried provisions for a week's campaign. An officer of the Springfield Rifles said to a reporter that his company intended to rescue Capt. Anderson if it took every man to do it. Large crowds were at the station to see the train. No attempt was made to run trains other than for military service.

GEN. CARNES' ADVANCE.

The Village of Coal Creek Surrendered Without Opposition.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 19.—2:15 p. m.—In a battle between soldiers and miners, Private Waltham, of the Chibow rifles, of this city, and a miner, name unknown, were killed. Three miners are known to have been wounded. When Gen. Carnes arrived at Coal Creek with his regiment this morning, the telegraph office and in fact, the entire village surrendered without opposition. The march was taken up in the direction of Camp Anderson, a mile distant. On the way they were attacked by a large body of miners, possibly 300. The fire was returned and considerable shooting was done for about ten minutes. The miners sent up a flag of truce and surrendered. The battle occurred about 11:30. Waltham, the dead soldier, was clerk in the Eastern Tennessee office, in this city, and was 22 years old. Later—Three miners were killed. Waltham was of the sheriff's posse as a volunteer.

On application of the governor, the secretary of war has ordered 600 stand of arms sent at once from Indianapolis to Knoxville where they will be distributed to the forces gathering at that point. The lack of arms has been an embarrassing feature of the situation, as the volunteers have armed themselves with whatever weapons they could secure. Seventy-five men from Murfreesboro will leave for the front on the afternoon train. Rev. D. C. Kelly has consented to lead 500 or any other number of volunteers and names rapidly pour in.

REPORTS ARE CONFLICTING.

Great Difficulty in Getting News from Coal Creek.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 19.—The dispatches from Coal Creek are conflicting. One dispatch says Coal Creek surrendered, and another says the miners had surrendered. It is difficult to get dispatches over the line, as Gen. Gaines has the telegraph office at Coal Creek and keeps only the wire hot with official business. L. W. Kenned, correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Star, is supposed to be held in captivity at Coal Creek.

THE RIOT BELL RINGING.

Terror Has Succeeded the Excitement in Tennessee.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 19.—Terror has succeeded excitement and the streets are crowded with people who are anxiously scanning the bulletins without heed of the fast falling rain. The riot bell is again ringing, and a call is made for 2000 more men to go to the aid of the fighting soldiers and citizens.

So conflicting have been the reports from the scene of the conflict that no definite information can be given. It is known that the fight is on and with spirit, but no one can give any details. The fate of Capt. Anderson is the anxiety of the people, who fear that he has been lynched by the mob. A private in the Murfreesboro company was accidentally killed at Clinton, and his remains will be shipped home today. Strong reinforcements are being formed in the court house.

Not a single special has come from Coal Creek today. Nearly 1000 armed men under fearless leaders now face the angry miners, and fights are reported on all sides. No confirmation of any fight has been received yet. Railroad men tell various stories of carnage and battle. The state troops and posses are at Coal Creek by this time, and the dreadful suspense will be soon relieved by some report. Keller Anderson, commanding Coal Creek is still a captive and will be held as a hostage by the miners. Carnes swears to liberate him, and the men will fight to the death for him.

A special just arrived says that the miners are withdrawing before the troops and posses. The force of men now in the field in command of Gen. Sam L. Carnes is composed of men of rare nerve and pluck, and they can be depended upon in any emergency.

Volunteers Are Ready.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 19.—In response to the sheriff's call for volunteers to go to Coal Creek to relieve Gen. Carnes and Gen. Anderson and other Memphians, a large number of people assembled in the court square. If orders are received, 500 men armed and equipped will leave for Coal Creek under command of Gen. G. W. Gordon and ex-Confederate officers of experience.

PRICES ARE GOING UP.

Provisions in New York Are Becoming Dearer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—A general rise in the price of provisions is threatened in this city, unless the railroad companies succeed in moving the stalled trains at Buffalo within the next twenty-eight hours. Already several of the dealers on Washington market have raised their prices for butter three cents a pound, and for eggs three cents a dozen. Meat and poultry, should the delay in the arrival of supplies continue, will doubtless go up from 3 to 4 cents a pound. There is no scarcity of food in the markets yet but an opportunity such as a strike is never neglected, in order to make an advance on the price of provisions.

BROUGHT TO A CLOSE.

Officers Elected By the Irish Catholic Benevolent Society.

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 19.—The convention of the Irish Catholic Benevolent Institution was brought to a close at noon today. The election of officers was as follows: President, T. M. Daly, Philadelphia; first vice president, J. J. Kingston, Ont.; second vice president, Miss Kate Reilly, Toledo; treasurer, Michael McGlennan, Norfolk, Va.; secretary, Martin J. Griffin, Philadelphia; executive committee, J. J. Murphy, Toledo; John M. Higgins, Richmond, Va.; J. M. Kelly, Camden, N. J.; Pittsburgh was selected for the place of the next annual meeting.

DECLINED TO BRING SUIT.

Wisconsin's Attorney General Holds the Apportionment is Valid.

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 19.—Attorney General O'Connor today notified the supreme court that he declined to bring suit on the petition of Charles F. Lamb, to test the legislative apportionment law, on the ground that he considered the rule laid down by the supreme court as a constitutional element. Lamb is the figure-head for the Republican politicians. Under the order of the court August 9, the petitioner is now permitted to institute suit to test the validity of the act.

DIXON AND SKELLY.

Both are in Good Condition and Ready to Fight.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 19.—Olympic club representatives say there is no truth in the report that Dixon refuses to fight at 118 pounds. Dixon is at his training quarters at Biloxi and is proceeding with his work. Skelly is reported in good condition. The report that he is suffering with a severely ulcerated tooth and that his training has been temporarily suspended is exaggerated, and is probably for the purpose of influencing the betting.

THE MILLS ARE RUNNING.

Eighteen Hundred Non-Union Men Working at Homestead.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Aug. 19.—There are now about 1800 non-union men in the Carnegie mill. Two additional furnaces in the open hearth mill were successfully started this morning with skilled workmen. This place is practically deserted by the strikers today, they being in attendance at a labor picnic at Ross Grove held for their benefit. It is said that a number of Pinkerton detectives are here searching for evidence against those persons who nearly beat them to death after the surrender on July 6.

ANARCHY IN PERSIA.

A General Panic Caused by the Cholera's Spread.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 19.—Anarchy reigns in many towns of Persia owing to the cholera. The disease is raging with frightful virulence. At Tabriz, capital of the province of Azerbaijan, the Armenian and European colonies are panic stricken and have left for the hills. Several smaller Persian towns have been entirely abandoned by the people not stricken with cholera, who have left the sick to perish without assistance and the dead unburied.

Will Oppose Harcourt.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Farmer Atkinson will oppose Sir William Vernon Harcourt when he offers himself again for election in Derby, notwithstanding that Atkinson's fellow Conservatives have urged him to give up the idea. Atkinson stubbornly insists that he is going to make Harcourt fight hard to keep his seat.

Speech By the Kaiser.

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—In the banquet at Potsdam, after the review of the guards, the Kaiser spoke in the highest terms of the Austrian emperor and said that the alliance between Francis Joseph and himself was the surest guarantee of European peace. He offered a cordial toast to his Austrian ally.

Stationers Assigned.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Farland & Erville, wholesale stationers, at No. 68 Maiden Lane, made an assignment today for the benefit of their creditors. No preferences.

A DUEL TO DEATH.

The Strike at Buffalo is a Decisive Fight Between Unionism and Its Foes.

Railway Officials Say it is Nearly Ended, But the Men Claim the Contrary.

No Likelihood of the Firemen and Trainmen Taking a Hand in the Trouble.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 19.—The Lackawanna, the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh, and the Western New York & Pennsylvania roads are the only ones in full movement here this morning and no one knows how long they will remain in that condition. By the calling out of the switchmen on the Nickel Plate the entire Vanderbilt system in Buffalo is now tied up, and the number of strikers is increased by nearly one hundred. Buffalo Creek, Lehigh Valley, New York Central, West Shore, Lake Shore and Nickel Plate.

The others may be involved later, although as long as they refrain from handling boycotted freight they will not be engaged into the fight, unless it seems absolutely necessary, the leaders say. The Michigan Central runs its passenger trains into the New York Central station, but its freight goes into the yard at Suspension bridge, and it employs no switchmen here. The railroad officials profess to believe that the strike is nearing its collapse. The men say the battle is as yet not begun, and that it will include the firemen, trainmen, engineers and conductors, and necessity may require, until victory is won. The switchmen profess to be able to hold out a month at least. From a union standpoint, the present strike differs from that of two years in that it has been regularly called and sanctioned by the grand master. This strike will be a duel to the death between organized labor and its foes.

Secret meetings of trainmen, firemen and engineers were held last night in different halls of the city. Grand Master Wilkinson attended an important meeting of the trainmen at East Buffalo. Rumors were rife that both the trainmen and firemen were on the eve of striking, if they have not completed the steps necessary to that end. Delegations of firemen from out of town were here to confer with Grand Master Sargent, who was expected to be here last night. The engineers' meeting was an important one. Just what was done cannot be learned, but a delegation will go to Toronto today to confer with Chief Arthur. This is significant in that it indicates that they have a sort of a grievance. One of the leaders of the switchmen, talking of the situation, said: "All hands will go out if necessary, firemen, trainmen, engineers and conductors, but there is no hope to call them all out at once. It is being done as the necessity arises."

The Twenty-Second regiment arrived at 4 o'clock this morning and was posted on the Tift farm at the junction of the Lake Shore and the Buffalo Creek railroads, which Gen. Doyle has designated camp No. 2, one of the most important of the fifteen camps or posts which have been established. When seen this morning concerning the possibility of kindred organizations such as the firemen and trainmen of the different roads taking a hand in the strike, F. P. Donovan, of the state board of mediation and arbitration, said: "No, I don't think they will. This was the belief of the local leaders with whom I had a short conversation in my room last night."

"Would you be in a position to know if such a movement was contemplated?" "Most assuredly. It was for this reason that I met the different local leaders last night, to ascertain if such a step was on foot, in order that the board might prepare the way for arbitration, just as we have in the case of the switchmen's strike. It is my opinion that the strike will spread no further than it has, though the kindred organizations might as well have it out now, for it will be their turn next. I know the switchmen counted on the co-operation of the trainmen, but they are unwilling to come out, and as for the firemen striking, whatever idea they had of striking yesterday has now been abandoned. There is no fear that trouble will come from the engineers, for I believe that all the roads have a three year contract with their engineers."

"How do you like the refusal of the roads to arbitrate?" "It was just as we expected. We did not suppose for a moment they would arbitrate the matter when we proposed it, and therefore we are not disappointed. The presence of so many troops has put a quietus on the strike, and why so many soldiers were sent here is a mystery to me. At the most there are but 500 men out of all the tied-up roads, and there are 8000 soldiers in this city where 3000 would have answered all the purposes."

Commissioner Donovan was to receive word this morning if any organization out of the switchmen were to go out on a strike, but up to 10 o'clock he had received no word. C. H. Furcell, of the board, also said that he had no knowledge that there was going to be a sympathetic strike, and no word has reached him that the strike would spread any further than it had.

This morning two detachments of the Sixty-fifth were sent out to guard the men in making up Lehigh trains at the Tift farm and Scott street. Eighty were sent to the Tift farm and forty to the Scott street yards. Welch's instruction to the men was not to fire a shot if it could be possibly avoided, but to shoot to kill if they did shoot. "These trains and men must be guarded," he said, "and you know what your duty is and what your bayonets are made for. Don't allow any nonsense or parleying." All is quiet at Camp Lehigh this morning.

The Quick Manner in Which the Matrimonial Knot Was Tied in Vermont.

The Young Father Who Concluded That the First Baby Was Almost Human.

A barrister observed to a learned brother in court that he thought his whiskers very unprofessional. "You are right," replied his friend; "a lawyer cannot be too bare-faced."—Tit-Bits.

He (a seaside acquaintance)—I leave tomorrow, Miss Summerfield. I leave on the 8:40 express, which will bear me away from here and you at the rate of forty miles an hour. Just think of that! She—Forty miles an hour! How nice!—Harper's Bazar.

Wife—John, The Morning Daily states that you got into a disgraceful fight at your club last night. Who did you fight with? Husband—I am sure I do not know, dear. I haven't even seen The Daily yet.—Club.

"What has become of the big man who used to beat the bass drum?" asked the private of the drum major. "He left us about three months ago." "Good drummer, too, wasn't he?" "Yes, very good; but he got so fat that when he marched he couldn't hit the drum in the middle."—Tit-Bits.

Briggs—I hear you are living down on the New Jersey coast. Is it cool down there? Griggs—Cool! I should say so. Why the mosquitoes all have to wear buffalo robes.—Cronk Review.

Tommy—Pa, may I ask you a question? Pa—Certainly, my child. Tommy—Well, where is the wind when it doesn't blow?—Texas Siftings.

"There goes little Mr. Sissy," she said as they strolled down Charles street. "Isn't he effeminate in his dress?" "Do you think so?" replied her friend. "Yes, indeed. Why, he wears suspenders, high collars and sashes just like a real woman!"—Baltimore News.

Winks—Minks has been aging very rapidly during the past few months. Jinks—Yes; he must be building a house.—Tit-Bits.

"I am innocent, your honor. Heaven is my witness!" "I am sorry," returned the sympathetic justice; "your witness is beyond the jurisdiction of the court. Five years."—Harper's Bazar.

Mother—Mary, go up in the attic and get that photograph of Mrs. Grimson and put it in that new frame on the piano. Mary—Why, mother, what do you want to put that homely old thing in there for? Mother—She is coming to visit us tomorrow.—Rochester Democrat-Chronicle.

"Don't you know better than to put your arm around a lady's waist?" she cried indignantly. "I know few things better," he said.—Boston Post.

Smith (with effusion)—Halloo, Brown, is that you? I heard you were drowned. Brown (with sadness)—No, it was my brother. Smith (thoughtlessly)—What a pity!—Tit-Bits.

Quickly Over.

In the old pioneer days of the Green Mountain State the marriage ceremony partook of the simplicity which was a distinguishing characteristic of life in Vermont at that time. A native of the state tells a story of those early days, which his grandfather used to take great pleasure in relating:

Elder Brown, a much beloved Methodist minister, was sewing wood in his front dooryard. The day was warm, and the minister's occupation was naturally heating in its tendency, so Elder Brown was in his shirt sleeves, just like any unministerial wood sawyer of his parish.

Presently there came riding along the road and up to the fence a tall, lank, ungainly country bumpkin on horseback, with a fresh faced girl on a pillion behind him, with her arms clasped about his waist.

As they came to a halt Elder Brown advanced to the fence and rested his arms comfortably on the top rail.

"You want t' get married, I calc'late?" he said, addressing the smiling pair impartially.

"Ya-as," they replied in unison.

"Well, then," proceeded Elder Brown, "James, will you take this woman for your wife?"

"Ya-as," replied the grinning bridegroom.

"And you, Hetty, will you take this man for your husband?"

"Ya-as," replied the bride, with unfaltering promptness.

"All right, then," remarked the minister, reaching out his right arm and bestowing a parting handshake on each of the newly married pair, "you can ride on!"

And they rode on, as happy as if the ceremony had been much more elaborate, while the elder returned to his wood sawing.—Youth's Companion.

A Fatal Illusion.

A philosopher had the following inscription carved on the doorway to one of his gardens: "This garden shall become the property of the man who can prove that he is perfectly contented."

One day a stranger came and said, "I have come to take possession of the garden; nobody in the whole world, I can truthfully say, is more content and happy than myself."

To which the philosopher phlegmatically replied: "You are laboring under a delusion, sir. If you were thoroughly contented you would not covet my garden."—Mondo Umoristico.

A Revelation.

Young Mr. Yeerwed had been gazing for a long time at the antics of his little three-months-old baby. The child was sane, hair, sans teeth, had a red face and a frightful yell, but she was his child and he loved her. At length the little one looked up and laughed, and the overjoyed Yeerwed, turning to his wife, ejaculated: "By Jove! Man! it actually seems as though baby was almost human."—Harper's Bazar.

Who Knows?

Tom—Whose umbrella is that you are carrying? Jack—I'm sure I don't know. It's one I lent me the other evening.—Yankee Blade.

BEHIND THE FOOTLIGHTS.

Mary Anderson has written a denial of the report that she is about to return to the stage.

Miss Duse, the Italian actress who has startled Europe, made $12,000 by nine performances in Buda-Pesth.

There is no truth in the statement that the Broadway theater, New York, will be converted into a music hall.

La Regalencia will next season be featured in Edward E. Kilder's new musical comedy called "The Lucky Number."

Walter Gould's opera, "Apollon," which W. T. Carleton was prevented from producing in Washington, has been accepted abroad.

Sardou gets 100,000 francs from every play he writes. He is proud of his resemblance to Voltaire, whose snuffbox he has the honor of owning.

Madeline Merli, who is to star the coming season in "Frou-Frou," is of Italian descent, with a fine stage presence, and is said to be well endowed with talent.

There is a floating statement on the New York Herald that the Rev. Dr. T. De Witt Talmage is at intervals devoting a few hours of every week to the task of writing a moral comedy.

Florence Ellis, formerly in light opera, will return to the stage in a few weeks, and will play six or eight parts in an Irish comedy. In one scene she will jump over a gate on horseback.

E. S. Willard says the outlook is too depressing to play again in London until the theater rents are lower and people are able to arrange their dinner hour so that he will not interrupt them.

Mme. Melba, the Australian prima donna now in London, has accepted an offer from Manager Abbey of $82,500 and allowances for three attendants for fifty performances in opera in the United States next season.

Harry B. Smith, who wrote the books of "Tar and Tantar," "Robin Hood," "The Fencing Master," "The Knickerbockers," "Jupiter," "The Day and the Knight," and a number of other extravaganzas, will probably draw more money in royalties next year than any man in the United States, if not in the world.

EXPOSITION ECHOES.

Canada will erect a World's fair building at Chicago 100 feet long by 44 feet wide, with a 10-foot veranda surrounding it on all sides.

The largest American flag ever made will float from the top of a very lofty "liberty pole" in front of the Administration building at the World's fair.

It is reported that a new play by Sir Edwin Arnold, called "Aduma; or, The Japanese Wife," has been bought here for production at the World's fair.

Butterflies to the number of 150,000 will be shown in the Pennsylvania exhibit at the World's fair. The collection is said to be the most complete and finest in the world.

On the roof of the New York state building, in the World's fair grounds, which is to be built by Messrs. McKim, Mead & White, three terraced gardens will be arranged.

The California state World's fair board has given permission to Miss Ray Beveridge, of San Francisco, to set up and operate a miniature blacksmith's forge in the California building.

San Bernardino county, Cal., is contemplating the exhibition at the World's fair of a "palace" of native salt, using blocks of crystallized salt that measure 12 by 12 inches and are transparent.

Fail to do Their Duty.

Everybody has at times failed to do their duty towards themselves. Hundreds of lady readers suffer from sick headache, nervousness, sleeplessness and female troubles. Let them follow the example of Mrs. H. Herbechter, Stevens Point, Wis., who for five years suffered greatly from nervous prostration, sleeplessness, tried physicians and different medicines without success. But one bottle of Dr. Miles' Nervine caused sound sleep every night and she is feeling like a new person. Mrs. Elizabeth Wheeler, Laramie City, Wyoming, who tried all other remedies, declares that after three weeks' use of the Nervine for headache, nervous prostration, etc., she was entirely relieved. Sold by all druggists. Trial bottle free.

EXCITEMENT

The Good People of South Superior in a Furor of Excitement Over a Statement Made by Mr. Mat. Holzknecht, One of Her Citizens.

Mr. Mat. Holzknecht, employed at the La Belle Wagon Works in South Superior, says "he has been troubled three years with a stomach and liver difficulty. There was great dizziness of the head, pain in the stomach and bowels, with loss of appetite. I could not sleep at night and arose more tired in the morning than when I went to bed. There was pain in the back, general weakness and great mental depression. I was very despondent over my failure to obtain relief, and was on the point of giving up my position when I saw the testimonials of some persons who had been treated by Dr. Speer & Co. I called at their office in the New York Block, corner Tower avenue and Fourteenth street, West Superior, and they located my difficulty at once. I have only been under their treatment a few weeks, but am surprised at the result. My disagreeable symptoms have rapidly disappeared. I eat and sleep well.

"The mental depression and nervousness has left me and I feel that I cannot too highly recommend Dr. Speer & Co. for what they have done for me.

"I can be found at the St. Paul House, at South Superior, and would be glad to verify this statement to any one interested."

Attention, Mothers and Fathers! Why not have your Shoes and Kid Gloves as well as those of your Children looking like new continually? Why have them looking worn and rough when you can avoid it?

To do this you have only to oil them once a month with Tanner's Oil. Tanner's Oil does not injure but benefits the leather. It is now prepared by us for family uses. It prevents leather getting hard and from cracking, keeps it looking fresh and smooth, makes it soft and pliable and absolutely water-proof. Best of all—Shoes and Gloves kept thusly in good condition—will outwear three pair worn ordinarily. One box should last a family of three one year. On ladies' and children's wear you should use it instead of Blacking.

Gentlemen can shine their shoes after using it equally as well as before. All we desire is to have you give it a trial. Shoe Dealers, Glovers, and those Dry Goods merchants who sell Kid Gloves should have it on hand to furnish up their stock that has become shopworn. It will give it an absolutely new appearance. Your youngest apprentice can apply it. Price by mail 40 cents. Special price to Dealers.

LED THE TIGERS

The Strange and Remarkable Career of Bob Wheat, the Liberator and Confederate.

Fought With Taylor and Scott in Mexico and Struck For Cuban Liberty.

Was a Filibuster Under Walker and Fought For Italian Union Under Garibaldi.

AND THE LOUISIANA Tigers never heard of Bob Wheat. He would have cut a figure in local southern history and tradition just the same. That is not because of the six feet of electric physical manhood with which he was favored, but for the reason that he could not keep out of a "fuss," and lived in an era full of provocation to lively minded young fellows wearied with humdrum; and then he was a minister's son, born to the vice of errand, if not to that of genius. Wheat was a Christian, a man of culture and sentiment, with an abundance of pride and jealous self respect thrown in. The Tigers were toughs from the toughest of all rendezvous for hard characters, the New Orleans levees. How the Tigers and the lamb came to take the warpath together is a strange story.

Col. Chatham Roberson Wheat was born a Virginia cavalier, an F. F. V. of Huguenot blood, and was bred to manhood in that nursery ground of soldiers, the state of Tennessee. His grandfather on his mother's side was that Gen. Roberson, of Philadelphia, who fought Continental battles to the tune of thousands, raised troops and led them, built forts and defended them, opened lead mines to manufacture bullets and put in good work generally in aid of revolution.

The streak of the old patriot's blood that fell to Bob took fire when the Mexican war broke out, and he was the first recruit on the roll at Memphis, where he was a law student just out of his teens. Wheat's father was responsible for the milder elements of the young man's nature. He was rector of Christ church at Nashville, and within a few hours after the call to arms reached the Mississippi valley, two war letters were traveling in opposite directions over the stage route between Memphis and Nashville. One letter was from the peace loving rector to the young law student, saying in effect: My son, don't be carried off your feet by the war news. Wait awhile, and if more troops are really needed, and I think it your duty to volunteer, you may go. But girl your loins in patience until that hour comes.

This was the letter that passed the other on its way to the rectory in Nashville. "Dear Pa—A chip of the old block. I knew you would be ashamed of me if I did not volunteer as soon as the call came. My name I am proud to say is the very first on the list. I have been unanimously elected second lieutenant of a company of cavalry. Please send Jim by some careful hand."

The Jim asked for was a highly trained blooded horse, the pride and pet of the family, and he was soon making paces toward Memphis on the way to the Rio Grande. Wheat served in the Tennessee Mounted volunteers in Gen. Taylor's battles and afterward organized and led Gen. Scott's bodyguard. His men were well mounted, elaborately uniformed and equipped and well up in the ornamental work of headquarters nonsense, and perhaps the young soldier lived too much amid war's dazzling splendor and thought that was the whole of it.

The scattering of the volunteers after peace was declared landed hosts of them in New Orleans, where the "Jingo" spirit was always up against our southern neighbors. Wheat settled there and quickly made fame as a criminal lawyer. He was in politics, and was a success as a stump orator, but yet he was a lawyer. At any rate he couldn't see a war flag floating on the broad surface of the earth but he must get behind it or in front of it.

His first adventure as a foreign combatant was with the Spanish-American patriot, Lopez, in the Cuban invasion of 1890. Lopez was an exiled Spaniard, whom the Cuban revolutionists had won to their cause, and raised two expeditions in the United States to invade the little island and stand by the insurgent natives. Wheat was leader of the New Orleans contingent and sailed from that port with several hundred men. He had secret orders from Lopez, and on opening them at sea found directions to meet Lopez at a certain point and proceed to Cuba.

Wheat summoned his men, and in a stirring speech told them that they must at once throw off all disguise, haul down the stars and stripes, and like Hagar in the wilderness, when cast off from the protection of Abraham, call upon the Almighty to deliver them from peril and distress. While the flag was lowered he hailed the crowd as "soldiers of the liberating army of Cuba," closing with the challenge: "Does any one doubt the propriety of our undertaking? Does any one fear to go forward in it? If so, let him return!" The Cuban banner having kissed the breeze, he exclaimed, "Liberators, behold your flag!" The vessel sailed on to the rendezvous and united with a band under Lopez. The party landed at Cardenas and seized the town, but the Cuban population failed to keep their appointment and there was no uprising. After a little fighting the invaders backed off and sailed for New Orleans. Wheat had been wounded in the night attack on Cardenas and came out a hero in the eyes of the sympathetic southerners of the gulf cities.

Those were days when the air was laden with the cries of the oppressed and the impulsive. Wheat had no lack of occupation as a professional liberator. He crossed over to Mexico to take a hand in the uprising headed by Carravajal against the Church party. The scheme failed, and Wheat, loath to doff his regimentals, cast lots in with the filibuster Walker, who had been his college classmate at Nashville. He carried re-enforcements and arms to Walker at Nicaragua after the defeat of the filibusters at Rivas, and while there was blown from the deck of an exploding steamer, but swam ashore, taking a wounded man with him.

Meanwhile another and a more powerful uprising was afoot among the republicans in Mexico, and Wheat offered his sword to Alvarez, the champion of the Liberals against Santa Anna and the church. He was appointed general of artillery, but Alvarez resigned without a fight and took his well filled gold chests and his favorite officers to a peaceful hacienda far from the maddening turmoil of revolution and proceeded to take a rest. Wheat soon tired of the monotony, and leaving from after the rifle blasts of Garibaldi's carbonyl piercing the quiet air of sunny Italy, he crossed the ocean for a chance to polish up his liberating sword once more.

Garibaldi gave him all the chance he wanted, and he went through battle and skirmish displaying the magnificent courage, the rare horsemanship and the personal chivalry of the cavalier. He was close to Garibaldi all in his confidence, and the enthusiastic Latin called him the "American Murat." He saw the thing through in Italy to the point where Garibaldi crowned Victor Emanuel king, and then set his face homeward to mix in the great fight of the age, the civil war.

Returning through Paris, Wheat was presented at Napoleon's court. Soon afterward he was strolling in the Bois de Boulogne with a friend schooled in the oppressive, not to say suppressive, shadow of royalty. The Empress Eugenie happened to be in the park with her retinue, and the royalist, for fear of making a break, proposed that Wheat and himself should back off from the divine circle that hedges in the crowned pates and retire. Wheat had no lack of respect for the situation, but didn't see the need of such squeamishness, and went his way with a gallant salute that brought a nod and smile in return from the proud Castilian who shared the throne of France.

On landing in America Wheat went at once to his old chieftain, Gen. Scott, but of course couldn't agree with the old man's view of coercion against state rights, and crossed the lines to Richmond. As an ex-general of Italy and of Mexico, to say nothing of the other claims, he naturally expected something at the hands of Jefferson Davis. He got only a rebuff, and in his chagrin started for Pensacola to enlist as a private in a battery led by his younger brother, John Thomas Wheat. He passed through New Orleans on the way, and Gen. Twiggs halted him to help organize the levies locking to the Confederate camps.

"I WILL PUT MINE ON RECORD." Suddenly orders reached there from Richmond asking for soldiers to help defend Mississippi against the Grand Army of the Potomac under McDowell. Wheat snatched up five companies of recruits, many of them repented jailbirds, and reached Bull Run just in time to play the hero's role. His men were fresh, were fanfully got up and were from far off Louisiana, that had its own "bacon" to look after, and was very generous to hear the Virginians' appeal.

What called his men the Old Dominion Guard, as the situation suggested, but one of his companies carried a banner having a picture of a lamb under the legend, "As gentle as a lamb under the legend, 'As gentle as a lamb.'" The men style themselves "Tigers," and in the fight at Bull Run the whole battalion imitated the terror of the jungle in fierce and reckless onslaught and resistance. The men went into the fight as Wheat's battalion and came out as the Tigers, never to shake the name.

Wheat was in his element. "Beauregard," the idol of the creole population, gave him a place of honor. Before the battle opened he crossed Bull Run stream alone on a scout and spied out through the bushes the Union columns trying to steal a march on Beauregard's camp. His battalions in the ambush, where the head of the Union columns were treacherously confident along the woodlands expecting a surprise and an easy victory.

The Tigers first encountered Burnside's brigade, and made havoc in the ranks of the Second Rhode Island regiment. Their rifles brought down Col. Slocum and Maj. Ballo, and scores and hundreds of their luckless followers. Wheat was shot through the chest from side to side, the bullet coming in between his lungs. The surgeons told him he must die, because there was no case on record of recovery from such a wound. "I will put mine on record," he declared hopefully, and lived to fight another day.

Beauregard praised Wheat for nipping the Union assault in the bud, and the Tigers, with the Black Horse cavalry, carried off the sensational honors of the field. All Dixie rang with their praises for months.

Wheat was on hand to lead his men in Stonewall Jackson's campaigns in the Shenandoah valley in the spring of 1862. He went with the valley army to Richmond, when the forces of Jackson united with Lee in breaking up McClellan's lines on the Chickahominy. In the first assault on the Union batteries at Gaines' Mill, he was instantly killed at the head of the storming party, where his tall, massive form made a "shining mark" for bullets.

Wheat carried in his pocket a book of devotions given him by his mother, and before daylight on the morning of his death he aroused his officers, and read them the "Prayer for Joyful Resurrection." After reading the "raja" of the day," as he called it, he made a few remarks, punctuated with tears, and then mounted his horse and rode off to battle with the notoriously wildest and wickedest body of men in the army.

She Needed a Clasp.

"William," she sighed, and he hung upon her words with the grip of a freshman testing his strength for an anthropometrical chart. "William, why am I like a broken bracket?"

"Ah," he said, "I cannot tell."

"Because, William," she murmured, and her voice had the faraway sound of the wind moaning on the freshman fence, "I need a clasp."

And then, hang it, the Hibernian Hebe came in with the limp lamps.—Yale Record.

A Congressman's Devoted Wife.

Few persons ever pause to reflect how much influence a good woman may have had upon the career of any of the great men of the day. The late Mrs. W. C. F. Breckinridge, the Kentucky congressman's wife, was her husband's inseparable companion and helpmate—in youth his assistant in preparing and editing copy for the paper he published, and in later years his political adviser and secretary. She used frequently to be seen in Washington coming from the Capitol with an armful of bills and public documents. Though a Kentuckian she cared little for society, and was devoted to her home life. In the education of her son, which grew to be her chief interest and concern, she kept abreast of him in his progress in the languages and mathematics.

A wire netting fence 500 miles long is one of the late Australian wonders. The fence separates the colonies of New South Wales and Queensland, and its object is to keep the rabbits out of the latter country.

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Aug. 19.—An area of high barometer covers the greater part of the country with a center over Minnesota. Within this area fair and pleasant weather prevails with temperatures higher than yesterday, ranging from 55° to 85° the latter.
Moorehead, being the coolest place in the country.
Light showers have fallen over the Ohio valley and around the lower lakes. None have fallen west of St. Louis.
The temperature dropped to 50° here last night; the coldest point it reached yesterday was 72° at 7:30 a. m.DULUTH, Aug. 19.—Forecast till 8 p. m. tomorrow: Continued fair weather; slight change in temperature, if any, slowly rising; light winds, mostly easterly.
B. H. BARNES,
Local Forecast Official.WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Forecast till 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Wisconsin: Fair, warmer Saturday; day, variable winds. For Minnesota: Fair, warmer; variable winds.

THE SATURDAY HERALD.

The Herald will be a twelve-page paper tomorrow, filled to overflowing with bright and interesting articles. The vocabulary of The Herald includes no such word as retrogression. It is always pressing forward, and although all competition in this section in the race for journalistic supremacy has long ago been left in the rear and would-be rivals have been hopelessly distanced, it never falters in its steady advance. It is now the favorite advertising medium at the head of the lakes, while its circulation is double that of any other paper, and greater than any two combined. This large circulation is directly attributable to its merits as a newspaper.In tomorrow's issue, in addition to the latest and most complete telegraphic and local news published in this section, there will be a series of special articles that will enlist the interest of all readers.
At the head of the list must be placed, the weekly letter of the popular humorist Bill Nye, in which he discusses a recent outing in his well known style. His remarks will be appreciated by all. The letter will be finely illustrated and will be found in no other Duluth paper. The Herald having secured the exclusive right in this section to the publication of Nye's writings.This handsome new Central High school building, of which the people of Duluth are justly proud and which has been pronounced the best and handsomest public school building in America, is now almost ready for occupancy. It is a somewhat singular fact that no detailed description of this fine structure has ever been published, and The Herald will tomorrow furnish a very complete account of its interior arrangements, accompanied by a good picture of the building as it now appears.The recent attempt of Berkman to as-sassinat Henry C. Frick, of Pittsburgh, is a topic of live interest. A Russian Nihilist, who is now a resident of Duluth, has written an article for The Herald, which will appear tomorrow, in the course of which he seeks to show that Berkman is nothing but a crank and not responsible for the deed he committed.
In this connection he writes interestingly of the present condition of affairs in unhappy Russia.Ella Wheeler Wilcox contributes a bright article in which she reasons that "Stand by your sex" is an unreasonable motto, and points out that man is the weaker sex when tempted by enlightened Eve. "Why Do Women Lack Humor?" asks Elizabeth Akers, and she concludes that it is snubbed out of many women in early life. "Songs of Childhood" form the subject of an article by Miss Ruth Kimball, of the St. Paul Globe, and in lieu of illustrations the music of six of the songs is given. The approaching Fete Breton and the charming dances and costumes which will make it memorable will be discussed, and the social columns will be found as complete and interesting as usual, while the theaters and recent books and magazines will receive due attention.

THE GUBERNATORIAL FIGHT.

There are three candidates in the field this year for governor of Minnesota. A few weeks ago there were four, but Gen.
J. H. Baker, the Alliance candidate, withdrew, leaving the contest between the candidates of the Republican, Democratic and People's parties. The People's party ticket is headed by the political chameleon, Ignatius Donnelly, a man of marked intellectual ability, but of most uncertain and varying faith politically, whose frequent and sudden changes from one party to the other have fairly earned for him the name of demagogue.Ignatius Donnelly does not possess the confidence of the people of Minnesota.
His remarkable political transformations have forever forfeited their confidence, and although he has been able by his smooth talk and magnetic presence to persuade those who have been misled into the People's party movement to place him in nomination for governor, the masses of the people will hesitate long when they go to the polls beforecasting their ballots in favor of his election to the highest office in the state.
He can never hope to obtain the magnificent vote that was cast by the third party adherents for Sidney M. Owen two years ago. There are many thousands of farmers and residents of the cities who voted for Owen who will not mark their ballots for a political mountebank like Donnelly. On the contrary they will turn their attention to the other candidates, and will make their choice between the men at the head of the Republican and Democratic tickets.But little can be said against the Democratic candidate, and but little can be said in his favor, because he is wholly without a political record. Daniel W.
Lawler may be a good man, but he is practically unknown to the people of the state. He is an untried man. Never having held an office of public trust, his qualities have not been disclosed. The Republicans, on the other hand, have presented for the suffrages of the people a candidate for governor whose name is a household word in Minnesota. He has served the people in official positions, and has served them well. His personal record is above reproach, and his reputation for honesty and integrity is spotless.During the war of the rebellion Knute Nelson shouldered his musket and marched to the front in defense of the Union, where he proved himself a true and valiant citizen. It has been well said that he is essentially a man of the people, with whom he has been largely and closely identified, and he is especially strong with the farmers, in whose midst he has always lived and to whose interests he has paid special attention. As the representative in congress for many years of the old Fifth district, he attained a national reputation by his independent action on the tariff and other questions. He is accused by ultra-protectionists of having been a low tariff advocate, but it will be remembered that in this respect he did not differ from the men who prepared the Republican platforms in Minnesota for many years.Mr. Nelson faithfully attended to the interests of his district, and Duluth especially has reason to feel grateful to him for earnest work in congress in behalf of lake improvements and other matters of legislation closely connected with the interests of this city. With such a record, he has elements of strength which neither of the other gubernatorial candidates possesses, and therein lies his advantage. That he will receive a very large vote in Duluth is certain, because the citizens are not ungrateful for the many favors extended by him in the past and because they know that in the event of his election, they will have a governor who will be Duluth's loyal friend.

THE CONGRESSIONAL CONTEST.

The wisdom of Maj. Baldwin's nomination for congress is being shown by reports which come from all parts of the Sixth district. The feeling in favor of sending a Duluth man to congress this year is not confined to St. Louis county.
The people of the other sections of the country believe that Duluth is entitled to the congressman, on account of the many important matters of legislation in which this city is directly and deeply interested that demand the attention of a representative who is thoroughly posted upon the questions involved. The fact that the legislation desired will benefit not only Duluth but the whole Sixth district adds to the strength of the feeling that it would be the wisest course to send Maj. Baldwin to Washington as the first congressman from the Sixth district.The delegates to the Brainerd convention returned to their homes enthusiastic in support of the major, having recognized that he will prove a faithful, energetic and efficient congressman.
He has never been an officeholder. He has never sought office. Only at the strong solicitation of friends who desired to see Duluth's many interests receive proper attention at Washington did he consent to enter the field. This fact is one of the most powerful arguments in his favor in the campaign. When he starts out on a canvass of the district and to make the personal acquaintance of the people in the various counties, he will find everywhere earnest and loyal supporters who will give him heartily support. This much is assured by the reports which come from all sections of the district.The fact that Maj. Baldwin will be strongly supported in his home county is now causing his St. Cloud opponent and friends considerable anxiety. They have evidently concluded that if Maj. Baldwin gets the practically solid vote of Duluth, which now seems certain, it will mean the election of the Duluth candidate. This explains the presence of so many St. Cloud politicians in Duluth within the past few days. They have been here making a vain attempt to stem the tide in Maj. Baldwin's favor.
Their efforts will prove as futile as Mrs.
Partington's memorable attempt to sweep back the waves of the Atlantic ocean. Maj. Baldwin will be the first congressman from the Sixth district.The report that Mr. Blaine is to take the stump in Maine is denied by a Washington dispatch today. Mrs.
Blaine is credited with having vetoed such an intention, and it is generally conceded that Mrs. Blaine's vetoes are never turned down.

There is a movement to make ex-

Lieutenant Governor A. E. Rice the Republican candidate for congress in the Seventh district, owing to Gen. Clapp's refusal of the nomination. Governor Rice would make a strong run in that district.The Tribune says The Herald is on the fence politically, which of course is incorrect, but it neglects to state what its own position is in regard to several candidates, the congressional for instance. Is the Tribune for Searle or Baldwin? Or has it not heard from St.
Paul yet?The price of silver is still falling in India, and that country is threatened with a financial crisis. The silver lunatics in this country ought to profit by the object-lesson, but they probably will not.An average English election costs $25,000, which shows that "blocks of five" are not much cheaper across the water than in this country.

An Exploded Yarn.

Minneapolis Journal: The New York Herald rehearses the old yarn about Judge Wilson carrying Minnesota by majority and Merriam counting him out.
The Herald ought to be ashamed of itself for printing at this late date a romance which has lost piquancy even among the Democrats.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Berger-Dainty Concert.
The Berger-Dainty Concert company had a fair audience last evening at the Lyceum and a well pleased one, too.
Anna Teresa Berger's cornet playing aroused great enthusiasm and deserved it, for she is an exceptionally fine performer. Her first number, Hartman's "Grand Concert Polka," was a brilliant selection and gave an excellent idea of her wonderfully fine execution and tone.In response to one of the encores she played "Home Sweet Home" very sweetly. Laura Dainty, the elocutionist, gave several bright selections with excellent effect. Her numbers from James Whitcomb Riley were especially pleasing.
Leon Marx, the boy violinist, is deserving of great praise. His proficiency is remarkable for one so young, and his playing is smooth, easy and finished. His first number Leonard's "Fantasie Militaire" was a very difficult number but he carried it through like a master. Miss Kate Eloise Donahue, the contralto, has a very strong and well cultivated voice but it is lacking in sweetness and sympathy. Miss Georgetta Lay gave two fine piano selections, one of which was Sung Wo, Chinese laundry, goods saved.
Every number except the piano solos was encored, and the artists generously responded, but it sometimes seems as if Duluth audiences demand more than they ought to.

Who Pays the Duty?

To the Editor of The Herald:

As an independent free lance, will you give space in your paper to an answer to an editorial captioned, "Who Pays the Tariff?" published on the 13th inst. by your morning contemporary, the Duluth Tribune, contending that the Bermuda union tax is paid by the producer instead of the consumer. From the very beginning of the tariff controversy, every man is led, without second thought or investigation, to accept this ridiculous claim as a fact.True, the producer or importer pays the tax in the first instance, but it is to be supposed that the consumer is relieved from the ultimate burden thereof through the generous remission of a tax by some of the respective dealers before retailing the same to the trade?
Decidedly not. Senator Sherman of Ohio, an apostle whom the Tribune should be willing to take as authority, in a speech in congress on the tariff question, stated: "Every duty on imported merchandise gives to the domestic manufacturer an advantage equal to that duty, and to that extent every tariff is a protective tariff." How does the Tribune reconcile this with the contention that the consumer does not pay the increase?
Respectfully,
OBSERVER."It's Wonderful." $18, $20, $22, $24 and $25 dress suits, in handsome clay worsteds, chevots, cork-screws, Bedford cords, the very best in Lincoln and ready to suit excluded.
They all go for today and tomorrow at your choice for $13.98.
THE BIG DULUTH.

A SPARKLING DISPLAY.

Perhaps, of all other seasons of the
year, this is the best for making advantageous purchases of jewelry. There isn't much fluctuation in the value of what a jeweler sells, because jewelers
have nothing perishable to dispose of,
but there are times when for a variety
of reasons, prices fall off a little, and this
is more particularly the case when business generally is feeling the effects of oppressively hot weather. You will readily understand, therefore, why just
now, we are offering some especially attractive inducements in jewelry.

REDUCED TO ASHES

The Worst Fire in the History of Geneva, O., at an Early Hour
Today.Thirty Buildings of Brick and Frame Have Been Consumed by the Flames.The Loss Will Foot up About $100,000—Origin of the Fire Incendiary.GENEVA, O., Aug. 19.—At 2:30 this morning the fire bell awakened the people to witness what proved to be the worst fire in the history of the town.
Thirty buildings of brick and frame are in ashes. The fire department was crippled by breakage of the engine and an hour of valuable time was lost at the start. Cleveland, Painesville and Ashtabula were telegraphed for aid, and in time responded at once but the engines did not arrive until over an hour after the fire broke out. The following firms were burned out:E. R. Cowles, grocery, stock mostly saved, building burned, loss $2000; I. C.
Chamberlain & Son, clothing, boots and shoes, loss $26,000, insured for $15,000; C. Craine, druggist, stock loss $9000, in-origin. The total loss will foot up $100,000.

JERRY WAS EXCITED.

The Sockless Statesman in Danger of Personal Violence.ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 10.—A special from Wichita, Kan., says: Quite a division was created on the old soldiers' reunion ground last night by a controversy between Judge Botkin, of Steven county, and Congressman Jerry Simpson. In his speech Botkin made the remark that there was a Kansas who had written of the people of Western Kansas, in a letter to the American Watchman, that
"the men are selling their honor, the women their virtue, and the children are becoming criminals and outcasts for bread."The audience demanded the name of the writer and Botkin answered, "Jerry Simpson." Simpson was in the crowd and was repeatedly called for, but refused to come forward. At the close of the speaking Simpson accused Botkin of doing him an injustice and said the remark referred to was applied to the people of Boston and New York. This Botkin denied, and said the letter was written in response to a request for an article on the condition of his constituents, and promised Simpson that he would secure the letter full, and if he was wrong, he would make public apology. If correct he would publish the letter and place it in the hands of every voter in the congressional district.After a sharp exchange of words between Simpson and Botkin the latter said: "If you said this thing about the people of Kansas you are disreputable and dishonorable." The crowd was growing quite excited by this time, and Simpson was threatened with personal violence. Judge Botkin interfered and Simpson was taken away by friends.

FORGERS ARE RELEASED.

Two Accomplices of the Noted Bidwell Freed.LONDON, Aug. 19.—MacDonald and Hill who were accomplices of Bidwell, in the bank robberies in 1873 have been released on condition that they leave the country forever. Both started for America on being released.Hill is a snowy haired, harmless idiot, the result of his long imprisonment.
MacDonald, except that he is aged, looks well and is of dignified and gentlemanly bearing. MacDonald said that by means of money and personal influence he established communication with the outside world, and kept up a constant correspondence with his family.He occupied his spare time in translating foreign literature. His sister came to England early in the summer with letters to the duke of Norfolk and Archbishop Vaughan, and she worked incessantly on petitions for his release.Nicollet the tailor, of Minneapolis, offers

LUCKY VACATIONERS.

Many Go Away for a Rest;
More Stay at Home.What is Often More Better Than a Change of Air and Scene.Something Needed to Invigorate the Tired Body and Mind.Two friends, who had not seen each other for more than a month, met on the street."How badly you look," exclaimed one as he gazed into the "haggard face" of his friend. "My dear fellow, you need a vacation.""Vacation," cried the other, why, "I have just come back from a month's vacation.""Too many people who go upon a vacation with the expectation of securing health, come back fagged out, weary, and in a worse condition than when they left. Change is not everything. Vacations may be pleasing, but it is often better, whether one goes away or stays at home, to feed the nerves and brain, the sources from which life itself comes, with something that can restore the wasted energy, build up the vitality, and add greatly to the strength.In the whole range of modern discoveries, whether in chemistry or medicine, the one made by Professor Phelps, of Dartmouth college, known as Paine's celery compound, stands pre-eminent.
He has so compounded the powerful qualities of German celery seed with other valuable brain and nerve nourishers, as to make a remedy that has done and is doing what was never accomplished before, a remedy that makes people well. There are men who, long ago, faced the possibility of having to dispose of their business and take a long rest in order to save their lives, who are now working constantly and are kept in strength, vitality and good spirits by this wonderful discovery. There are women who were weak, dragged out, miserable, who are now fresh, rosy and happy, entirely as a result of using this great compound.No one can afford to neglect an opportunity for increasing one's vitality, preserving one's health and lengthening one's life. That a preparation has been found that will do this is acknowledged by the most eminent physicians, and by those who have used it, always with highly satisfactory results.

PHILOSOPHY IN DULUTH.

A Sensible Suggestion for the Worn-Out, Run-Down and Dispirited."If you find yourself irritated and unhappy—and with fairly good reasons for being so," said a prominent local physician yesterday, "take hold of yourself by the collar, and set yourself down hard,
and say to yourself:
"Well, what is it? Supposing this is so, how long will it last? Why should I allow life to be made wretched? No, I will not permit my life to be embittered, chafed, and fretted.""Or, if you are really worn-out, rundown, tired, dispirited, a prey to nervous exhaustion, do not rush off straightway and take some sarsaparilla, or blood tonic, or similar concoction to make matters worse. Ask yourself candily and sensibly whether it is not probable that a remedy exists which medical practitioners recognize as standard, and whose beneficial effect is evidenced by thousands of happy men and women whom it has permanently restored."It is certainly better to be led by the experience of the wise than by the experience of the ignorant. Physicians everywhere recognize that great discovery, Paine's celery compound, as the one sure means of remedying the waste of brain force and muscular power that results from the rush of modern business and social life. It is a food for both. Those who have faithfully tried it are the most positive in their assertions of this fact.In August weather, sleeplessness, indigestion, or weakness, the result of the debilitating heat, is very common. The use of Paine's celery compound gives strength to the nervous system, and brings restful sleep, good digestion, and buoyant spirits to the user.

MRS. HARRISON'S FRIEND.

Mrs. Anna E. Lower's Good Advice to the President's Wife.Men and women of high reputation frankly tell their friends in these hot, muggy, debilitating dog-days to use that strength giving remedy, Paine's celery compound, the discovery of the eminent Professor Phelps, of Dartmouth.
The compound did so much for Mrs.
Anna E. S. Lower, of Minneapolis, that she recommended it to her friend, Mrs.
Harrison, the wife of the president. Mrs.
Lower says:"I take Paine's celery compound every summer, for otherwise I am generally weak and debilitated during the warm weather, and this medicine makes me stronger. In fact I do not feel like the same person while taking it." Many well known people in Duluth are always ready to speak in praise of this scientific preparation. They were worn, weak and weary, but are now strong and well, solely by the use of Paine's celery compound.

Applications For Lands Under the "Timber and Stone Act" Are Being Delayed.

The Bill is in the Hands of the Printer and no Information Can be Given.

Form of Affidavit Which Must be Made in Duplicate by Each Applicant.

The United States land officers at Duluth have been bothered a great deal lately by hundreds of inquiries, both verbal and written, asking when applications for land under the provisions of the amended "Timber and Stone Act," approved by the president, Aug. 3, 1892, would be received. Register Nichols today stated that no official notice has yet been received here as to the said amended act, but that in reply to a telegram to the commissioner of the general land office, word has been received that the bill is being printed, and will be received at the Duluth office in a short time. In the meantime no applications will be received at the local office for the purchase of lands under the amended law which makes the timber and stone act applicable to all public land states.

The following is the form of sworn statement which must be made in duplicate, and from the applicant's personal knowledge, derived from personal examination of the land:

LAND OFFICE AT _____, (Date) _____, 18____.
I, _____, of (town or city), _____ county _____, state (or territory) of _____, desiring to avail myself of the provisions of the act of congress of June 3, 1878, entitled "An act for the sale of timber lands in the public land states and territories," for the purchase of the _____, of section _____, township _____, of range _____, in the district or lands subject to sale at _____, do solemnly swear that I am a native (or naturalized) citizen of _____, desiring to become a citizen of the United States, of the age of _____, and by occupation _____; that I have personally examined said land, and from my personal knowledge state that said land is unfit for cultivation, and valuable chiefly for its _____; that it is uninhabited; that it contains no mining or other improvements _____, nor, as I verily believe, any valuable deposit of gold, silver, cinnabar, copper or coal; that I have made no other application under said act; that I do not apply to purchase the land above described on speculation, but in good faith to appropriate it to my own exclusive use and benefit, and that I have not directly or indirectly, made any agreement or contract, or in any way or manner, with any person or persons whomsoever, by which the title I may acquire from the government of the United States may inure in whole or in part to the benefit of any person except myself, and that my postoffice address is _____.

I hereby certify that the foregoing affidavit was read to me in my presence before he signed his name thereto; that said affidavit is to me personally known (or has been satisfactorily identified before me by _____), and that I verily believe him to be the person he represents himself to be; and that this affidavit was subscribed and sworn to before me this _____ day of _____, 18____.

Register (or Receiver).

The application has to be printed for sixty days in the newspaper published nearest the lands, and then follows the testimony of the witnesses as to their personal knowledge of the applicant, the land, etc. The penalty for false swearing to any other evasion of the provisions of the act is by a fine not exceeding five years of hard labor, and the rendering of the offender incapable of giving testimony in any United States court until the judgment against him is reversed.

SUPERIOR NEWS.

The Steel Barge Company's Big Dry Dock Nearly Completed.
The big dry dock, the largest on the lakes, which is being constructed by the American Steel Barge company will be completed Sept. 1. It is 300 feet long on keel blocks; 90 feet wide; 18 feet depth on blocks. The dock of the Detroit Dry Dock company, which is considered larger, will not compare with this one. It is only 378 feet long, 72 feet wide and 16 feet deep. The Port Huron, Mich., dock, owned by Ford & Alverson, is advertised as the largest one on the lakes. It has been heretofore, but is not now. It is 100 feet shorter than the barge company's dock. The latter will hold at one time two of the largest lake vessels or two of the longest whalebacks. By September the water will flow into this great dock and the first vessel will be taken. The engine house has been completed and the two mammoth Porter engines are in place ready to start at any time. The two pumps each draw a fifteen-inch stream of water and can empty the dock in three hours. There are valves in the bottom through which the water can be let in to sink it.

Capt. Kidd is authority for the statement that the big whaleback passenger steamer keel will be laid Monday. Part of the material for this boat has been prepared in the shops ready for the vessel for the past several weeks, but owing to the condition the barge works was thrown into by the strike at the steel plant Capt. Kidd did not feel safe in ordering the boat begun. She will be 350 feet long.

When the Lehigh dock extension now being put on by Richard B. Dear is finished that dock will have a capacity of 420,000 tons.

Becoming Interesting.

Myron Field testified in the land case of Joseph Newview vs. William Roch in the United States land office yesterday. He stated that Roch was hired to go on the land in question by Morris Thomas who agreed to pay him $26 per month and $500 cash when he proved up, at which time he was to convey the land to Thomas. Field declared that both parties had told him of this agreement. His testimony is said to be directly opposite to that which he gave when he was assisting Roch to file his final claim on the land. It seems that the real contestants are Morris Thomas and W. T. Bartey.

PINE LAND CASES.

Two Big Cases Which Are to Come From Mille Lacs County.

In the cases of Fred Weyerhaeuser vs. C. P. Barker, et al., and the Mississippi River Logging company vs. Wallace Barker, et al., forty-eight answers have already been filed by defendants and 300 are expected altogether. The case was commenced in the district court at Mille Lacs county and was transferred to the United States court, but the transcript of papers from that county has not yet been received here although notice of the transfer has arrived.

The cases involve 25,000 acres of land in the old Mille Lacs reservation and T. B. Walker, D. M. Sabin and A. H. Wilder, are heavily interested. The lands were all entered under soldier's additional scrip with powers of attorney running to T. B. Walker who as attorney in fact, located the lands. The patents were issued to the soldiers on Walker's entries and he sold them to Weyerhaeuser and the Mississippi River Logging company. Subsequent to the entries by Walker the soldiers quit claims in each action brought suit in the district court in Mille Lacs county to quiet title claiming that the Walker entries were the legal ones. The decisions of the state supreme court have been that soldier's additional scrip is assignable and the defendants transferred the cases to the United States court.

Clapp & McCartney, of Stillwater, represent the plaintiffs and F. C. Burke of Stillwater, J. C. Judge of Minneapolis, Scarles & Jones of Stillwater, and Charles Keith of Princeton, represent the defendants who have so far filed answers.

Settled the Case.

The admiralty case of the Olean Land company and John E. Heney vs. The steamer John M. Nicol, which has been pending for a year has finally been settled and dismissed. The steamer ran into a raft near the canal and caused considerable damage. Since the accident it has been obliged to run under bonds.

Maj. Baldwin Resigns.

The Tilden Democratic club met last evening at its headquarters in the Burrows block with quite a large number of members present. Maj. Baldwin resigned his resignation from the presidency of the club, his reason being that he will be obliged to devote all his time to his canvass for congress and would be obliged to neglect the club. His successor will be chosen at the next meeting of the club.

The Master Painters.

The state association of master painters, in session at Minneapolis has elected the following officers: President, George M. Brack, St. Paul; vice president, J. H. LaVaquer, Duluth; secretary-treasurer, Harry B. Cramer, Minneapolis; executive committee, LaVaquer, Duluth; Grafton, of Winona; Locke, of Minneapolis; Crossow, of Stillwater, Schmidt, of Crookston.

Waterworks at Merritt.

The waterworks system of the village of Merritt which has just been completed by J. F. Dacey, was accepted by the city yesterday. A double pump having a capacity of 30,000 gallons per hour is used. The pumping station is located on Embarras lake and 2,000 feet of 6-inch pipe conveys the water to the village.

E. J. Davenport is in the city to study the workings of the Duluth stock exchange. He is secretary and manager of the Minneapolis stock exchange. From Duluth he goes to Chicago to investigate the stock exchange there.

"Billy" Got Off.

Col. Billy Traylor, the noted confidence man who was run out of Duluth about two weeks ago, was arrested Wednesday in Minneapolis for passing counterfeit money. He was examined yesterday before the United States commissioner and discharged.

PERISHED IN A WELL.

A Man Suffocated by Gas and Another Narrowly Escaped.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Aug. 19.—After discharging a shot in a new well in Summitown yesterday morning Eli Heilner went down before the smoke had cleared and was overcome by gas. Lewis Hartman responded to his cry for help. He had hardly reached the bottom before he grew faint. The bucket would hold but one and each wanted the other to go up first.

Heilner went first and when near the top fell and struck a rock, killing himself. Hartman had strength enough to draw himself and the corpse to the bucket, but fainted before he could signal. The men at the windlass saw the rope shake and hoisted it. Many persons fainted when they saw the ghastly burden. It is thought that Hartman will recover.

MRS. BLAINE OPOSED.

Therefore Mr. Blaine Will Not Take the Stump.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Another report is in circulation about Mr. Blaine's course in the present campaign. It is said that the message sent out from Bar Harbor stating that he would make a number of five-minute speeches in different parts of Maine is incorrect. He will do nothing of the kind.

It was about settled that he would make one speech in his old district, but Mrs. Blaine is very much opposed to this because of demands that will be made for speeches if he appears on the stump at all. Under these circumstances, it is probable that, instead of speaking, he will address his old constituents in an open letter. If it is decided to take this course the letter will appear inside of ten days.

THE BIG DULUTH.

A BLAZE OF FIRE

The Tennessee Miners Were Repulsed in a Vigorous Attack on Fort Anderson.

A Heavy Fusillade of Bullets From a Howitzer Killed Many of the Miners.

Gen. Anderson Advanced Under a Flag of Truce and Was Taken Prisoner.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 19.—A few minutes before 2 o'clock the miners began an attack on Fort Anderson. There were 300 of them, armed with all sorts of weapons. The return fire was ordered by Gen. Anderson and a blaze of fire went from the fort. Some were killed outright, and many were wounded. At the stockade they stopped and men clambered over the walls to release the convicts. The miners ordered the convicts to leave, and had them all captured when Gen. Anderson assembled all his soldiers at the side the miners were on, and moving the Howitzer to that side began to bombard them.

The miners stopped in the work of releasing the convicts and, turned to get out of the way of the heavy fusillade of bullets. Again and again their leaders begged them to fight, but they rushed down the hill and escaped the furious onslaught of the soldiers. With never a halt and never a rally they reached the bottom of the hill bearing twelve dead and more than twenty wounded miners with them. They hurried far out of the sight and reach of the guns. They then collected their shattered and wounded forces and it is feared there are more than half a hundred wounded and more dead than reported. Opinion is growing that an awful loss of life and innocent men can only be averted by prompt action of the governor in calling on the president to send Federal troops to the scene of action.

ATTACKED FROM AMBUSH.

Gen. Carnes' Force Had a Fight in Which Several Were Killed.

CLINTON, Tenn., Aug. 19.—Gen. Carnes, at the head of the Chattanooga contingent, reached here at 8 o'clock last night. He was warned that dynamite had been placed on the track and he dismounted his men, formed them in columns and started on the march to Coal Creek. The night was dark and the road wound through the heavy timber. Five miles east of Clinton the advance skirmishers of Gen. Carnes' forces heard voices in the timber, and, challenging, were answered by a volley which seemed to be all around them. No one was hit and the skirmish line fell back on the main body, which was now rapidly advancing.

The firing increased but the militiamen stood their ground like veterans. Four of the miners' dead were left in the underbrush. Gen. Carnes' casualties amounted to four dead and six wounded.

GEN. ANDERSON CAPTURED.

The Miners Violated the Terms of a Truce.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 19.—A special from the seat of war filed at 10 a. m. says: "A reporter who was under arrest by the miners since night before last and just escaped, says that the fighting began at 3 o'clock and continued without cessation until 6 o'clock.

"During the fight two or three of the leaders of the miners were captured by Gen. Anderson's troops. A truce was raised and the miners told Anderson if he would surrender their leaders they would allow him to return to his fort. He took the men and went down among the mob. When out of range of the guns he was captured and not allowed to return."

NOT VERY PLEASANT.

Cold, Drenching Rain Falling on the Troops.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 19.—Cold, drenching rain is falling throughout East Tennessee this morning and late arrivals of troops and citizens in Coal Creek are in very unpleasant condition. Few of them are supplied with overcoats and a great many have no blankets. Gen. Anderson is still a prisoner in the hands of the miners. He positively refuses to surrender his men, but his captors. He is closely guarded.

Coal Creek is virtually in the hands of the military authorities. More than 100 soldiers are quartered in the town. An occasion may arise when no regular engagement has been fought.

Would be Glad to Quit.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—At the office of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company nothing could be learned of the disturbance at Coal Creek. The company would be glad to surrender its lease if it could do so. It offered to surrender it at the last session of the legislature. Vice-President Baxter had stated this of the case very strongly and President T. C. Platt agreed with him.

Federal Aid Asked.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—It is officially stated that Gen. Grant this morning received a telegram from Governor Buchanan, of Tennessee, requesting the war department to furnish him with arms and ammunition and that orders have been issued to forward from Indianapolis 600 stands of arms and 30,000 rounds of ammunition.

ANOTHER RECORD BROKEN.

Hal Pointer Has Cut Down the World's

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—The world's pacing record was smashed yesterday. Hal Pointer went around Washington park in 2:05 1/4, making the fastest mile ever gone in harness. Ed. Geers, who handled the ribbons, waited till the wind died down. Finally the wind died away and when the bay gelding stepped upon the track at 6:10 there was scarcely a ripple on the bosom of the lake inside the track. After jogging up and down the track for five minutes, Geers turned at the distance flag and came down for the word.

Frank Starr was waiting behind Abe Lincoln and as Pointer rushed by he sent his runner after him, but before the upper turn was reached, Geers, not liking the way in which his horse was moving, turned and came back to the score a second time. As fast as a bullet Pointer came down to the wire. Geers rubbed his chin on the buttons of his black jacket and the starter, Frank Walker, rightly construing the gesture as a desire for the word gave it promptly, and Hal Pointer went forth for the effort of his life.

The gaily painted quarter pole was just ahead of Abe Lincoln, Pointer was beside him and passed him in a breath, and he swung into the back stretch going fast and true. Past the half-mile in 1:02 1/4, he went without the faintest suspicion of distress, going as steadily as though it was his every day exercise. He came from the distance flag as he had started from the wire, level headed, full of business and doing his best to accomplish all that his driver asked. He came past the judge's stand strong and fresh, and to all appearances able to do as well or better at some future time.

MURDER IN MANKATO.

A Man Fatally Wounded for the Sake of Robbery.

MANKATO, Minn., Aug. 19.—A horrible crime, which will probably end in murder, was perpetrated in this city at an early hour yesterday morning. A correspondent visited the scene of the tragedy and learned that Leonard Ray, a man about 60 years of age, had been robbed of $30 and had received fatal wounds. Mr. Ray is an employee at Willard & Polchow's brick yards, as is also Frank Kiefer, who is supposed to be the guilty party.

Kiefer's wife left him some time ago and went to Clear Lake, Ia., but now wishes to return and was trying to borrow money from several men Wednesday night, but was refused in each case. About 12:30 o'clock he met Ray in a saloon and asked for the money which he knew Ray had, and which he received. The injured man has a family here but sleeps in a shanty in the brick yard. It is thought he was followed home from the saloon and robbed.

He was found by his fellow workmen yesterday morning in a dying condition with his skull crushed, one ear severed from the head and one finger nearly cut off. The other hand was also bruised. He answered by a volley which seemed to be all around them. He is either hiding or has skipped out. A terrible struggle must have ensued, as there is a lot of blood outside the shanty and also inside. Ray is alive but unconscious, and recovery would be miraculous.

CALLING FOR RICE.

The Republican Candidacy in the Seventh Congressional.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 19.—Ex-Lieutenant Governor Rice, of Kandiyohi, is in the city in consultation with Republicans. The governor is being strongly pressed to run for congress in the Seventh district, since Gen. Clapp declines, and it is hoped he will consent. He said yesterday that he did not wish to be in it, but did not say he would not run.

It is pretty certain now that Kelsee, of Norman, will be nominated by the Democrats. Boen, the People's candidate, is not running well, and it is believed that Governor Rice is the man to make the effort to save a Republican there.

Whitelaw Reid's Movements.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Hon. Whitelaw Reid, the Republican vice presidential candidate, arrived here at 7:30 this morning. This afternoon he will attend a luncheon at the Union League club, to which all the editors of the daily papers have been invited, and also visit the World's fair grounds. This evening Mr. and Mrs. Reid will leave for Xenia, O., where they will remain several days at the home of Mr. Reid's mother.

Democratic Nominees.

DAVENPORT, Ia., Aug. 19.—The Democratic state convention yesterday nominated Col. J. H. McConlogue, of Mason City, for secretary of state; S. P. Van Dusen, of Davenport, for state auditor; Charles Rengbitz, for state treasurer; Judge Ezra Willard, of Atlantic, for attorney general, and W. S. Kent of Fort Madison, for railroad commissioner.

Run Down By the Harvester.

REDWOOD FALLS, Aug. 19.—A shocking accident happened to the 12-year-old daughter of Ole Johnson, a farmer living near here. She was in the harvest field and was run down by the harvester, which broke her arm, tearing the flesh from the arm. She was terribly bruised, but will probably recover.

"Joe" Davis Dead.

FARGO, N. D., Aug. 19.—A. C. Davis, better known as Joe Davis, is dead. He was one of the brightest members of the Fargo bar and was the partner of Col. A. D. Thomas, until he was appointed United States judge. Consumption was the cause of his death.

Killed By a Feed Wire.

SIoux CITY, Ia., Aug. 19.—Eris Rude, of Mankato, Minn., was instantly killed by an electric shock, transmitted from a street railway feed wire through a derelict guy cable. Two laboring men who had hold of the cable were also badly injured. Rude was terribly burned.

A Railway Boycotted.

DURQUE, Iowa, Aug. 19.—The Rhombberg Street Railway company has been boycotted by the trades and labor congress of this city, because the company refuses to allow its motomeers to join the union.

An Ex-Assemblyman Dead.

WESTFIELD, Wis., Aug. 19.—James W. Perkins, ex-assemblyman from this district, died at his home in this place yesterday morning of heart disease.

THE BIG DULUTH.

READY FOR ACTION

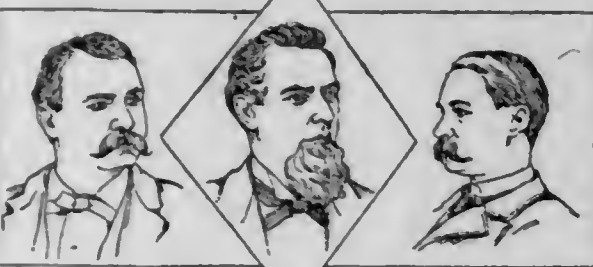

How the National Republican Committee is Well Housed in New York City.

Far Away From What Has Hitherto Been the Center of Political Activity.

E. J. Edwards Says That Chairman Carter is a Plowman Rather Than a Pyrotechnist.

The Republican national committee is now most comfortably housed upon upper Fifth avenue, New York city, and Chairman Carter and Secretary McComas are of opinion that it will prove to be a wise step that the committee has made its headquarters so far away from that part of the city which has hitherto been the center of political activity.

Mr. Carter said, upon taking the chairmanship, that he was unfamiliar with New York, and probably to this is due the selection of this Murray Hill house as the CLARKSON. CARTER. M'COMAS. committee's abiding place while it is doing its work. A New Yorker or an eastern man would have thought that no other location than one in the vicinity of the Fifth Avenue hotel would be suitable, but such opinion would be due simply to custom, which has heretofore indicated either that hotel or a house near by as the proper place in which to carry on the work of the campaign.

Politicians are rather pleased with the spirit shown by Mr. Carter in this unusual selection. They say that it is one of the indications of his self reliance and his disregard of conventionalities and custom, qualities which Mr. Tilden used to say go to make the greater political managers.

Mr. Carter has very comfortable private quarters in this new house, the room having formerly been the boudoir of the wife of the millionaire owner. Yet the chairman has not been in occupancy much longer than has been necessary to get acquainted with the surroundings and to meet such of the more conspicuous Republican politicians as have called to say a word of greeting and congratulation.

The work of organizing the house staff is in the hands of Secretary McComas. He is greatly pleased with the building, partly because it is out of the hurly burly of Madison square, partly because it is within three minutes' walk of the Union League club, where much of the financial strength of the campaign committee is to be obtained, and partly because it is scarcely a stone's throw from the home and offices of Chauncey M. Depew, who is expected to give the committee something of his counsel after his return from Europe early next month.

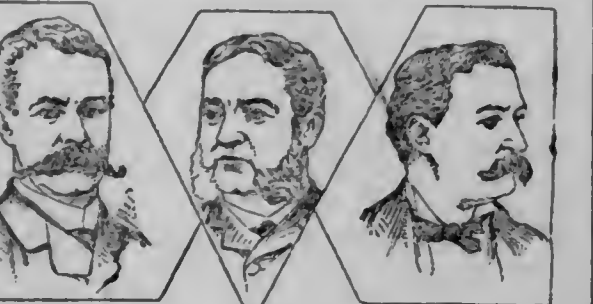

Mr. McComas' energy was sufficient to give him unusual reputation when he was a member of congress, and he seems to have brought all of it to New York. His methods and mannerisms are unlike those which have characterized some of his predecessors. Senator Dorsey, when he was secretary twelve years ago, was blunt, severe, rather difficult of approach, and was much of the time actually the executive head of the committee. Mr. Fessenden was plausible, always smiling, a good deal of a handshaker, very popular, but some of the politicians thought needlessly secretive. Mr. Fassett was secretary in name rather than in fact because he undertook duties for which his peculiar abilities were better fitted than for the executive work usually allotted to the secretary.

McComas seems admirably qualified for his work. He has already gained the favor of the New York politicians, who had known him before he came only by his congressional reputation. His energy is manifested in his quick step, his brief though pleasing speech, and he is all over the house like one who has the watchful eye. Yet this energy is not of that nervous aggressive sort that keeps everybody on needles and pins, as the saying is. It is rather the promptness and thoroughness of the business man whose heart is in his work.

Mr. McComas had not been installed in his office three days before he had mapped out a plan for the organization of the house staff, which it is believed will simplify the work, reduce the expense and yet give the best results. There will be a bureau of correspondence, one of finance and one having charge of the dissemination of campaign literature. Each of these will have a responsible head and a sufficient number of clerks to do the business properly. Business methods will prevail with all paid employees. Mr. McComas will himself take special charge of the correspondence, while of course assuming general control of the house staff.

It has entailed no little labor to get this organization well under way, and it is hardly expected that it will be running smoothly before the middle of August. The campaign proper can hardly begin before the 1st of September, but Mr. Carter believes that this delay will be of advantage. Eight weeks of steady fighting after thorough preparation, in his opinion, will secure better results than a desultory sort of campaign, begun before organization is complete and extending over three or four months.

Carter's course has been watched with anxious interest by the local politicians of New York since he took charge of the committee. He was so little known before the Minneapolis convention that few of the local New York leaders had ever seen him, and some of them said that they had never even heard of him. He has his spurs to win, but the local politicians who have met him in the new headquarters are convinced that he will win them.

He is making headquarters at the charge of his rooms utterly without ostentation or the mannerism or vanity. He has since then spent much of his time in making acquaintances. Many of the local leaders have called on him, and they all say that he is a splendid listener, an earnest seeker after opinion, but possessed of such self control that it is hard to read his thoughts either by his speech or in his looks. He is not taciturn, like Quay, his predecessor, yet he suggests even greater secretiveness. He is not jolly, impressing a company with a gorgeous good nature, as was Jewell, another of his predecessors, yet he suggests kindness and sympathy, and above all the determination of absolute good faith in all his relations with men.

It is believed by those who have seen and chatted with him at the headquarters that when the campaign begins Mr. Carter will as absolutely dominate it as any chairman of either party ever did. Moreover it is the impression that he will, like Grant, call no counsel of war, but will fight the battle on his own plans, betraying no more of them to any one than is necessary for the carrying of them out. Such is the present opinion at least of the local politicians in New York city.

Mr. Carter has an advisory committee who will be with him much of the time, but the other members of the national committee are not expected to be often at headquarters. Chief among the lieutenants is Mr. Clarkson. With him, Mr. Carter has been spending much of the time at headquarters, and also at Mr. Clarkson's summer place at Long Branch. Clarkson's knowledge of the details of national committee work is perhaps greater than that of any person who ever served upon the committee. It is greater than Mr. Quay's, although Quay has been esteemed a greater political strategist than Clarkson. This knowledge Mr. Carter is absorbing. The detail, the minutiae, he had all to learn after he became chairman.

Another member of this inner council of advisers is Cornelius X. Bliss, who is the treasurer of the national committee. Mr. Bliss is one of the most conspicuous of the local Republicans. He is of the Union League set. His acquaintance with the great merchants of New York is very great, for he is one of them. Upon him rests the obligation of raising the money necessary to carry on the campaign, and the important and rather complicated financial affairs of the committee will be absolutely in his control. He will work harder than any bank president and he will get nothing but thanks. Sometimes treasurers do not always receive such acknowledgment, but only duns from creditors of the committee. That was the case with one of the treasurers a few years ago.

Secretary McComas is another member of the executive council, and Mr. Fessenden, of Connecticut, another. Fessenden has been fishing in Maine so that he might get vigor for the campaign. He is a keen politician, whose heart was almost broken when Maine was defeated in 1884.

These four men will probably be in daily consultation. Other members of the advisory committee, like Mr. Manley, of Maine, or Mr. Sutherland, of New York, will be in occasional attendance, but the burden of the canvass is likely to be borne by these just mentioned. Yet it is plain that the master is to be the chairman, Mr. Carter, and his method is to plow rather than to fire skyrockets.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS. The care of these headquarters and the comfort of the committee are in the hands of Colonel H. L. Swords, who has been appointed sergeant-at-arms. Colonel Swords, in the campaign of 1888, revealed unusual capacity for this rather difficult work, which requires both firmness and tact.

He must be at the headquarters all the time, and it is probable that he will only leave the building for his meals or when engaged in duty for the committee. Colonel Swords' wide acquaintance with the politicians is not the least of his qualifications for this duty, and his good nature, which became proverbial during the last campaign, brought him the favor of all who called upon the committee.

His duties in some respects are much the same as those of the sergeant-at-arms of the house of representatives, and he will have charge of the payment of the employees.

A Novel Flytrap.

A druggist in the upper part of New York city, after trying numerous plans for the extermination of the flies which swarmed about his place, at last hit upon a device which does the work successfully and thoroughly. The apparatus, says The Sun, is run by a little electric motor and gathers in the flies with great celerity and absolute certainty. A piece of strong brown paper, about four inches wide and fifteen inches long, is fastened in a continuous band around two rollers, which are kept revolving at a slow rate by the motor. The band is slightly smeared with a sweet substance. Two-thirds of the length of the band is freely exposed, but at the other roller it runs under a wire cone and then against a brush. The flies alight on the slowly moving band and unsuspectingly remain there sipping the sweets, until brushed off, when they fly up into the cone, from which they can find no exit. The cone is a species of flytrap, quite a common device, but the electric motor does not leave it to the flies to go into the trap, but milroads them to destruction. The way it catches flies is a caution.

The Largest Fresh Water Vessel. Work will shortly be begun in West Bay, Mich., on what will be the largest boat of any kind ever built on or for fresh water service. It will be 300 feet long and 40 feet wide. Her extreme draft will be nearly 400 feet, and she will carry on sixteen feet of water not less than 4,500 tons dead weight. This is said to be much more than the average cargo of salt water steamers, and for the same draft is without precedent. When projected improvements in canals are made she will carry over 6,000 tons. She will have a speed of thirteen miles an hour and will be ready for service next spring.

MINNESOTA DEMOCRATS.

They Name Daniel W. Lawler as Their Candidate for Governor.

Daniel W. Lawler, whom the Democrats of Minnesota have nominated for governor, is one of the youngest gubernatorial candidates of the year, as he is but thirty-two years old.

Mr. Lawler was born in Prairie du Chien, Wis. He is the son of General John Lawler, who was long a prominent figure in Wisconsin Democratic politics, and it is probably due to this fact that the son early imbibed a taste for campaigning. General Lawler was a very eloquent speaker.

After receiving a preliminary education in the local schools, Daniel W. Lawler was sent to the Georgetown (D. C.) college, whence he was graduated in 1881 as an A. B. Six years later his alma mater conferred upon him the degree of A. M. After leaving Georgetown Mr. Lawler took the law course at Yale. In 1883 he won the Betts prize for scholarship, and received the degree of LL. B. The following year he captured the Townsend prize for the master's oration, and was additionally honored by having conferred upon him the degree of M. L.

D. W. LAWLER.

Mr. Lawler then located in St. Paul, where in 1886 he formed a copartnership with E. S. Durmont. The firm is still in existence under the title of Lawler, Durmont & Bigelow. He was married in 1886 to Miss Elizabeth O'Leary, of St. Paul. The union has been blessed by two children.

During the second year of Mr. Cleveland's administration Mr. Lawler was appointed assistant United States district attorney for his district. He held this place for two years, when he resigned in order to give his undivided attention to his law practice. His services, however, have been regularly brought into requisition by the Democratic party of his state in all the recent campaigns. He can make a strong speech equally well in German or in English. He enjoys a large, lucrative law practice, and last year was elected corporation counsel of St. Paul by the unanimous vote of both Democratic and Republican members of the common council.

Fred Sharon's Poodle.

Of all the queer ways in which very rich people scatter their money the queerest to the eye of a man with no fancy in that way is squandering it on dogs. There is young Fred Sharon, of the Palace hotel, San Francisco, for instance, who recently paid 800 francs for a ridiculous little poodle in Paris, brought him across the ocean and the continent in the finest style money could provide and now keeps him at the Palace in superlatively elegant surroundings.

All San Francisco agrees that he is the cutest, queerest, homeliest canine that ever appeared on that coast, but he has a long, long pedigree; his ancestors have been the pets of dukes and countesses for centuries, and his name is Said. He is shaven clean from the middle backward and down to the ankles, where frills are left of his natural hair, which is black as the crow's wing and as fine as silk. Around the head and shoulders he is maned like a little lion, and ages of cleaning and combing have done their perfect work on his race in the way of making fine hair.

On the ocean steamer the stewards were well paid to care for him. On the railroad across the continent he had a lower berth to sleep in and the best place that money could procure in the palace car; he breakfasted on warm milk and dined on chicken breast and other delicacies and now rooms with his owner and lives like a lord. He is as dainty as a Lucullus and as frivolous as a Danderey, but can play all the little tricks a smart poodle is capable of. He is therefore the pride of young Sharon's eye and the joy of his heart. His meals are served from the restaurant, on his own

LEASED TO MOORE.

The Big Gogebic Iron Man Gets Part of the New England Iron Company's Property.

Minimum of 150,000 Tons to be Taken Out at Fifty-Five Cents Royalty.

The Wyoming Company Sub-Leases Eight Forties—Minneapolis Iron Company Meets Tomorrow.

The New England Iron company, whose stockholders consist of A. E. Humphreys, John McKinley, George E. Milligan, all of Duluth, and L. Swift, Jr., W. H. Lynn and Alden J. Blethen, of Minneapolis, held a meeting Wednesday and closed a big deal through Nat D. Moore, the big Gogebic iron man. He has been figuring on Mesaba lands and mines for some time and has got hold of some very choice properties.

By the deal just made the New England company transfers to him nineteen forties in 58-17 and leases one forty in section 9, 58-17, for twenty years. Fifty thousand dollars cash, as advanced royalties, was paid down, and under the lease the parties agree to take out not less than 150,000 tons per annum, with a probable output of double that amount, on which 55 cents a ton are to be paid. Moore made the deal for himself and other Eastern parties, but it is more than probable that he is himself heavily interested in the deal. The New England still owns twenty forties of good lands in the same township and range.

Subleased Eight Forties.
The Wyoming Iron company held a meeting yesterday and subleased eight forties of its lands to A. J. Decker & Co. The consideration was $40,000 and the lessees are to mine at least 25,000 tons each year and pay 30 cents royalty on the same.

The Minneapolis Iron company stockholders have a meeting in Minneapolis tomorrow and A. E. Humphreys, Robert Carr, G. E. Milligan, Capt. Pressnell and others will go down. Besides other business matters which will come up, several propositions for leases of the company's property will be considered and it is possible that one of them will be accepted.

THE GOLD TRAIN.

J. L. LeRoy Who Was One of the Guards Returns.

J. L. LeRoy, postal clerk on the Duluth & Abbotssford railway postoffice, has returned from his long trip across the continent as one of the escort, which took the $200,000 of gold from San Francisco to New York. Mr. LeRoy has been in the postal service for twelve years and was one of the nine men selected for the extra duty from this district. He says the four cars in the train were ordinary postal cars belonging to different roads; that the so-called guards were nothing more or less than regular railway postoffice employees, and that the 500 boxes of gold coin containing $40,000 each were just treated as any ordinary registered mail, except that an extra force of postal clerks were on duty all the time.

The train ran as a second section of the fast mail from San Francisco clear to New York. The postal clerks had a number of Winchester rifles with them; also smaller arms, including some of the very effective Colt's navy revolvers. The force of clerks was divided into reliefs which were six hours on duty and six off. The train traveled over Union Pacific tracks from San Francisco to Ogden; on the Central Pacific from Ogden to Omaha; on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy from Omaha to Chicago; on the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern from Chicago to Buffalo; and on the New York Central from Buffalo to New York. The train left San Francisco on the evening of Aug. 4 and was in New York the following Monday, Aug. 8. Capt. White, the superintendent of the railway mail service, and five superintendents of divisions, accompanied the train. The boxes were piled over the trucks on the floor of each car and there were 125 boxes in each car.

DROPPED ONE CENT.

All the Wheat Markets Were Marked By Weakness Today.

The wheat market here today opened steady but easier, with sellers at last night's prices. All the markets are weak at present owing to weak cables, heavy receipts at winter wheat points, favorable crop reports from spring wheat sections, and the Buffalo strike and resultant block in freight movement. There was a fair demand today for car lots by the millers and some transactions in No. 1 northern for September delivery. The market ruled heavy and closed dull and 1c lower all round than yesterday, as follows:

No. 1 hard, cash, 81c; August, 81c; September, 80c; December, 81 1/2c. No. 1 northern, cash, 77c; August, 77c; September, 77c; December, 78c. No. 2 northern, cash, 71 1/2c. No. 3, 61 1/2c. Rejected, 51 1/2c. On track—No. 1 hard, 80c; No. 1 northern, 78c. Car inspection today, 65c. Receipts—Wheat, 56,250 bus; corn, 925 bus; flax, 1325 bus. Shipments—Wheat, 105,059 bus. Cars on track—Wheat, 83; last year, 58; corn, 32.

Outside Markets.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 19.—Wheat: August, 72 1/2c; September, 72 1/2c; December, 73 1/2c. On track—No. 1 hard, 79 1/2c; No. 1 northern, 78c; No. 2 northern, 68 1/2c. CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Wheat, September, 75 1/2c. Corn, September, 52 1/2c. Oats, September, 33 1/2c; October, 33 1/2c. Pork, September, $11.37 1/2. Lard, September, $7.77 1/2; October, $7.77 1/2. HE BOUGHT THE CIGARS.

Alderman Long and Hugo Have a Little Argument.

Quite an amusing discussion occurred in the city clerk's office this morning between Alderman Long and N. F. Hugo over the comments on the Northeastern railway attributed to Alderman Hugo in the morning papers. The latter in the heat of the argument made the sweeping assertion that Acting Engineer Reid would acknowledge that he had made a mistake in his report to the effect that work had not been commenced on any of the streets and alleys granted in the franchise. Alderman Long immediately made a bet of the cigars for the crowd that he would not and brought the engineer in. He, of course, reaffirmed just what his report contained and the cigars had to come from Alderman Hugo. He afterward explained that he intended to say that Engineer Reid would not deny that work had been commenced on the road.

FULL OF FUN.

The Municipal Court Was All Smiles This Morning.

Judge Winje's court sometimes has touches of tragedy in its proceedings, but today was one where comedy held full sway. Patrick O'Connell pleaded guilty to a big drunk, but wanted the judge to cut the price but he refused. John O'Brien wanted to be let off easy because he had been "payin' fines, money and money's the time the last eight years beyant in the police court, and every time I gets drunk, I gets pulled in. I alters gets the worst of it, judge, and I'm ashamed of myself, by jimminy I am judge!" He went up on the hill with the others. Daniel Cox, John Traynor, John Davis, Fred Monon, and Frank J. Kelly each got the usual ten days. Adam Kasser and Robert East will be tried this afternoon. John Robinson, a clear-eyed young tough, got $25 or twenty-five days and would have got two years if the municipal court could have given it.

Anton Forsy, aged 13, and Louis Forsy, aged 14, were up for the larceny of a combination marine and field binoculars, the property of the United States. They were found guilty and as their parents do not appear to care for them they will be sent to the reform school. They are the young chaps who have been looting fruit stores and camping all summer on Minnesota Point, two miles from the entry.

WILL BE NO ADVANCE.

Lumbermen Believe That Rates Here Will Remain as They Are.

There has been considerable interest in the city as to whether the advance in lumber rates made by the Mississippi Valley Lumbermen's association at Minneapolis a few days ago will extend to Duluth. Local lumbermen do not believe that it will. They say that prices are stiffening somewhat but there has been no radical advance made at present. Stocks are low and there is a great demand for lumber, especially in the local market but prices will hardly change.

Local lumbermen also say that the advance in prices at Minneapolis and the southern points will have the effect of turning trade toward Duluth if there is no change here. With the rates on a fairly equal basis Minneapolis has the advantage of prestige in securing the trade, but lumbermen here believe that if once secured it can be held. There is another feature, too, which cannot be lost sight of. A heavy advance in rates would mean the influx of Southern yellow pine, and competition from that source would force the rates down. There can be no heavy advance without running against this snag.

Are Getting Mixed.

The similarities in the names of mining companies are causing some complications in the delivery of mails. This is especially true in the case of the Ohio Mining company and the Ohio Iron company. The former is the original company, owner of the property, while the latter is the company formed by the lessees to work the mine.

District Court Matters.

Charles Swanson vs. Daniel Kenney is the title of an action commenced in the district court, wherein the plaintiff wants damages of $500 from the defendant on account of his arrest by the defendant who is a policeman. Swanson claims his reputation was injured to that extent.

A. R. Anderson vs. Hans Gilbertson is an action brought to recover $63.36, the amount being the balance due for goods furnished. The judgment roll amounting to $78.23 has been filed.

A judgment roll in favor of George N. Foster et al against Frank and Frankie Breeze for $158.37, the balance due on a promissory note.

His patients of last year brought so many of their friends this year that he has been sorely pressed, working day and night. Nor does he know yet how long the course will continue, as it will depend on the audience. When it is done he must leave for the South, where other crowds as great await his coming, as they have done for many years. The circle grows larger and larger daily.

TROUBLE ENDED.

The Rioting Miners in East Tennessee
Have at Last Been Effectually Suppressed.

Gen. Carnes in Full Control at Coal Creek and Has Discharged
the Volunteers.

Serious Forgery Committed by Miners
When in Control of the Telegraph Line.

Eight Miners Known to Have Been Killed in the Fights Since Thursday.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 20.—Governor Buchanan has just received a dispatch from Gen. Carnes at Coal Creek saying that he was in full control and only the First and Second regiments would be needed to maintain the peace.
Governor Buchanan through Adj. Gen.
Forman thereupon telegraphed Gen.
Carnes to have the posses disbanded and arranged for their transportation home.
This news was received with great satisfaction and is regarded an end of trouble.

While the miners had control of the Knoxville and Ohio telegraph line it was worked for all there was in it. Rank forgeries were committed hourly and much confusion in press dispatches from that section was due to their censorship.
The most serious forgery committed was that of a message sent to Governor Buchanan purporting to be signed by the Knoxville Iron company and giving twenty days' notice of abrogation of the lease of convicts. Acting on what he believed to be an authoritative statement, the governor entered into correspondence with the Tennessee Coal and Iron company and the Knoxville Iron company which has resulted in a racy war of words.

One A. Brown, secretary of the Knoxville Iron company, authorizes and requests the statement that his company has never for a moment considered the idea of throwing up the lease and they propose to work the convicts as long as the state authorities stand by them.
They have explained the matter to the governor, and made known their intention of working the convicts at all hazards.

CAN HOLD THE GROUND.

Gen. Carnes Has Discharged All the Volunteers.

KNOXVILLE, Aug. 20.—Another train from Coal Creek with 250 Chattanooga volunteers arrived at 12:20. Gen. Carnes has discharged all the volunteers and says he can hold the ground with the regular soldiers. A memorial meeting is in progress at the courthouse in honor of the volunteers killed yesterday. Many business houses are closed.

The bodies of Privates Frank Smith, of Chattanooga, and Sidney Waterford, of Memphis, who were killed in the assault on Fort Anderson Thursday afternoon, were brought here on the East train.
Smith was killed by a bullet from a miner's Winchester and Waterford by the explosion of a mountain howitzer.
Eight miners are known to have been killed since Thursday.

WERE AFRAID TO GO.

Jellico Miners Start for Coal Creek.
But Turn Back.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 20.—All the miners in Jellico district, including those from Middlesboro, Ky., are massed at Jellico. A great deal of whisky is being used and the leaders are endeavoring to organize a force sufficient in size to take Coal Creek. Three hundred of the Middlesboro miners captured a train at Cordis, Ky., on the Louisville & Nashville railroad yesterday morning.
They got within four miles of Coal Creek, when their courage failed them, and they turned back. They reached Jellico on the return trip about 4 o'clock and were received with yells by those who had remained behind. A miner from Jellico, named Roberts, was killed on the trip. He was riding on top of a box car and came in contact with the roof of a tunnel.

GOOD TIMES COMING.

Real Estate is Regaining Some of Its Old Activity.

One of the most satisfactory indications that Duluth is on the verge of a season of unusual prosperity is the improvement of the real estate market. A number of good sales have been made during the past two weeks and the agents are all surprised at the number of inquiries which they are receiving.
Naturally all, too, want inside property and the most pleasing feature is that these inquiries come from outsiders. There is plenty of money in Duluth today, which can be had at low rates of interest, indeed the supply exceeds the demand.
Some of the men of the city who, were very heavy borrowers a few months ago have gradually decreased their indebtedness and improved their financial conditions. Altogether, the indications for the future are very satisfactory.

Hit Him in the Neck.

An unprovoked assault was committed on M. S. McCormick, a non-union plumber, this afternoon as he was going peaceably along the street to his work.
A union plumber, named Ardoin, as nearly as could be learned, struck him in the neck and as he turned struck him with knuckles in the face cutting it open.
He then fled before the eight or ten witnesses could catch him.

OUTRAGES BY THE TURKS.

Missionary's House in Asia Minor Burned One of the Outrages.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Missionary troubles in Turkey, such as the burning of Dr. Bartlett's house at Bourdour, Asia Minor, which has occasioned the sending of the gunboats Newark and Bennington to the Bosphorus to enforce the United States' demand for "effective protection, indemnity, punishment of the guilty parties, and reprimand of the authorities, if found remiss," have been of frequent occurrence.

These unredressed outrages have apparently led the state department to the conclusion that its demands upon Turkey for protection to American missionaries must be enforced by something stronger than diplomatic correspondence. Hence the dispatch of gunboats to the Bosphorus contemporaneously with the request for reparation and indemnities. This morning's press dispatches announce that the Newark sailed yesterday from Gibraltar for Genoa. The Bennington is already on its way to that port, both vessels being under orders to participate in the Columbian celebration there.

They will probably receive their orders countermanding the "junker" and assigning them to active duty in Turkish waters at Toulon, France, where the vessels are directed to stop for mail. It is understood that cable orders to await detailed instructions either at Toulon or at Barcelona, Spain, have been sent to the commanders of each vessel.

THE HOMESTEAD STRIKE.

An Official Statement by the Advisory Committee.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Aug. 20.—The advisory board of the strikers this morning issued an official statement to the press.
It is charged that the company has agents trying to induce old men to return, being dissatisfied with their new work. It is said the material turned out is inferior and has been condemned by government inspectors. The largest daily output is placed at 10,000 pounds a day, while formerly the armor plate mill did as much in an hour.

The statement threatens a general boycott as soon as the necessity arises.
Treasurer Curry, of the Carnegie Steel company, when shown the statement, denied it in toto. In detail he said the government inspectors had not rejected a pound of material made by the new men. The old men had not been begged to come back.

A YOUNG BOY KILLED.

A Cave-in at St. Paul Demolishes Two Shanties.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 20.—The earth in the rear of the Wagner block on East Seventh street caved in this morning and was precipitated against some of the shanties in Swede Hollow, where many squatters live. Two of the shanties were demolished, and a 7-year-old boy named Patrick Whalen was killed. Two little girls were badly injured. The Wagner block is in danger of toppling over into the hollow, seventy feet below, and the occupants are moving out.

Trouble in Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 20.—Capt.
G. O. Blakeney, commanding the Morrilton guards who has his company in camp here, received a telegram last night from the mayor of Morrilton asking him to bring his company and every available man to Morrilton at once as they are needed. Captain Blakeney left with his company at 8:30 this morning.
The exact nature of the trouble is not known but trouble of a political nature is feared.

Decrease in Deaths.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 20.—According to the official report there were 693 new cases of cholera yesterday throughout Russia and 2376 deaths. This is a decrease of 974 new cases and 1106 deaths as compared with the figures for Thursday.

Complaints at Pittsburg that More Soldiers are Kept There Than are Necessary.

They are Keeping Erie County a Pretty Stupid and the People are Kicking.

The Attitude to Lift the Freight Blockade Only Partly Successful So Far.

BUFFALO, Aug. 20.—The second week of the railroad strike opened today.
Three features are most prominent this morning: An army of 5000 soldiers are quartered on the county and city; an attempt, only partly successful so far, is being made to lift the freight blockade, and the danger of a strike of kindred organizations is less imminent than heretofore. A cry has gone up for the recall of some portion of Gen. Porter's large army, which is costing Erie county a pretty sum. Only thirty trains of freight were moved out of the city yesterday by the roads affected, as compared with usual average of 200 a day. This would indicate that more than the protection of the National Guard is needed to enable the several roads to do business.

The real trouble seems to be procuring and drilling of new men. The strikers are reported as not satisfied with the make-up of the seven roads and while Grand Master Sweeney endeavors without avail to arbitrate, plans are being discussed to still further cripple the roads. It is stated on good authority that unless the demands of the men are met the freight trainmen and others will be ordered out. An important crisis in the strike has been reached. It is stated to be almost a certainty that the locomotive firemen on the Lehigh, Erie and Lake Shore, West Shore and Central roads will go out between 6 o'clock this evening and Sunday morning, and that the trainmen and conductors will follow them.

This strike, should it occur, will be the outcome of a secret meeting of the five local lodges of firemen, held last night, which lasted after midnight.
About 250 men were in attendance, representing all the lodges in the city as well as the several roads. The trainmen and Conductors' brotherhood were represented by delegates. It is reported that 507 members of the Firemen's brotherhood are unanimously in favor of declaring a strike on the Lake Shore, West Shore and Central roads. Many of the members urged that the local lodges order the strike immediately, but they are held back by more conservative members who backed the matter to Grand Master Sargent. It was stated by one of the firemen that it was quite probable that the grand master would comply with the wishes of the local organization.
The strike will be sympathetic, and no bill of grievances will be presented.
However, the firemen insist that if the switchmen are given the ten-hour system it should apply to them also. Otherwise it would be direct discrimination against their organization.

The troops from out of town, especially those from the eastern part of the state, are having about as much of hardship as either the strikers or the railroads. They were routed out of a hurry and most of them came unprepared for a long stay.
No preparations were made to receive them here, not even rations were provided.
Sheriff Beck is busy and much worried.
He is damned for calling out the state troops, and he is damned for not calling them out sooner. He is pestered by demands for the withdrawal of the troops and likewise for their retention. Personally he does not think such an army of soldiers necessary. Today he will look over the ground, and if he finds everything all right and quiet and the roads encountering no trouble, he will ask the governor to withdraw the troops. In the opinion of many all obstructions to yard business will disappear in a day or two.

Powder was burned and bullets flew thick and fast at Camp Seven at East Buffalo last night. The first order to fire was given near midnight when the Seventy-first regiment guard was called out to repel some men who were stoning a train of non-union men. The soldiers came and the stoning continued. The gang was on the Erie trestle and then the order to fire was given. A volley was turned loose at them and they scattered. Another volley was fired and the men broke and ran under cover of darkness. They were pursued but escaped.
The Buffalo rioters are spreading out and creating trouble at other points.
They visited Suspension bridge last night and drove away the switchmen who were making up and sending out freight trains. This information was given this morning by Assistant Superintendent Rossiter. Mr. Rossiter received a long dispatch from the Central agent at Suspension bridge at 10 o'clock saying there was a small riot there at 3 o'clock this morning. A lot of tough Buffalonians visited the Central yards and drove the switchmen and yardmen away. The strikers flourished revolvers and two or three shots were fired in the air.

The police of Suspension Bridge rushed to the scene but the strikers were too strong and too well armed for them to do anything. The Central authorities called upon their sheriff of Niagara county today to protect their property, telling him they would hold the county responsible for all damage to their property, and Mr. Webb is going to ask for military protection.

A Coming Marriage.
Cards are out announcing the early marriage of Charles L. Batchelder, son of Hon. George W. Batchelder, son of Hon. George W. Batchelder, to Miss Allie Chase, daughter of K. D. Chase, of the Duluth, Mesaba & Northern railroad, both of Faribault, and having numerous friends in Duluth.

OPPOSITE WEST SUPERIOR HOTEL.

DAWKINS BLOCK, CORNER TOWER AND BELKNAP AVENUES.

With pleasure we invite the people of Superior, Duluth and vicinity to participate in the dedication to BUSINESS of the new "DAWKINS BLOCK" at 8 A. M., MONDAY, Aug. 22,

When we will informally open to the public the Largest, Most Complete, the Finest Furnished,
The Most Magnificent Mercantile Establishment West of Chicago.

Hundreds of cases of New Fall Goods have already arrived and will be placed on sale at our opening. Hundreds more will shortly follow. The doors will open Monday morning upon a stock of over

Two Hundred Thousand Dollars Worth of New Fall Dry Goods.

More than double the stock of any store at the Head of the Lakes—three times more stock than all other dry goods stores in Superior combined. The Live Man takes this opportunity to thank his 50,000 customers for the more than generous patronage which has enabled him to enlarge and extend his business for the third time within 20 months. The broad-gauge, liberal, open-handed policy which has always been pursued, and which within less than two years has carried the Live Man through the changes from the modest little 20 foot room into the big double, then into the triple store and now into that magnificent mile-stone of the march of commerce, "The Dawkins Block" will be continued in the future. No effort will be spared to make this the most popular establishment that can possibly be run. MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN—ALL ARE WELCOME. Each and all will be served exactly alike. The poor as well as the rich, the visitor as well as the purchaser, the artisan as well as the millionaire.

Buying all goods directly from the manufacturers and buying only in the largest quantities on the same basis as a wholesale house, enables us to sell goods direct to our customers at as low or lower prices than any other house in this vicinity can buy them. As an evidence of our ability to undersell any other dealer we give you the following.

GUARANTEE:

Bring the advertised SPECIAL BARGAINS of any other house to THE LIVE MAN and he will discount it TEN PER CENT for the same goods. One other guarantee we give you: We never advertise untruthfully and never misrepresent.

A Cordial Welcome Will be Extended to All at the Opening of the DAWKINS BLOCK, Monday.

"FAIR TO ACTIVE."

To Use a Wheat Market Term, that Was the Condition of Society This Week.

The Q. F. U. Fair was Made Quite a Social Event and was Largely Attended.

A Few Dances, Fishing Parties and Jaunts are Recorded—Other Social Gossip.

Social life has been, to quote an expression of the wheat market, "fair to active" during the last few days, although nothing of very great moment has transpired during the week. The "Q. F. U." fair, while not strictly a social happening, was perhaps the most widely attended event of the last six days. There have been a large number of tourist parties here, arriving daily. People are actually getting to admire that jaunty little outing cap, even when perched on a feminine head. The recent change in the weather has made lawn parties somewhat "chilly" affairs for the last two or three evenings, but it is said that the social knowing ones are arranging a series of "mixed" evenings, which may be summed up as outside enjoyment if the weather is warm, and inside enjoyment if the weather is cool, or a little of both, to suit all temperaments.

Social Mention.
 One of the pleasantest little jaunts of the week was the cruise of the "Nevergreen" club, who made the Sunday, Monday and Tuesday trip on the Dooth steamer H. R. Dixon. At present there are only few members in the club, but six of them enjoyed the trip. Their names are Miss Mary Morrison, Miss Messenger, Miss McDougall, W. H. Jones, C. M. Corcoran and W. D. Underhill. Some instrumental music was given but the Aolian quartet enlivened many delightful moments with their vocal selections.

The first annual ball of company H, of the Third regiment, at West Duluth, on Wednesday evening, attracted a large number of ladies and gentlemen from Duluth. It was the first entertainment of the kind ever given there and was thoroughly enjoyed.

The wedding of Miss Tina Burns, of Minneapolis, to Mr. J. J. Ryan, of West Duluth, occurred in the Flour city Thursday morning. Miss Burns is a former resident of West Duluth and the young people have a host of friends here. After a trip East, visiting Milwaukee, Chicago and Sault Ste. Marie, Mr. and Mrs. Ryan will return home about Sept. 1.

A number of the Duluth ladies who accompanied their husbands on the recent Knights Templar gathering at Denver have returned home thoroughly delighted with their trip.

A rural dance was given Thursday evening at Lester Park hall by Misses Ludd, Kelly and Thornton. It was a genuine country dance and the young gentlemen all wore negligee shirts and negligee clothes generally, the young ladies wearing outing costumes. The program contained sixteen dances and it was a very happy crowd of young folks that tripped through them.

Mrs. E. W. Markell, the Misses Hunter, L. B. Manley and Mr. R. M. Hunter are trouting on the Nipigon river.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Covey and children and several friends, Dr. C. F. McComb, the two Misses McComb and young Mr. McComb formed a pleasant Isle Royale party on the Dixon last Wednesday.

The "Q. F. U." bazaar at the Spalding house Wednesday afternoon and evening was highly successful and largely attended. The young ladies who presided over the different departments did so with matronly precision. Among the young ladies who thus helped for "charity's sweet sake" were Miss Bernice Crowley, Miss Mabel White, Miss Jessie Stocking, Miss Vergie La Vaque, Miss Teiza Hirsch, Miss Julia Chapin, Miss Mate Maxwell, Miss Florence Bailey, Miss Bessie Strayer, Miss Margaret Graff, Miss Alice Peyton, Miss Fannie Edwards, Miss Jennie Magoffin, Miss May Ford, Miss Minnie McLeran and others.

Social Personal.

Miss May Birch is home from Preston, Minn.

Miss Clara Shephard has gone to Tower.

Mrs. W. H. Alden is visiting in St. Cloud.

Miss Ida Andrews, of Tower, has returned home.

Mrs. W. H. H. Stowell is spending a week in St. Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Andrews, of Grand Forks are here visiting friends.

Mrs. M. B. Farrell and Miss Sadie Farrell have returned to St. Paul.

Mrs. F. A. Richardson leaves next Tuesday for a visit to Delawan, Wis.

Mrs. C. P. Maginnis is receiving a visit from Miss Mamie Carey, of Ely.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Dennett, of West Duluth, have returned from an extended trip.

Mrs. Dr. Day is receiving a visit from her sister, Miss May Morris, of St. Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Merrill, of Saginaw, Mich., were in the city during the week.

Mrs. J. D. Kenna and Mrs. George Foley have returned from the Twin cities.

Miss Chamberlain is enjoying a visit from Miss Lou Webb, of Pontiac, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Mahon and child have returned from a trip to Mackinac island.

Mrs. B. Carroll, of West Duluth, has gone to Toronto, Canada, to visit her parents.

Mrs. Kenna, at Crosley Park, is entertaining Miss Agnes McFeeley, of Minneapolis.

Mrs. J. Stone spent several days in Tower this week, the guest of Mrs. Will McQuade.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Woodbridge have come back from a fortnight's stay in Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Vanderpool, sister of Mrs. W. P. Heinbach, has returned home to Des-nover Park.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Fitch, of the South Shore road, were in the city during the week.

Mrs. Camille Poirier and two sons, and Miss Lydia Poirier, are at Grand Marais, north shore.

Mrs. W. H. Bassett is in receipt of a visit from her sister, Miss Kate Swettling, of Berlin, Wis.

Mrs. R. S. Freeman and Miss Sadie Johnson, of River Falls, Wis., are visiting in Duluth.

Mrs. E. McDaniel is entertaining Mrs. Eggleston, of Sumner, Ia., at 316 West Seventh street.

Miss Alice Bloomer and Miss Grace Woodside have returned from a lake trip to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Horton and daughter, of St. Paul, were in Duluth during the week.

Mrs. A. R. Pierce and Mrs. G. S. Brower have just returned from a trip to the Atlantic coast.

Miss A. G. Glover has returned to West Duluth from Detroit, Mich., much improved in health.

Mrs. Foley, of Lester Park, is enjoying a brief visit from Miss Frances Burns, of Minneapolis.

Mrs. E. Wells, Mrs. E. E. Holbrook and Miss Emily Eddy, of Delavan, Wis., were in the city this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John N. Burns are entertaining their daughter, Mrs. L. C. Matthews, of Fergus Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Sinclair are back from their Isle Royale trip which they say was "perfectly lovely."

Mrs. J. C. Robinson is visiting her mother in Fargo. Mr. Robinson has returned from his Alaskan trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Day are enjoying a visit from their daughter, Mrs. M. J. Mullaney, of Marquette, Mich.

Mrs. L. H. Tenney, one of the pioneer ladies of Duluth, but now of Oberlin, O., is here on a visit to many friends.

Mrs. W. P. Mars, at West Duluth, is entertaining Miss Grace Danforth, of Minneapolis, who is very well known here.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Lerch have for guests Mr. and Mrs. M. Stern, of Erie, Pa. Mrs. Stern will remain until cold weather.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Nicholl and children and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Smith, of St. Louis, are stopping in the city for a few days.

Mrs. Daniel Duggan is East on her annual tour to Boston, New York and several Maine towns. She will be away until winter.

Miss Emily Termath, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. C. E. Colby, for about two months, has returned to LaSueur.

Miss Martha Selden, who has been spending some weeks with her sister, Miss Lizzie Selden, left for Marquette on the India Thursday evening.

Miss Elma Correl, a niece of Messrs. Butchart and Michaud, of the St. Louis, arrived Thursday from her home in Quebec, to spend the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Anneke have returned from a lake trip to Milwaukee, and Mrs. Bensener, a sister of Mrs. Anneke, has gone to St. Louis.

Hon. John W. Noble and wife, of Washington, D. C., were in the city the early part of the week. The secretary and wife have gone on a Pacific coast tour.

Mrs. M. Jollymore, of West Duluth, is much pleased over the arrival of her niece, Miss Pauline Erdman, from Germany. The young lady will reside here.

Miss Lillian Prescott, of West Duluth, has returned home from Oberlin, O. She was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. B. Siddle and Mr. N. C. Kingsbury, who will be guests of the Prescott family.

Mrs. H. C. Edmunds has returned to her home in Cambridge, Mass., after a very pleasant eight weeks' stay in Duluth. She leaves Cambridge in a few days with her husband for a month's tour in New Brunswick.

Mrs. Joseph Baskerville, of Dominion City, Man., is in the city visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Waterworth, at 31 West Fifth street. She is accompanied by her daughter, Miss Nellie, and her grand-daughter, Katie Waterworth, who have been spending the summer at the former's home.

Mrs. S. C. Moran and daughters, Miss Blanche and Miss Genevieve, of Emington, Pa., and Mrs. Byrns, of Freeport, O., and T. J. Monahan, of Duluth, were guests of their cousin, P. McDonnell, last Sunday. After a carriage ride over the city the ladies left on the steamer Nyack for their homes in the East.

FINEST ON EARTH.

The Duluth Central High School Has Finally Been Brought to a Completed State.

to be Opened in Two Weeks from Monday for the Reception of Pupils.

Complete Description of the Finest Free School Building in the Country.

The Independent school district of Duluth, without exaggeration, is one of the best managed and best equipped similar districts in the United States. The valuation of the property owned by the district is today in excess of $1,000,000. About 120 lots, parts of lots and parcels of land are embraced in the city holdings and upon these are erected some twenty school houses, of which the cheapest building is the Smithville school in the northwest quarter of section 15, township 49, range 15. From this the buildings increase in value until the Central High school is reached, and it is of the building more especially that this article will treat. While there are a number of elegant and costly buildings in the list of the district, the Central High school not only leads them all, but is also the finest public free school building in the United States, not in the world. No later than the recent week Secretary Noble, of President Harrison's cabinet, expressed himself as follows concerning Duluth and the Central High school: "The city is grand; far ahead of what I had expected to see, although Duluth people are not asleep when it comes to talking about the Zenith city, but the character of the large buildings is of the very highest. There is a freshness and alidity of design about them which is very refreshing and then your new high school is the finest building of the kind ever saw. There is no public school building equal to it in the United States."

The Central High school, just completed and to be opened two weeks from Monday for the reception of pupils, occupies the greater portion of the block ing system might be the most perfect obtainable. In order to accommodate the great building with its extreme length of 284 feet, the purchase of additional real estate was made necessary and 55 feet off the rear of lot 2, East Third street, was secured from John and Ida J. Campbell for $4000. John Dillon gave up the rear 50 feet of lot 4 on the same street for $2750; Dr. J. J. Eklund sold the entire lot 6 for $8000, and Ed Garde transferred the east half of lot 10 for $2250. On Sept. 10, 1891, the bids for the superstructure were opened and the lowest figures were $240,800 or rather more money than the board cared about expending and an alteration of the plans was made. Waterworth & Fee securing the work at the agreed price of $220,000.31. The heating and ventilation contract was let on Feb. 28, 1891, to A. A. Pond, of Minneapolis, at a total figure of $24,912, or about $8000 less than any Duluth bidders offered to do the same work for. The Crown Iron Works company, of Minneapolis, secured the iron stairway contracts for $7000, their bid being much the lowest, on May 2, 1891.

On June 8, 1891, in the presence of many thousands of people, the cornerstone of the big building was laid with appropriate ceremonies. Ignatius Donnelly delivering a characteristically brilliant address, and from that time on the work of construction proceeded with vigor except when inclement weather intervened, until now the huge building practically complete rears its main body unsummoned by its architecturally grand tower, a credit alike to the builders, the board, the city, district, state and nation.

The Basement. At the east end of the basement is the manual training room, somewhat irregularly shaped, but approximately 85x85 feet in size. At the north side is the machinery to be used for the pupils, which at present consists of 2 wood lathes, 1 iron lathe, 1 band saw, 1 pony planer, several forges and a complete assortment of tools of various descriptions. The south side of the room is given over to the work benches, and at the extreme central east end is one of the big fresh air fans, immediately under the entrance. Stand pipes with hose attached are frequent all through the building; the electric bell work is admirably put in by D. D. Crowley, of Duluth, and the wiring for electric lighting is the work of the Electric Engineering and Supply company, of Minneapolis. The closets, lavatory, etc., for the boys is a large room fitted up with the Smead dry closets, and finished in oak and slate with handsome but durable fittings.

The huge ventilating stack rises from school rooms are high, light and well supplied with pure air. The superintendent's office and board of education rooms are finished in sycamore. The first floor will be devoted to the use of the grades above and including the third. It is also the intention to use one or more of the rooms near the Third street entrance for kindergarten studies before long, though probably not until next spring. The library and reading rooms are finished in cherry woods, making a very easy and comfortable effect.

The Second Floor. There are ten class rooms on this floor of corresponding size with those on the first floor, and all well lighted and ventilated with the same roomy cloak rooms, lavatories, closets, etc., as are found on the lower floor. The room of Principal E. T. Critchett is the square space occupied by the tower. It gives him a well lighted apartment 16 by 16 from which he can make three separate exits and visit any part of his charge without entering the main hall. The High School Assembly Hall is on this floor; that is the main floor, stage and dressing rooms are, but the public gallery is on the floor above. People who read this article and expect to find the usual cramped school hall here will be most thoroughly mistaken. The immense room, without a pillar or a post to interrupt the view, occupies the second and third story portions of the third street wing of the building. It is finished in natural woods with fine fresco work in the ceiling panels. It has a comfortable seating capacity of 1800 but considerably over 2000 people can be accommodated if it is necessary. The stage has a chorus capacity of 200 people and there are dressing rooms on either side of the stage near the exits. The auditorium is seated with folding opera chairs and the high school people no longer have to run around and await the pleasure of theatrical managers before fixing upon a date for their school entertainments. In this connection it may be interesting to note that the number of high school graduates last year was precisely equal to the total high school enrollment in 1884! In 1880 there were 120 scholars enrolled in the high school; in 1890 there were 165; in 1891 they had grown to 195; in 1892 they had climbed to 236 and this coming term there will be fully 300 enrolled.

The Third Floor. The Third street wing on this floor is, as previously stated, the gallery to the High school assembly hall. It is accessible by wide double doors at either side of the corridor end and by a broad roomy staircase at the rear. It is also seated with the Andrews opera chair. The gallery alone can easily accommodate are twenty-nine steps between the first and second floors, and twenty-six between the second and third. From the third to the "clock case" floor is 112 steps, and above the clock there is still another flight of thirty-one steps. If you are cool headed and want to go inside the peak up to the very top it will take about forty-nine steps more, but these last will be via the ladder route.

Finished as it was originally planned, with accommodations for 1000 scholars, with the watchful eyes of the school board, Superintendent Denfeld and Principal Critchett always upon it and guiding its young ideas it is to be reasonably expected, judging from the corps of teachers, that the alumni of the finest high school in America will show the finest finishing touches to their free school education to be found in the world.

Dr. O'Leary

During his course of lectures in West Superior will retain his office, 12 Second Avenue West, in Duluth, where he will be from 10 to 4 daily, thus hoping to be able to wait on all or most of those who desire his attention, as he has not been thus far. His patients of last year brought so many of their friends this year that he has been sorely pressed, working day and night. Nor does he know yet how long the course will continue, as it will depend on the audience. When it is done he must leave for the South, where other crowds as great await his coming, as they have done for many years. The circle grows larger and larger daily.

located between Second and Third streets and Lake Avenue and First Avenue east. The exact property description is lots 1, 3, 5, 7, 9, 11, 13 and 15 on East Second street and lots 5, 8, 10, 12 and part of lots 2, 4, 14 and 16 on East Third street. The value of the realty is about $120,000. The building, which is built of rich Lake Superior brownstone, faces inward, and rises three tall stories above the basement. Strictly speaking no set line of architecture is followed in the well proportioned lines of the beautiful building; it is rather a combination of the best points of the several types blended into a harmonious and perfect whole by the skill of the designers, Messrs. Palmer & Hall. A public meeting was called at the chamber of commerce Jan. 15, 1890, to consider the question whether the citizens of the district would uphold the board in tearing down the Washington school, a fine structure, to give a site for the new High school. It was shown by competent men that it would cost over $11,000 to tear down the Washington school in perfect pair, and even then it could be a somewhat incongruous blending of old and new in architecture, and after a full, free and in discussion, the following resolution, introduced by D. G. Cash and seconded by C. E. Shannon was unanimously passed: "That it is the sense of this meeting that the Washington school building should be pulled down and a new building for high school purposes built on the site."

The work of preparing the plans was one on with as fast as careful study of requirements would allow and after the alterations they were finally approved by the board and proposals for its construction were asked for. Louis Meinig secured the excavating for the foundation 35 cents per cubic yard for the earth and $1.50 for the rock work. The foundation below the grade was given to Edwin & Wilson at $1.50 per perch, and Waterworth & Fee got the basement building contract for $200,077.36 services of E. G. Barrett, the famous ventilating engineer of Chicago, are secured in order that the ventilat-

a central position and affords a 6 by 6 feet shaft for the exit of foul air, which is accelerated by a large fan. There is also a similar ventilating stack in the west end of the basement. There are a number of rooms, such as the engineers' room, modeling room, sewing room, and several supply and store rooms on this level, also the big cooking room in the northwest corner, 30 by 70 feet, which is fitted up with ranges and a lot of kitchen paraphernalia. The corridor floors in the basement are of tile, but the room floors with the exception of the engine and boiler room, are of maple throughout the building. The engine and boiler rooms have Portland cement floors on concrete foundations. The boiler room is 50 by 37 feet and 19 feet 6 inches high, and contains three boilers, each 16 by 60 inches, with 80 tubes, and indicating an aggregate of 250 horse power and is a model of compactness, convenience and capability. There are two Worthington pumps, each 6 by 4 by 6. Iron stairways, with slate treads, lead to the First Floor.

The first floor is reached from the outside by entrances on the Second and Third street fronts and on the Lake and First Avenue east entrances. The Second street central entrance is directly beneath the massive tower which rears its properly pointed head 210 feet above the top of the steps. There are 11 class rooms on this floor, each of an average size 30 by 33 feet and there is a large cloak room between every pair of class rooms. The corridor is so admirably arranged that one teacher standing in the center of the lobby can command a view of the entire first floor, hallways and no person can pass out or into the building, or go up or down stairs without the watchful knowledge.

The offices on this floor are for the superintendent of public schools and for the meetings of the board of education. The school library is also on this floor and there are nicely arranged separate lavatories and closets for each of the sexes, also a large one for the female scholars, all thoroughly ventilated. The date 600 people. In the northeast corner of the building is the large draughting room and immediately across the corridor from it is the physical laboratory with its great rows of shelves of curious looking instruments and apparatus, and several thousand dollars worth of additional aids are already ordered. Next to the draughting room on the west is a mechanical store room. Next to the physical laboratory is the photographic laboratory, and beyond that a chemical laboratory, and off of this a large "dark" room, well ventilated and admirably arranged. The room shown on the plans as No. 15 is as yet unassigned to any special purpose, but beyond it, in the southwest corner of the building, is the room set apart for the museum, and by the way, Mr. Daggett, of the Van Dusen-Eliot company, is preparing a valuable collection of moths and butterflies for a "starter" in this direction.

Across on the northwest corner of the main building is the third largest room in the building. It is the gymnasium and is splendidly fitted up with all sorts of "muscle making machinery." There are rings, trapezes, flying ladders, saddles, poles, spring boards, Indian clubs, ponderous and liliptitan dumb-bells, maces, clubs, rings, rollers, horses, etc., etc., and a competent instructor to look after the welfare of the young athletes.

In the fourth story which is included on the roof plan, is abundant space for several large rooms for special purposes which has not yet been utilized.

The Tower.

The ascent of the tower, although it is reached by easy ascents on winding stairways, is quite a wind consuming task to those not used to it, but the view from the upper windows is superb. Nearly 400 feet below your line of vision lies the mighty lake upon whose shores, (nearly 400 miles away) the first school-house was erected about 200 years ago. Commencing at Second street it is quite a journey to walk up to the tower peak. There will be about forty-five steps from the street to the first floor level. There

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN DULUTH.

Received at the postoffice at Duluth, Minn., as second-class mail matter.

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Aug. 20.—An area of high barometer is over the lake region, with a center over Minnesota, and another over the extreme Northwest. An area of low pressure seems to be forming over the Southwest, but is not well defined as yet.In view of the absence of any storms, light sails have been very distributed over the summer, especially in the Northwest. A heavy shower is reported from Cleveland and Detroit.
The other falls were not heavy enough to be of consequence.The temperature has as a general thing fallen slightly, except in the Eastern states, but it is about normal in all sections.
It is probable that the existing conditions will disappear by tomorrow and fair weather prevail again. The highest point reached by the thermometer here yesterday was 77°, the lowest last night was 57°.DULUTH, Aug. 19.—Forecast till 8 p. m. tomorrow: Cloudy today, with occasional light showers; fair Sunday; slight change in temperature; light, variable wind, becoming easterly.
H. H. BRONSON,
Local Forecast Official.WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Forecast till 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Minnesota: Fair, preceded by showers in southern portion today; cooler; variable winds. For Wisconsin: Fair, except showers in northern portions today or tonight;
warmer Sunday morning; cooler Sunday night;
variable winds.

NOT MUCH DIFFERENCE.

Two years ago the editor of the News was supporting Mr. Comstock for congress in the old Fifth district. Mr. Comstock ran on a platform which declared in a most emphatic manner in favor of tariff reform. It demanded a reduction of duties to a point sufficient to provide only for the necessary expenditures of the government, and that is exactly what the News nowadays calls free trade. Today it opposes Maj. Baldwin, because the convention by which he was nominated adopted a tariff plank similar to that on which Mr. Comstock stood. If it was all right for Republicans to vote for Mr.
Comstock two years ago, so far as the tariff question is concerned, why is it not equally proper that any who feel so disposed should vote for Maj. Baldwin this year?The fact is, however, that the tariff question cuts but a small figure in the estimation of a majority of the people of Duluth, in comparison with the important local interests which need the attention of our congressman. The Democratic majority in the house is too large to be wiped out at one election, and therefore it is certain that the Democrats will have a majority, smaller probably than now, in the next congress.
Maj. Baldwin, being a Democrat, will be able to accomplish much more for this district than would a Republican congressman. In addition to this, he knows what Duluth and the rest of the district needs, and his opponent has ac-knowledgeed that he does not.

A MARVEL OF PRESCIENCE.

D. E. Myers, the superintendent of the rate reformatory at St. Cloud, arrived in Duluth with Judge Searle last Tuesday night, and within a few minutes after dining at one of the leading hotels announced to a reporter with all of the assurance at his command that St. Louis county will give the largest majority in its history for Judge Searle. Being connected with a morning paper which is supporting the judge for prospective "loaves and fishes," the reporter hastily noted the remark and on the following morning presented it to the gaze of the astonished and amused readers of that organ.It might be interesting to learn where this prophet from St. Cloud learned so much about St. Louis county in such a brief space of time. It is not every politician who, within an hour or two after his arrival in a county, can gauge so accurately the drift of public opinion, and it is to be feared that the capabilities of Superintendent Myers are not fully appreciated by the party to which he has clung as long as an office was in sight or in his control. It is really too bad that he should have for so many years hidden his light under a bushel, but this was no doubt caused by that feeling of modesty which is one of his principal characteristics.It is not too late, however, to have his ability in this direction duly recognized.
No doubt were the facts properly presented to the Republican national committee there would be an urgent demand for his services in the national campaign, because there are several states considered doubtful and the committee are anxious to find out at as early a date as possible what is the trend of feeling therein. If they could only secure the services of this distinguished St. Cloud politician, the information could be quickly obtained.
He could make a hurried trip through the states in question and promptly sit up the situation. Indeed it is just possible that his wonderful intuition could furnish an answer on this point, without wasting time on such a trip.The only drawback to this suggestion is the disinclination which Superintendent Myers has to neglecting his duties at the reformatory for the sake ofpolitics. It is stated that his duties at the head of the reformatory are so onerous and demand so much of his attention that he really cannot devoted any time to politics and has actually been obliged to decline several requests recently to dabble in politics in the Sixth district. He recognizes the fact that he is in the employ of the state and is paid a salary by the people to look after the reformatory, and that therefore his whole time should be devoted to the work, however much he might like to take a little whirl in politics. Only his wonderful quick perception and his ready grasp of the feelings of the people enable him to keep in touch with the political situation. Of course he did not come to Duluth on any political mission, but solely on business connected with the reformatory.

THE TENNESSEE WAR.

The insurrection of the miners in Tennessee is now apparently crushed. The determination of the people of Tennessee to redeem the name of the state, which was being disgraced by the riotous proceedings of the lawless miners, resulted in the enlistment of thousands of volunteers to march against the insurrectionist and restore peace and order.
Gen. Carnes, who was in command of the troops and the citizen's posse, is a man of nerve and determination. He has throttled the disorder at Coal Creek and compelled the miners, who were in open rebellion against the law of the land, to quit their unlawful deeds. The manner in which he compelled the surrender of Capt. Anderson, who was held captive by the miners, shows the stern stuff of which he is made and the cool determination and bold daring of his character. The lawless horde recognized that he was no man to trifle with,
that he meant what he said and would act without hesitation, and they promptly produced the commander of Fort Anderson.While the back of the insurrection has been broken, it is likely that the troubles are not altogether over. Some of the leaders are desperate men who value their lives lightly and who will continue to create trouble as long as they are able to do so. It will be necessary to capture these men and lodge them in a prison where they will be unable to create disturbances. With them out of the way, it will be an easy matter to disperse the rest of the mob.
Deprived of the hot-headed leaders, the mob will quickly dissolve.Bids for the souvenir coins are being received by the treasurer of the World's Columbian exposition, the lowest bid being at the rate of one dollar for each coin of fifty cents. Several offers for the entire issue of five million coins are recorded. For the first coin turned out from the mint the bidding has reached into the hundreds of dollars. The disposition of these souvenirs is under consideration by the finance committee.The Democratic campaign in this state is to be opened at St. Cloud next Saturday evening, when addresses are to be delivered by Messrs. Lawler, Bal-win, Nethaway and Leicht. The Democrats of Stearns county are very enthusiastic this year and have promised to give Maj. Baldwin the largest plurality ever given to any candidate by that county.There is a prospect that the political campaign in Duluth is to be enlivened by a public debate between ex-Senator Bowen and Charles A. Towne on the tariff question. As each gentleman represents the most extreme view on the question held by the two sides, it should prove an interesting debate.The poverty-stricken intellect of the News cannot conceive of The Herald supporting Nelson for governor and Baldwin for congress at the same time.
The Herald cannot undertake to furnish the News with brains. It would be too large a contract.Duluth people have declared for years that they want a congressman. Now that one of their number has received a nomination, they are going to support him.The Venezuelan revolutionists are carrying everything before them. Gen.
Crespo has now captured Valencia and will soon be in complete control of the country.

"Irony of Fate."

St. Paul Dispatch: Col. C. H. Graves, of Duluth, was in the city this morning, in company with Superintendent Ruppley, of the Lake Superior Elevator company. They were not in the city on elevator business. At least the grain inspection had nothing to do with the trip, and both expressed themselves as heartily glad that the grind of last summer was not to be repeated at once. "The manner in which the leaders of that investigation were thrown overboard by the people for whom they pretended to be working is an example of the irony of fate, especially when it is in the hands of farmers," said the colonel.Crushed by Earth. Michael Krapu, a laborer working in the gravel pit near Mesaba, was buried by a fall of earth Saturday. He was extricated, taken to camp and the doctor called and was found to have suffered internal injuries from which he died Monday.Are you troubled with falling hair and do you know it can be cured with our germicide? Its effect is wonderful.

ODDS AND ENDS.

A pair of spectacles is not an uncommon sight nowadays, but spectacle wearers may sometimes be grouped together in a manner which is decidedly uncomfortable. The other day I jumped aboard a Fourth street car and for about a block was the only passenger. Then the car stopped and a young man with specs came aboard and sat down. A little further on a lady and her little girl (both wearing spectacles) got on the car and sat opposite the young man. In another block or two a fifth passenger boarded the car and she, too, wore specs. I was the only one whose eyes were free from glasses and I felt as if I was away out of style. Pretty soon the little girl made a discovery and she announced it this way, as near as I can remember: "Oh! ma! that man got glasses on too! I wonder if his folks is all near sighted." The young man heard it but gave no sign until the two adult ladies looked at one another and a little titter resulted, when the young man fled the car with a very red face. I think he was uncomfortable.There is a well known lady who keeps boards somewhere on the hill. She sets a very good table, but she is a little short on rocking chairs, and the latest comer always has the coveted article of furniture. I was talking with one of her boarders the other day and he told me how he got even with the landlady.
When he came to the house to look at it there was a nice rocker in it. He paid his room rent in advance, but the next day the rocker disappeared.
Passing through the hallway he discovered the missing chair in the room of the gentleman who had come to the house after him. He went in, took the chair back to his room, and after he had got it through using it he chained it with a satchel padlock and chain to the handle of one of his trunks. He now has his rocker whenever he wants it, but the landlady is not so pleasant as she was at first.There was a large excursion party on the Dexter street car the other day returning from Port Arthur and Isle Royale and everybody seemed happy but one lady. She seemed to be nursing her wrath until it finally broke out, and what do you think she found which angered her? By the beard of Delos (if he has or had any) the luckless steward had actually put the table cloth on crooked and upside down, and it took away her appetite and she made a great fuss over it! The linen was spotlessly clean, but she wanted something to scold about and she finally found it in the tablecloth's reversed appearance.
I'll bet that the pater familias in that household has a hard time of it if he happens to leave anything out of place.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Shall it be Opened on Sunday, or Closed, Which?To the Editor of The Herald: Suffer a few words on this line. There is very much more to this question than most people are aware. Who are making the demands for the closing of the fair on Sunday? Why do they make these demands? It is the churches, and the foundation reason is because Sunday is an institution of the church. Now if it would do violence to their feelings or convictions to attend on Sunday, cannot they stay away? Or do they ask for a law, fearful that they cannot resist the temptations of open gates? Do they need the gates closed so they can keep a Sabbath? Why not ask for a law compelling them to stay away on Sunday, and leave others to exercise their freedom?The Jew, Seventh Day Baptists and Seventh Day Adventists observe the seventh day of the week. Why not close the gates on the seventh day? The Mohammedan keeps Friday. Why not close the gates on that day? Which is the true Sabbath, anyway? Who will tell us? Only a small portion of the people of this nation keep a Sabbath.
Do the Christian people of this land of liberty desire to resort to force to compel others to do as they do? Do they expect these will attend church service if the gates are closed? Do they not know that closed gates mean more patronage of the saloon, more liquor drunk, more debauchery, more crime? Do they not know that every act in this line is an unwarranted assumption of power and class legislation? And do these not know that this is the beginning of a union of church and state in this country that will never be checked until almost every institution of the church will be incorporated into law and enforced by the civil arm? Are they ready to assume all the consequences of such legislation? Are they? PUBLIS.

A SPARKLING DISPLAY.

Perhaps, of all other seasons of the
year, this is the best for making advan-ticious purchases of jewelry. There isn't much fluctuation in the value of
what a jeweler sells, because jewellers
have nothing perishable to dispose of,
but there are times when for a variety of reasons, prices fall a little, and this
is more particularly the case when business generally is feeling the effects of oppressively hot weather. You will readily understand, therefore, why just
now, we are offering some especially attractive inducements in jewelry.

Suffering By Soldiers.

ROME, Aug. 20.—Great indignation is manifested by the press over the long marches required of the troops during the present tropical heat. Fourteen hundred men were on the road from Treviglio to Meana from 2 in the morning until 4 in the afternoon. Fifteen were sunstruck and one became delirious and shot himself. On another march from Venice to Nolo 100 soldiers were debilitated and sixty had to be sent to a hospital.In every city there is one place where you can always be sure of a fine fitting

GOOD LEASE MADE.

A. E. Humphreys Leased to J. B. Weimer a Forty on Which no Pits are Sunk.

A Minimum Output of Fifty Thousand Tons and a Royalty of Fifty Cents.

This Makes the Eleventh Mine Leased, Guaranteeing an Output of 1,400,000 Tons.

A. E. Humphreys consummated another important mining deal on Thursday morning, having leased to John B. Weimer for a term of twenty years the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 9, town 38, range 17. The royalty to be paid is 50 cents per ton, and the lessee is required to mine not less than 50,000 tons of ore per annum. The advance royalty, which is understood has already been paid, is $25,000. The original lease of this forty was vested in the New England Iron company, an incorporation, and the fee is owned by A. E. Humphreys, who is assured by the consummation of this deal of a royalty at least $25,000 per annum from his fee interest, besides what he will realize from his large interest in the New England company.

Upon this forty which will probably be known hereafter as the Weimer, not a pit has been sunk, nor a shovel of dirt turned. Its location, however, is such that it is difficult to understand how the vein of the ore can miss running through it. It is, in fact, to all appearances one of the best forties in the vicinity of it is the Wyoming, with a tier of test pits along its south boundary, within one hundred feet of the Weimer. On the west of it is the Lone Jack, with a large body of ore shown up within 200 feet of the forty, and south of it is the Rochelle, with several shafts in ore within a short distance of it. Touching its southwest west corner is the Ohio, with over a million tons of ore shown up. Consequently any mining man understanding the lay of the formation on the Mesaba, will conclude that Mr. Weimer has secured a very valuable property.

Big Output Assured.
The leasing of eleven mines on the Mesaba range during the past few months, says the Iron Range News, has resulted in a guaranteed output from them next season of at least 1,400,000 tons of ore. Following is a table showing the minimum amount of ore which it has been agreed to ship from the properties named:

Wabik	300,000
Hale	50,000
Cincinnati	150,000
Duluth	100,000
Mesaba Mt.	400,000
Ohio	150,000
Virginia	50,000
Weimer	50,000

There are a sufficient number of other properties on the range to make the output next season at least 3,000,000 tons, if the amount can be used and transportation facilities secured.

BROUGHT THEM TO TIME.

Gen. Carnes Deals Firmly With the Tennessee Miners.
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 20.—Coal Creek is now in full control of Gen. Carnes. He has taken about 100 of the insurgents prisoners and is guarding them near his camp. The garrison at Fort Anderson has been increased to 200 men, and 100 picked men are guarding the depot and railroad property. Soon after his arrival he demanded the release of Capt. Anderson and gave the miners until 1 o'clock to produce him. One o'clock came, and 2 o'clock passed by, and the miners had not turned over the captive. He ordered his soldiers to arrest suspicious looking men. They went around the village and arrested men promiscuously until 100 had been taken into camp. He addressed them as follows: "You promised to release Capt. Anderson at 1 o'clock; you have broken faith with me. You shall produce him in one hour or I will proceed to burn every house in town and will shoot every one of you down."

In less than an hour a committee sent out for the purpose marched into Camp Anderson and surrendered the prisoner. He immediately resumed command at Fort Anderson. He had been concealed in a little farm house on the outskirts of the village. One of the men arrested by Gen. Carnes is a negro miner who boasted that he killed Bruce Given in the battle yesterday morning. He will be held on a charge of murder in the first degree.

Resembles Civil War.
LONDON, Aug. 20.—Commenting on the labor troubles in the United States the Times says: "The labor troubles in the United States have taken a form not easily to be distinguished from civil war. We cannot yet venture to think the danger ended. It is small wonder that the course of affairs is watched with alarm by those in whose memory the events of 1877 are still fresh."

Radicals Excited.
LONDON, Aug. 20.—Mr. Gladstone has gone to Hawarden. The excitement among the Radicals over the cabinet selections is increasing and a strong combination is being formed which may imperil the existence of Mr. Gladstone's administration.

TOOK HER OWN LIFE.

A Woman Accused of Big Frauds Committed Suicide.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—Madame Apparuci, formerly editor and owner of the fashion journal published at No. 7 Rue de Lille, and for some time the female Worth of Paris, is dead in St. Petersburg. She was under arrest for fraud. Soon after the arrest she poured oil on her night dress and set fire to it. A few days ago she clipped with a pair of scissors the veins at the root of her tongue. She died on Tuesday.

Several charges were pending against her and the Paris police were, on her recovery, to bring her back to Paris for trial. The amount which she is accused of obtaining by fraud was between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 francs.

WON IN THE FIGHT.

The Hall-Pritchard Fight Today Won By Hall.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The public were surprised when they heard that Jim Hall and Ted Pritchard had fought today at Brighton as the fight was not expected until Monday. Dread of public interference is said to have been the cause of anticipating the date. Betting had been in favor of Pritchard, but today it was in favor of Hall.

Only the backers of the men and a few sports were present. Hall soon showed that he had a longer reach and was far cleverer than Pritchard, and almost from the first it was evident that victory rested with the former. Pritchard made a splendid defense, but showed signs of being used up in the third round, and was unable to come to time in the fourth, Hall thus winning the fight and £2000.

Dr. John Talmage Dead.
NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Rev. Dr. John Talmage, brother of Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, died in Bound Brook, N. J., yesterday. He was born in Somerville, N. Battle With Burglars.
HANNIBAL, Mo., Aug. 20.—A battle was fought between a gang of burglars and citizens in the western part of the city yesterday morning. Fifty shots were exchanged, but they escaped and have not been captured. Several window panes were shot out by the burglars, but fortunately the occupants of the houses escaped unhurt.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Gen. Husted's condition remains unchanged. He is a little better and had passed a quiet night.

ISLE ROYALE TOURISTS.

List of Duluth People Who Visited the Island This Week.

WASHINGTON HARBOR, Isle Royale, Aug. 18.—A few lines from this section may not be amiss. Isle Royale has never had such a lot of tourists as have visited here this summer. There are now about thirty-five tents on the island and a couple of Chicago photographers are "viewing" the many beauty spots. There have been no accidents this summer worth mentioning and the weather is simply grand. There have been few foggy days this summer.

Following is a list of Duluth visitors to the island during the present week, as far as it is possible to get them: Mrs. F. C. Pring, Mrs. M. J. Davis, Mrs. D. M. Graham, the two Misses Graham, Miss Cook, of Sioux City; Miss Hannah E. Thompson, Mrs. S. S. Watkins, of St. Paul; Mrs. A. J. Miller and family, Miss Allie Fitzgerald, Mrs. J. A BRIGHT PROSPECT.
The Outlook For Trade is Declared to be Very Good.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s, weekly review of trade says that late advices from the West promise rather better crops of wheat and corn and cotton prospects are a little better, though neither yield will approach that of last year. With abundant supplies brought over, the outlook is so good that business distinctly improves and the prospect for fall trade is everywhere considered bright.

The Argentine Debt.
LONDON, Aug. 20.—The Standard's Buenos Ayres correspondent says he has the best authority for the statement that a definite proposition is about to settle the external debt of the Argentine Republic on a reduced cash basis. President Eliot Saenz Pena and the leading statesmen, he says, approve the scheme.

FRIGHTFULLY HURT.

Harry Hines Receives Fatal Injuries Last Evening.

Harry Hines, a driver of H. C. Kendall & Co.'s baggage wagons, was seriously hurt last evening, and may possibly fail to survive the accident. He was taking a load of baggage down to the steamer Peerless. It was rather dark and he ran onto a large stone which was lying on the dock. He was thrown from the seat and alighted astraddle of the brake handle which was driven into his abdomen. He was immediately removed to St. Mary's hospital and given treatment but it could not be determined last evening how serious his injuries are. An operation was performed this morning but his chances for recovery are very slim. It was his only chance for life, however.

DAWKINS THE SUPERB.

This Great Dry Goods Firm in Entirely New Quarters—Greatest in the Northwest.

In the columns of The Herald today appear enterprising and artistic display "ads" of Mr. Dawkins. This great dry goods house fully appreciate the great benefits to be derived from advertising and have the nerve, the grit and the good sense to act on their beliefs to the fullest extent. It takes nerve to advertise no less than "rocks," and like all ventures the "nerviest" man scoops the persimmon every time. Mr. Dawkins has just moved into the Dawkins block, opposite the West Superior hotel, and now has the largest and finest equipped dry goods store in Wisconsin which is perfectly managed by the energetic George L. Spicer, well known as the right man in the right place. All who contemplate purchasing dry goods should visit this magnificent new store and inspect one of the finest stocks of goods in the Northwest. Superior owes much to the enterprise and push of James Dawkins who sets a good example to all business firms in not hiding the light of a first class business under a half bushel in the manner it is too often done.

GAS FOR COOKING

NO COAL!
NO WOOD!
NO ASHES!
NO SMOKE!

NO LABOR!
NO DUST!
NO DANGER!
NO ODOR!

ONLY A MATCH FOR KINDLING.

It occupies no space, requires no labor in carrying or filling scuttles, etc., it is always at hand to be called into full service at a moment's notice; will burn for any length of time without attention, and can be extinguished in an instant. Infants' or invalids' food may be prepared in an incredibly short space of time, thus proving a great convenience at unreasonable hours.

ECONOMY.

What does it cost to burn gas compared with coal? This is, of course, of the greatest importance, and is the first thought of the the careful housekeeper. We beg to submit the following figures which are furnished as the result of careful tests: It is estimated that the cooking of an average family, from six to eight people, will require about sixty pounds of coal per day, (this is based on the supposition that the servant is careful in the use of coal) which, at the rate of $7.25 per ton, amounts to 21¢ cts. per day. The coal range is at a disadvantage in always being more or less on duty, whether required or not, and frequently from it not being under absolute and perfect control, as gas is, a full fire has to be kept up to do a trifling amount of cooking. The gas range, on the other hand, needs only to be lighted the moment it is required, and turned off the instant the work is done.

The following may be taken as the average consumption and cost of gas for the daily meals of a family of six to eight persons:

BREAKFAST---Consisting of tea or coffee, ham and eggs, or chops, also toast including hot water for washing up	22 feet
DINNER---6 lbs joint, pie and milk pudding	35 feet
Soup, fish and vegetables,	20 feet
Hot water, for washing up,	10 feet
TEA---Hot water, hot biscuit, etc.,	15 feet
Total,	100 feet

This, at the rate of $1.50 net per 1,000 feet, would cost 15 cents per day, or when a joint is cooked only on alternate days the cost for each day would be something less. Thus it will be seen that while the above meals can be cooked by gas at 15 cents per day, it costs about 21¢ cents to use coal.

NO CHARGE FOR SETTING GAS METERS.

SERVICE CONNECTIONS.

A RIOT OF COOKS.

Serious Disturbance Among the French Cooks of a Hotel on Long Island.

Some Refused to Obey the Chef's Orders and a Bloody Fight Ensued.

Several of the Men Were Painfully Wounded, but None Likely to Die.

GREENPORT, L. I., Aug. 20.—A serious riot took place last night among the cooks at the Manhasset house on Shelter Island, brought about by the refusal of some French cooks to obey the orders of the chef. During the riot the cooks seized knives and slashed right and left, some arrayed on the side of the chef and some against him. Dishes, pans, etc., were thrown about in wild confusion and the fight progressed furiously until Proprietor Lawson, at the risk of his life, separated the belligerents. A number were cut and injured. One man had the point of a knife shoved in his mouth and was badly cut, bleeding profusely. Although several of the men are painfully wounded it is not thought that any of them will die. The chef is still in command and other cooks will immediately be engaged.

AN IMPORTANT DEAL.

The Lehigh Valley and Great Northern Steamship Lines United. BUFFALO, Aug. 20.—The Lehigh Valley Transportation company and the Northern Steamship company, the lake end of the Great Northern railroad, were practically consolidated yesterday, and will be put under one management beginning Sept. 1. John Gordon, general manager of the Northern Steamship company, will be at the head of the consolidated company. General Manager W. P. Henry, of the Lehigh Valley, has resigned. This will give the Reading trust a direct opening to the Pacific coast over the Great Northern, which is now being extended to Seattle. The company will have by far the best fleet of steamers now afloat on fresh water. All of them are of steel, all built within a few years, and of the highest class of marine architecture. In all there will be eighteen boats and they are worth not less than $3,500,000.

John Gordon, the head of the consolidated company, is an old Duluth and Chicago man, having been agent of the Anchor line in those cities before coming to Buffalo, three years ago, to take the management of the then new Northern Steamship company. As a steamboat man, Mr. Gordon has few equals on the lakes.

From a railroad point of view, the consolidation of the Reading and Great Northern interests will have an important bearing on trunk line business. For some time the Erie and the Great Northern have had close traffic arrangements which will of course be terminated. The Erie will now be compelled to make other arrangements for Lake Superior.

PORT ARTHUR'S SCANDAL.

Col. Ray Has Finally Been Released on Bail.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 20.—Col. Ray, the banker of Port Arthur, who was recently arrested charged with criminally assaulting the wife of Dr. Bathurst, has at last succeeded in obtaining his release on bail.

The amount of bail was fixed at $20,000, the colonel's personal bond being accepted for $10,000 and James Connec, a member of the Dominion parliament, putting up the other half. The trial will take place at the fall assizes.

The scandal creates the greatest sensation, as all parties mixed up in it are of the highest social standing. Col. Ray's bank has been carrying six or seven leading merchants of Port Arthur in a financial sense and these may find it impossible to keep above water if Ray is convicted.

Crushed While Coupling Cars.

ASHLAND, Wis., Aug. 20.—Chief of Police Prothero and City Assessor Hopkins have had several wordy disputes, which finally ended by Hopkins giving the chief a severe turning over before several people. The latter has had Hopkins arrested, but he was released on bail. The trial is awaited with interest, as both have made threats of exposing serious official misconduct on the part of the other.

MINNESOTA SPORTS HIT.

They Have Lost a Pile of Money on Recent Races.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—According to the people who watch the pool box, the Minneapolis and St. Paul crowd that is here playing the trotting races is getting hard hit in the matter of betting and must have lost a pile of money in the last three days. The Minnesota contingent is headed by Governor Merriam, A. W. Long and other lovers of the light harness horse, who are known as pretty smart men.

The first good thing they had worked up was Axle, the son of Axtell, who trotted the other day and was so badly beaten. The Minnesota crowd made a heavy plunge on this horse and got left. Greenleaf was another favorite they backed heavily and he lost.

The climax came when So Long, on whom the Minnesota men were very sweet, was beaten in phenomenally fast time by Paragon. So Long made a gallant fight to save his backer's money, but failed. All this explains why the Minnesota sportsmen in Chicago are sick today.

TWO GIRLS DROWNED.

They Rocked a Boat and Perished as the Result.

NEW BRUNSWICK, Conn., Aug. 20.—Three girls, Sadie White, 18, Lizzie Burgundy, 19, and Kate Connors, all employed in Johnson's factory, left here shortly after 6 o'clock last night and walking along the race, got into a boat which was moored there.

While amusing themselves with rocking the boat it capsized, throwing Lizzie Burgundy and Sadie White into the water. Kate Connors jumped to the shore and shouted for help, but the two girls were drowned before aid could reach them. The bodies were recovered.

Slashed and Robbed.

CASSELLTON, N. D., Aug. 20.—Patrick Moore, a farm laborer from Cleveland, Ohio, was almost murdered here at about 1 o'clock yesterday morning by hobos. They cut a deep gash in his throat seven inches long and robbed him of his watch and money. The crime is supposed to have been done out of revenge. He will live.

A Costly Event.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 20.—Treasurer Morrison has been taken on account of a heart attack at Homestead.

FILLING THE OFFICES.

More Appointments Made by the Gladstone Cabinet.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—It is officially announced that the Right Hon. John Blair Balfour has been appointed lord advocate for Scotland. He was lord advocate in the Gladstone government of 1880, a post to which he returned in 1885-6. He is a privy councillor, a commissioner of education for Scotland and a thorough Liberal. He represents Clackmannan and Kinross.

Alexander Asher, M. P., for Elginburgh, has been appointed solicitor general for Scotland. He was born in 1835, and has been solicitor general for Scotland in former Liberal administrations. He has sat for Elgin since 1881.

Samuel Walker, Q. C., has been appointed lord chancellor for Ireland. He was attorney general for Ireland under Mr. Gladstone's second and third administrations. Thomas MacDermot, who was solicitor general for Ireland under Mr. Gladstone's second and third administrations, is now appointed attorney general for Ireland, and Sergeant Hemphill is appointed solicitor general for Ireland.

To Secure Their Fees.

LARAMIE, Wyo., Aug. 20.—Judge Davidson, Judge Ballard and Attorney Brackets who were engaged to conduct the case of Johnson county against the invading stock men arrived here at 3:30 yesterday morning for the purpose of obtaining judgment against Johnson county for the amount of their fees in the case, the sum being $10,000. Having brought suit for this amount, some of the cattlemen who have interests in Johnson county applied to the court of the Second judicial district asking for an injunction restraining them from procuring judgment.

Resulted Fatally.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—The collision which occurred between Charles and Albert Riesan, brothers, on Wednesday evening, while riding bicycles, has resulted in the death of Charles at the Samaritan hospital. Deceased was 20 years of age and was considered one of the fleetest wheelmen in the northern part of the city.

The Demand Granted.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 20.—The difference between the Chicago & Northwestern railroad and its freight handlers in this city amicably settled by their men's demand for an additional $1.50 per day, with pay and a loan for overtime.

A Dakota Artist.

Among the struggling geniuses of the smit plains of far North Dakota is a little dark eyed Boston girl, whose landscape and scenic painting have won her rich encomia. Emma R. Gary was born in Boston, Feb. 28, 1870, and re-

SUPERIOR NEWS.

People's Party Caucuses Last Night—Talk of Fusion.

The People's party caucuses were held in Superior last evening and proved to be very quiet affairs. It is believed that the delegates chosen will favor a delegation to the congressional convention which will favor William Munro for congress. There has been talk that the People's party might fuse with the Democrats of this district on David Dobie or some candidate who has stronger People's party affiliations than Mr. Dobie. Some of the leaders of the Douglas county populists, however, disapprove of the idea. They say they want a candidate of their own.

James Kelly had his head badly cut while wheeling a truck load of flour into a steamer at the flour sheds yesterday morning.

The launching of the whaleback James Colgate will take place a week from today probably.

Gust Bergstrom was arraigned yesterday before Judge Fridley, charged with forgery. Bergstrom forged an endorsement of a $15 check made out to Hans Juhl. He then passed it at the State bank. This occurred thirty days ago.

The buildings of the Duplex Windmill company at South Superior are fast nearing completion. Most of the brick work has been done and the roof is now being put on.

City Engineer Cooper favors advertising in Chicago, New York and Detroit papers for bids on the dredging in Harbor districts Nos. 8, 9 and 10. The city is paying 22 cents per yard for dredging while the government is paying only 14 cents for work in the Duluth Harbor.

Driving Park Buildings.

The contract for constructing the grand stand and buildings at the driving park has been let to Campbell & McLeod. They are to be completed by the date of the opening of the fall meeting.

Eleven Buildings Burned.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 20.—Three stores and eight dwellings on Cedar street, South Baltimore (Curtis bay), were destroyed by fire last night, causing a loss of $25,000. Isaac and Frank Fines, who conducted a general store, were severely burned while fighting the flames. The fire was caused by the explosion of a coal oil lamp. All of the burned buildings were owned by the South Baltimore Harbor & Improvement company. They were partially insured.

THE FETE DANCES.

Glimpse of the Picturesque Costumes and Pleasing Figures of the Fete Breton.

The Shadow Solo in the Breton Dance and the Carnival of Nations.

Brief Sketch of the "Pardon in Brittany" from Which the Idea is Drawn.

The brilliant feature of the Breton Fete which will be given at the pavilion during the whole of the week of August 29, will be the various dances. There are being arranged on a grand scale and those who have been so fortunate to witness any of the rehearsals are carried away by the quaint and fascinating figures and movements. There will be twelve dances. The Breton Fete or Pardon with the gaitre and ronde and shadow dance, will lead and will be followed by the "Carnival of Nations" in which all groups take part led by the court jester. The dances of nations come next these being the Venetian, Swedish, Dalarna, Russian Military, Hungarian Gipsy, French court, Scottish, Neapolitan fisher, Swiss dairy maids and Chinese court dances and the dance of the roses and bees.

When the curtain rises on the brilliant scene the audience will view "A Pardon in Brittany," but not until after the soft strains of the "Magnificat" follow the chimes and are waited from behind the scenes by the choir. The old French pardon from which the idea is drawn was a prayer for mercy and help very much similar to the "Angelus Domini," the supplicant kneeling at the toll of the bell, asking forgiveness and imploring Divine protection. In Bretagne these pardons came to mean an assemblage of pilgrims and today its people still keep up the rites and devotional merry-makings of their ancestors. Of these fetes the greatest are the pardons held in honor of St. Renan, St. Kerderot and other local saints. At these pardons are seen processions of priests bearing burning tapers, maidens dressed in white, banners, images of the saints, peasant girls in picturesque tight-fitting caps, completely concealing their beautiful hair, rustic swains with long flowing locks, young and old, rich and poor, all clad in gala garb and bent on a frolic at the close of the sacred observances. The pardon granted the hour is given over to feasting, dancing and sports of every kind.

The opening tableaux is a copy of Jules Breton's painting of "A Pardon in Brittany" and is a beautiful thing. It is followed by the Breton peasant dance by a score of young men and maidens. The quaint parti-colored costumes of Brittany, the white caps of the ladies over yellow silk coifs, and velvet bodices with bright trimmed skirts, are in charming contrast to the garnet plush suits full of knickerbockers and breeches and velvet hats with rainbow colored ribbons, of the gentlemen. During this beautiful presentation a solo shadow dance from "La Pardon de Ploermel" will be given. This is considered by many to be the most enchanting of all the dances. It is, of course, danced by one young lady. She glides on the stage like a spirit. Her feet fall softly on the white floor of the stage. All around is darkness save a single star of softened light which falls upon her. Within this radiant circle she dances while her shadow falls upon the dead white back grounds. The effect is weirdly beautiful.

The Fete Breton proper is inaugurated with a grand procession in which the dances of all nations participate. The mingling and intermingling of the many colorful costumes as the dancers move to and fro present a picture of kaleidoscopic beauty that is simply dazzling. The effect is greatly brightened by calcium lights.

The Venetian dance follows. To slow and delightful music the pretty gondoliers en masque, steal into view, their oars cleaving the imaginary waters of an apocryphal canal in the most romantic city in Italy. As these Italian maidens appear upon their oars, a beautiful surprise comes in by the gentlemen who approach cautiously from the rear and take away their masks. Then the fair oarswomen dance more captivatingly than ever. The sound of the castanet comes from the gondoliers and the gentlemen carry mandolins. A gondola song is one of the features of this dance.

Then comes the Swedish Dalarna or wedding dance. The gay costumes make a pretty picture as the dancers come down the stage. This dance is taken from the land of Frithiof and the scene of his "Saga." The ladies wear striped aprons and high-pointed velvet caps. The men appear in knickerbockers of old gold with bright-colored waistcoats, full white sleeves and the broad-brim hats of the Swedish yeomanry. The wedding dance is very attractive. The bride and groom come down the stage hand in hand and the wedding party follows.

A clanking of swords announces the Russian military dance. The dancers will nearly all be West Duluthians. The dance is composed of marching, counter-marching and line formations, each figure in the peculiar but graceful style of the country and executed with military precision. The ladies wear dresses of red, blue, black and yellow, with white satin puffs, full white sleeves, high coronets, and caps of black velvet and satin. The gentlemen are radiant in military suits of colored broadcloth embroidered with gold cord. Military caps are suspended gracefully from their shoulders. Swords hang at their sides and fur caps cover their heads. This dance is of the stately order of the minuet, but possesses more life and action as well as gold and glitter.

The German harvest dance comes next and will be given by members of the Duluth Turn Verein. They appear as rollicking German harvesters. The naturalness of this dance is what particularly impresses itself upon the audience. The costumes are very natural and are exactly the same as those seen in the country itself. The full shirt sleeves of the youths and the unique headgear of the girls is especially noticeable.

The Hungarian Gipsy dance is a brilliant and wild one. The "Romany Chis" appear full and gay in bright skirts trimmed with tinsel and striped with ribbons, and wearing short Spanish jackets. Brilliant colored handkerchiefs are about the heads and they jingle their tambourines with animation. The costumes of the gentlemen are short coats of various colors, knickerbockers, bright stockings and gay sashes about the waists. The lights and shadows of this dance are exquisite, representing every mood of a gipsy.

The French court dance is the most stately of all. It is nothing more nor less than the Minuet de la Cour, the grand old dance of ye ancient time when the gay cavaliers and beauteous maidens of la belle France stepped to its measures. The time is slow, the movement dignified and studied. The costumes are very fine.

In the Scotch Highland dance will be seen the bonny lads and lassies of "Auld Scotia" in Stuart, McNaughton and Rob Roy plaids, with the Scotch thistle, all merrily dancing the Highland fling and sailors' hornpipe. Members of Clan Stewart will be the dancers in this.

The other dances, the Neapolitan fisher, Swiss dairy maids, Chinese court and roses and bees dances are all for the people. The Neapolitan fisher dance the young folks draw their nets in such attractive guise as is sure to entangle the eyes and the hearts of the audience. From the time the jolly youngsters skip out on the stage waving their red handkerchiefs the attention of everyone is secured. There is a gem in this dance, a duet by the dairy fisher maidens.

The dance of the Swiss dairy maids is one of the prettiest of the whole fete. A number of young maidens sing the dairy song "At Five O'clock in the Morning" with pretty effect while the dancers listen, seated on their dairy pails.

The Japanese court dance is as quaint as its country and introduces the artistic costumes of the doll kingdom. This dance never fails to capture an audience completely.

The dance of the roses and bees is the last but not by any means the least. A troop of dancers, representing in their dresses red, white, yellow and pink roses come on. They are soon followed by a swarm of bees, heralded by a buzzing sound. Twelve little boys clad in black tights, with yellow sashes, their breasts and shoulders scaled with gold and wearing bright wings, chase after the roses. Several charming tableaux are in this dance, but the one that brings the heartiest encore is where the bold boys bees kiss the lips of the romping roses.

Famous Nancy Hanks.
J. Adam Bede writes to The Herald as follows: "It is perhaps worthy of passing notice that the 6-year-old mare Nancy Hanks which has just surprised the world and gained the title of 'queen of the turf' by trotting a mile in 2:07½ was named in honor of the mother of Abraham Lincoln. The newly crowned queen was foaled on the farm of Hart Boswell at Lexington, Ky., and christened by him Nancy Hanks in memory of one whom Americans may well love and who today is perhaps less known and less revered than the horseflesh which bears her name. All of which only shows that while we as a people may be proud of our horse sense we are lacking somewhat in that more precious treasure, human sentiment. Long live the queen, Vive la republique, and may heaven bless the other Nancy Hanks—the forgotten mother of the beloved and illustrious president."

CHILDREN'S GAMES.

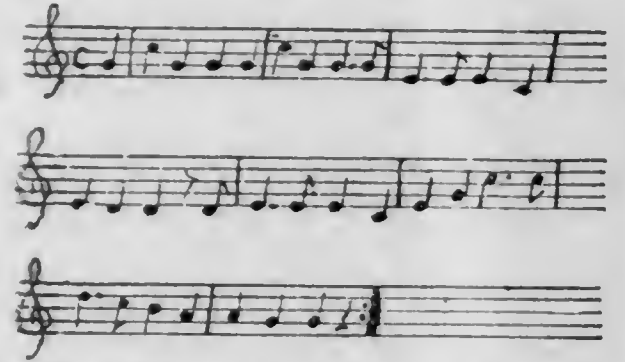

The Pastimes and Songs That Have Long Delighted the Boys and Girls.

Lads and Lassies of Today Enjoy Them as Much as Did Their Ancestors.

Sometimes the Words Are Not Intelligible and the Tune Is Out of Joint.

Our grandmothers played them in short sleeved, short waisted muslin frocks; our mothers played them in ridiculous starched pantsuits, and we played them, those old singing games, in side laced shoes and white stockings. None of us knew where the games originated, or who first sang the songs. They were in the air of childhood, and we simply breathed them in. The end of the century children play them and sing the very doggerels we used to sing, but nobody knows where or when or how they originated.

Sometimes the words are a trifle unintelligible and the tune out of joint, with accidentals thrown in just wherever childish fancy indicates, but in the main they're the old rhymes, the old songs, and if you'd forget your manners and your gown and join hands with the children you'd find them singing "King William" as of old, and this is what they'd sing:

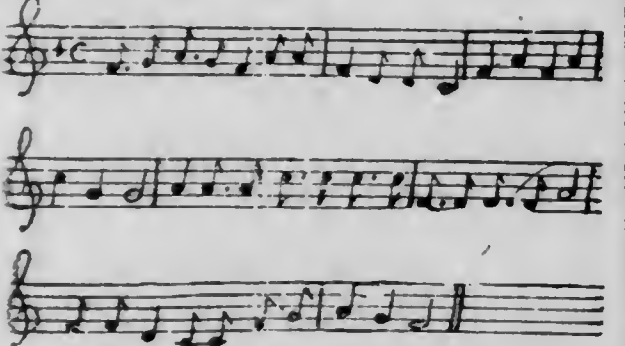

King William was King James' son,
And from a royal race he sprung;
Upon his breast he wore a star,
That points way to the ocean far.
Go choose you East, go choose you West,
Go choose the one that you love best.
If she's not here to take your part,
Choose the next one to your heart.
Down on this carpet you must kneel,
As sure as the grass grows in the field.
Salute your bride and kiss her sweet;
Now you may rise upon your feet.
Da capo, ad libitum. Round and round go the players, marching about King William in the center, who chooses his bride and kisses her soundly and loudly after the fashion of childhood. The object, as in most of the games, is nothing but a kiss, and the kisses are left in the ring to choose the one that she loves best and become a kisser in turn. The game perhaps is a relic of some savage marriage custom. Perhaps it only dates back to William of Orange, who, while he was not King James' son, was the next best thing—his son-in-law.

"King William" is from England, but
"Weevily Wheat" is straight from Scotland and the Jacobites. It is a reel or contradance, and as the players dance they sing to the defiantly stirring old tune, "What'll be king but Charlie," the words:

We'll have none of your weevily wheat,
We'll have none of your barley;
What we want is the best of wheat,
To make a cake for Charlie.

Charlie is a nice young man,
Charlie is a dandy;
Charlie loves to kiss the girls
Whenever they come handy.

One can quite fancy one sees the colors of tartan and bonnet and hears the ringing of the pipes at that.

Here is the story of the "Farmer in the Dell." He is discovered in the ring—not a prize ring or a whisky ring, but a ring
of children who sing:

The farmer in the dell,
The farmer in the dell,
The farmer in the dell,
The farmer in the dell.

The farmer here chooses himself a helpmeet, and the song goes on in the
"same time and tune." The farmer
"takes a wife." The wife then chooses somebody, and the song announces
"the wife takes a child." The child takes a turn at it, and as a third completes the trio the song continues, "The child takes a dog." Then the farmer and his family withdraw and join the ring again. The dog by some unique metamorphosis becomes the farmer in the dell, and the game begins all over again.

So much for the old singing games.
Kindergarten children play musical
games far more elaborately and scientifically, but in school playgrounds from Dan to Beersheba these and innumerable others of like import are the games that delight childish hearts. They are as old as childhood itself, and as ever new and
young as the children who play them.

The little ones have made playthings of
the serious things of life. Some of their games commemorate reigns of kings, battles on which a nation's fate hung
and times that tried men's souls. The children have been faithful historians,
and in their play have made lasting record of what the rest of the world has forgotten.

RUTH KIMBALL.

"Lightning" Queer Pranks.
"Lightning plays some queer pranks," says a traveling correspondent. "I was traveling through Coles county, Ills., some weeks ago, and sought refuge from
a thunderstorm in a farmhouse. The farmer undertook to build a fire in the kitchen stove to dry my damp garments.
He was down on his knees blowing the
coals vigorously, when there was a terrific clap of thunder and a bolt of blue
fire shot out of the stove into his face.
He fell back as limp as a wet newspaper.
The lightning tore all his clothing off,
with the exception of one boot and trousers leg. There was a streak down through his beard, across his breast and

down his leg, as though made by a red hot poker. I supposed he was as dead as a doornail. His wife picked up a large crock of milk that stood on the table and dashed it over him, and in less than three minutes he sat up, surveyed
himself and mournfully remarked,
"Marier, you oughten to treat me that er way afore strangers."

CUSTOM HOUSE ODDITIES.

Be careful of your gun. If you lend it to a friend who goes gunning in Canada it will have to pay duty over again when it is returned.

The government very often has occasion
to seize liquors in bond in states where the liquor traffic is illegal. In Maine, for example, the collector may not sell seized liquors, but he must often hold them as unclaimed merchandise.

A turner brought over a work bench and
claimed that it should be admitted free of
tax as a "tool of trade," but the collector ruled that it was part of the fixtures of the shop and not a tool, and it paid 35 per cent. as "a manufacture of wood."

A duty of 25 per cent. ad valorem was assessed and paid the other day on a package of 500 Canadian postal cards. They had printed matter on the back, came by mail in bulk and were taxed as "foreign printed matter." The Canadian advertiser paid the tax.

No allowance whatever is made for shortage or breakage, and if the importer opens a case of wine in the customhouse before he has removed it he will have to pay the same duty on the empty bottles as upon the full one. Nor if a case is stolen while in warehouse has he any redress. He pays duty just the same.

A penalty of ten dollars for every death of a passenger on board a steamship landing at an American port is exacted. The Labrador, of the Dominion line, touched at Halifax on her way from Liverpool to Boston, and a passenger had died the day before reaching Halifax. The steamship had to pay the fine in Boston all the same.

A silk embroidered banner was sent to the Deutscher Krieger-Verein, of Toledo, a benevolent society incorporated in Ohio to aid and support sick members. The society protested against paying a duty of 60 per cent. on it, but the banner was neither "regalia nor gems," and might have been made in this country. It hangs at the head of the hall now with its 60 per cent.
duty paid.

Such histrionic ability as one sees exhibited in this! The players stand in line and one little girl—or big girl—opposite advances and retreats, singing:

Here comes a knight a-riding,
A-riding, a-riding;
Here comes a knight a-riding
With a saucy, saucy tiddlee-o!

Now the line advances, looking interested, with the query, "Pray, what is your good will, sir?" with the repetitions and refrain as in the first stanza. The knight replies, "My good will is to marry."

Again the line goes at it eagerly,
"Which one of us will you have,
sir?" The knight is scornful now.
"You're all too black and dirty." The slighted ones put on an expression of "You're another," and sing, "We're just as good as you are." This exhibition of "spunk" pleases and mollifies the knight, who sings, "The fairest one that I can see is little Lucy—come to me."

Little Lucy skips over, and then two knights come a-riding, and so the game goes on till everybody is a knight. Of course not to be chosen till the last is a great slight, and many a tearful little maiden "won't play any more" just because she is left till the very last.

Here is the story of the "Farmer in the Dell." He is discovered in the ring—not a prize ring or a whisky ring, but a ring
of children who sing:

The farmer in the dell,
The farmer in the dell,
The farmer in the dell,
The farmer in the dell.

The farmer here chooses himself a helpmeet, and the song goes on in the
"same time and tune." The farmer
"takes a wife." The wife then chooses somebody, and the song announces
"the wife takes a child." The child takes a turn at it, and as a third completes the trio the song continues, "The child takes a dog." Then the farmer
and his family withdraw and join the ring again. The dog by some unique metamorphosis becomes the farmer in
the dell, and the game begins all over again.

So much for the old singing games.
Kindergarten children play musical
games far more elaborately and scientifically, but in school playgrounds from Dan to Beersheba these and innumerable
others of like import are the games that delight childish hearts. They are as old
as childhood itself, and as ever new and
young as the children who play them.

The little ones have made playthings of
the serious things of life. Some of their games commemorate reigns of kings,
battles on which a nation's fate hung
and times that tried men's souls. The
children have been faithful historians,
and in their play have made lasting record of what the rest of the world has
forgotten.

"Lightning" Queer Pranks.
"Lightning plays some queer pranks,"
says a traveling correspondent. "I was
traveling through Coles county, Ills.,
some weeks ago, and sought refuge from
a thunderstorm in a farmhouse. The
farmer undertook to build a fire in the kitchen stove to dry my damp garments.
He was down on his knees blowing the
coals vigorously, when there was a terrific clap of thunder and a bolt of blue
fire shot out of the stove into his face.
He fell back as limp as a wet newspaper.
The lightning tore all his clothing off,
with the exception of one boot and
trousers leg. There was a streak down
through his beard, across his breast and

down his leg, as though made by a red
hot poker. I supposed he was as dead
as a doornail. His wife picked up a large crock of milk that stood on the
table and dashed it over him, and in less than three minutes he sat up, surveyed
himself and mournfully remarked,
"Marier, you oughten to treat me that

The government very often has occasion
to seize liquors in bond in states where the liquor traffic is illegal. In Maine, for ex-

A turner brought over a work bench and
claimed that it should be admitted free of
tax as a "tool of trade," but the collector
ruled that it was part of the fixtures of the shop and not a tool, and it paid 35 per cent. as "a manufacture of wood."

WONDERFUL CITY.

Dr. Heenan, of Minnesota, Now Consul at Odessa, Writes of Asia's Great City.

Interesting Account of His Experience at the Wonderful Old City of Bokhara.

The Doctor Spent Several Days There as the Guest of the Ameer.

Dr. Thomas E. Heenan, of Minnesota, was appointed consul at Odessa, on the Black sea, by President Cleveland, and has been continued in office for his marked ability and success. Last March, by permission of the state department, he started on a long tour through central Asia, and by letter gives an account of his experience at the wonderful old city of Bokhara.

The Russian Transcaspian is now the longest railroad in the world following the backbone of Asia along wild mountains and across deserts where for eighty miles at a stretch there is not a blade of grass or drop of water. All water used by the new villages and the railroad is transported in tank cars. The people of the center highlands are Turkomans, a fine race and courteous to all men except Jews. Of the ancient city Dr. Heenan says:

"Bokhara is situated about ten miles from the railway, and is, in my estimation, the most wonderful of Asiatic cities. I spent some days there as the guest of the ameer and saw everything. The bazaars run for miles in all directions and the streets are covered over with straw matting, through which the sun does not penetrate. The streets are usually crowded with merchants and natives, but not a European is to be seen anywhere. Asses by the hundreds are seen carrying merchandise and human freight; horsemen, camels laden with goods from India, Persia and Afghanistan; dervishes and dancing boys; Hindoos with the circular marks on their foreheads, swell Bokhariots, and of course Jews. The Jews are allowed to ride on asses, but not on horses. They are prohibited from wearing silk robes, of which they are very fond, and must wear a rope girdle. This girdle has a twofold purpose. If it is desired to hang the Jew it is convenient, and, as frequently occurs, he is only to be beaten, then it is equally convenient for the authorities."

Nearly all criminals are killed by throat cutting, as popular sentiment is opposed to long terms of imprisonment. The natural consequence is that all robbers are also murderers, for it is death for them anyhow if caught, and "dead men tell no tales." One of the pests of the country is the famous "reshta," a worm of which the grub may be swallowed in water. It grows and eats straight through the body till the head appears at the surface. It must then be drawn out with extreme care and is often six or seven feet long. Fortunately it is very small and does not often cause death. In conclusion, Dr. Heenan says:

"I have been well received everywhere, both by the Russians and native authorities. I have the unique distinction of being the first American who has visited this country in an official capacity. I have a ride ahead of 2,400 miles in a cart through Siberia, in consequence of cholera having broken out at a place called Kaahka, on the Transcaspian railway."

"QUEEN OF JOURNALISTS."

That is the title bestowed on a Newspaper Woman in Paris.

Mrs. Emily Crawford, long known in Paris as the "Queen of Journalists," is still a beautiful and witty woman and a great attraction in Parisian society. She has a little, in sight of the capital, and an invitation to pass a day there is received as a great honor by any writer. She believes in the old adage that literary people should live near to nature, and has an extremely simple establishment. Mrs. Crawford, the widow of G. M. Crawford, who for thirty-five years was correspondent of the London Daily News at Paris.

During that time his wife collaborated with him, and at his death took his position, which she has held ever since—about eight years. He was the grandson of Henry Crawford, one of the few survivors of the "black hole" of Calcutta, who was associated with Warren Hastings and Clive in their political and military achievements. Mr. Crawford was brought up to the bar, and belonged to Lincoln's Inn and the Inner Temple. He was of the same set as Sir Henry Keating, Sir John Dorney Harding and Lord Aberdare.

She said with her husband and worked by his side during all the terrible days of the siege and commode, and in consequence she is probably better liked by Frenchmen than any other woman of foreign birth. The fact of her being Irish and a natural wit no doubt helps the matter a great deal.

A Plucky Noblewoman.

The coolness of the most delicately reared and reformed women in times of great danger is almost incomprehensible. During the recent troubles in Morocco, while the angry natives were smashing the windows of the English mission and a mob was raging at its doors at Fez, the wife of the minister, Lady Euan Smith, had her camera out and was getting their photographs, though for artistic, not legal purposes. "Allah, burn the devil! What soldiers these English women make!" was the flattering comment made by the war minister of the sultan of Morocco. Miss Kerrison, her guest, at the same time was making out an application for a repeating rifle, by recounting her previous success in breaking glass balls.

How He Did It. "Miss Figg," began the summer young man, "when I first met under the influence of your magic spell—I mean when I first met you and fell under the glamour, for even you in your maiden innocence must be aware of your power, and hitherto though my heart has been unsuspicious, but the light that lies in woman's eyes—especially yours—er—ah!"

The young woman continued to beam on him kindly, but the young man hadn't his notes and his memory had departed, taking his carefully prepared proposal along, and he could only gasp. "Miss Figg, where was I at?"—Indianapolis Journal.

A Little Mixed.

Host—Take a little before you go, Jones! (After helping himself)—Thanks. May I pour you out some? Host—Please—no, too much. I'm no hog. Just about half what you've given yourself.—Puck.

Her Choice Was Made.

In charming indecision she gazed at the two portraits. The uncertainty in her heart clouded her eyes just enough to soften and render more bewitching their splendor.

"Which shall it be?" she murmured. From one to the other of the pictures her glances wandered. Now her countenance would for a moment beam with the joy of a settled choice only to darken again in a moment with perplexity.

"If I could only say which one."

A sigh fluttered within the tender bosom and escaped from the rosy lips. "Will it be dark. I love dark men."

She clasped her hands and rapturously scrutinized the nearest portrait.

"But Henry is so noble and good."

A faint flush crept into her cheek. Her thoughts were with the other picture.

"One of them I must marry."

Rising to her feet she paced the floor nervously. It was a life's happiness that hung trembling in the balance.

"I am sure both of them love me with all their hearts."

Hand was pressed in hand until the blood forced the taper fingers with the frantic pressure.

"Each of them—just stay."

It was a startled look that flashed across her face.

"Yes, yes; it is surely so."

Relief succeeded anxiety and a smile of sweet content flitted about her lips.

"If I marry Will, Henry!"

She leaned forward fondly toward the portraits.

"Will give me a wedding present. If I marry Henry I just know Will would be huffy and never give me a thing."

She pondered a moment in silence.

"Yes," she softly whispered at last, "I shall marry Will."

And the high resolve invested her personality with a new interest.—Detroit Tribune.

A Welcome Visitor.

"Tell your mother that I am going to see her soon," said a lady on Austin avenue to Mrs. Snively's little boy, who was playing in front of the gate.

"I am glad you are coming, and may be glad to see you too."

"How do you know she will be glad to see me?" asked Mrs. Snively.

"Because I heard her say yesterday she would be glad to see somebody who didn't come here to collect a bill. She said nobody ever came to the house except men with bills."—Texas Sittings.

Real Careless.

There is a young fellow in a State street wholesale house who is not particularly strong on spelling. The other day he made out a shipping bill for "fourty" barrels of flour. When his employer called his attention to the peculiar spelling of the word forty he said: "Oh, yes; how very careless of me. I left out the gh!"—Hartford Post.

Very Stupid.

Goslin—In the papah heah is an account of a fellow who killed his wife and committed suicide, doncher know? Sappy—Which did he do fawst, aw? Goslin—The papah doesn't say. Very stupid, Aw'm sure.—Brooklyn Life.

Astronomically True.

She—Do behave! He—Just one little kiss! Your father has gone in.

She (gazing skyward)—Yes, but don't you know that Mars' unusually near—

BOARDS OF ARBITRATION.

The recent extensive strikes among the iron workers at Homestead, Duquesne and Pittsburgh and among the railroad switchmen at Buffalo have caused many people to insist that there should be some legal mode provided for the adjustment by arbitration of these and similar differences between workmen and employers. Within the past ten or twelve years the principle of arbitration as a means of settling labor disputes has made considerable progress. The states of Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Missouri, and Montana, have all established boards of arbitration. The new state of Wyoming has provided in its constitution for the creation of such a board. By the act of Oct. 1, 1888, congress legalized a board of arbitration, to consist of three members, one to be chosen by each side and the third by the other two, with power to adjust differences between interstate railroads and their employees. Under these various boards some good results have been attained, some labor disputes have been settled, and some strikes and lockouts have been prevented.

A writer in the Popular Science Monthly, however, finds a weakness in these boards. He claims that their practical value and utility have been largely impaired by the provision in the law of their organization requiring both employer and employee to agree to submit the matter to the board, and also by the failure of the law to confer any power upon the board to enforce its decision or orders. In other words, under existing laws, these boards have jurisdiction only when both sides are willing, and even after the board has rendered a decision, the unsuccessful party may disobey its orders with impunity, as the board has no power to fine or imprison for disobedience. The result is that the board only acts in the small number of cases in which both sides believe themselves right, and never acts in the more numerous and important cases in which one side is conscious of the injustice of its demands. The board's decision has merely a moral but no legal force.

These statements are no doubt correct and show a very serious weakness in the constitution of boards of arbitration, but it is questionable whether compulsory arbitration would not be a very bad principle to introduce. It must be admitted at the outset that arbitration of any issue would be absurd unless the decision could be made equally binding on all parties interested. Now, how is it possible to attain this result in labor disputes unless the arbitration is provided for by the free act of all concerned? How can the decision be made equally binding? It is of course clear that an employer who has tangible property might be compelled to respond to the decision of even a compulsory arbitration, his property being made security therefor, but where shall we look for the power to enforce acquiescence of the other party? This is a point which the advocates of a compulsory arbitration law would do well to carefully consider. Suppose the employees of a corporation demand an increase of 10 per cent in wages, and compulsory arbitration steps in and after investigation orders an advance of 5 per cent. The corporation may be compelled to give this advance, but how is the law going to compel the employees to accept it? They may consider the decision unsatisfactory and may decline to abide by it and refuse to return to work. By what process can they be compelled to resume work at the advance decided upon by the board of arbitration?

CAUSES OF CONFIDENCE.

Although there have been many reasons why the prices of securities should have declined during the past week, the stock market has exhibited an unusual degree of resisting power. There has been a list of calamities which, in ordinary times, would precipitate a sharp decline in the whole market; while, as a matter of fact, prices have refused to yield to such influences with remarkable stubbornness. Values, it is true, are lower than a few months ago, but the decline has been gradual and, judged by ordinary experience, not at all in proportion to circumstances. The question is often asked, "Why does not the market yield?" An answer is furnished by Henry Clews, the New York banker, in his last weekly financial review.

He claims that the real reason for this resistance to lower prices is based on the confidence of the big holders of stock in the future resources of the country and its railroads. Their holdings have been greatly, and perhaps unwillingly, augmented by European sales during the last six months; still there is every indication that they are determined to hold them for better prices. This being the case it makes no difference at the moment whether speculation is active or dull, whether the public will buy stocks or not. If the large owners of securities are determined to hold for better figures—and their ability to do so is undoubtedly greater than usual—it is evident that no large amounts of stocks will change hands at lower prices. The next question is, "what do they build this confidence upon," when the silver crisis, gold exports, diminishing merchandise exports and increasing imports, strikes, low prices for wheat, cotton and other products, decreasing gross earnings, and other facts are all presented as favoring a drop in stocks? The truth is, that not only have these matters all been in a measure discounted, but they are all temporary in character. Big capitalists see more enduring evidences than these on which to base their plans; and chief of these are the rapid development and widespread prosperity of the whole country.

Here and there are complaints of over-production, excessive competition, low prices, etc.; but beyond that is the steady increase in volume of trade and the encouraging decrease in business failures compared with last year. Clearings are steadily heavier than a year ago. Railroad earnings do not show such heavy gains as in 1891, only because we are comparing with an extraordinary year; and net results, be it remembered, are satisfactory. Another reason for confidence in railroad securities is the gradual tendency to eliminate competition by means of consolidations. This tendency is working out results beneficial to stockholders, not only by greater economies, but by the avoidance of the reckless rate wars of the past decade. Again railroad building has been at a comparative standstill for several years past, some states showing no new mileage whatever of consequence, and others only very moderate extensions. For the last five years the growth of railroads has not been at all in proportion to the growth of population. At some future time we may enter a new era of speculative railroad building; but there are no symptoms of such at present, and this fact alone, that population has about grown up to a point where railroad facilities are not in excess, is another and one of the strongest reasons for confidence in the future of good railroad investments.

RETALIATION IN KIND.

The Canadian government affects to be surprised because President Harrison has issued a proclamation putting in force one portion of the retaliation law against Canada, on account of the discrimination practiced against American vessels in the Welland canal. It is difficult to understand why the Canadian authorities should be surprised at this move. They had timely warning that such action would be assuredly taken if the discriminating tolls were not abolished. They were given ample time in which to consider the matter and reach a decision. They must have known that failure to remove the cause of complaint could have but one result—the action which has now been taken by President Harrison.

The probability is, however, that they imagined they could presume still further upon the good nature of this government and postpone a settlement of the question by the pretext that at this late date in the season it would make little difference to American interests if the existing tolls were abolished, while it would cause a serious disturbance in Canadian business. In President Harrison, however, they have found a man who does not intend to accept empty promises but who demands immediate action. Failing to secure the desired removal of the discrimination, he has given them a mild dose of their own medicine, not exercising the full power delegated to him at the last session of congress but merely levying a toll of 20 cents per ton on all freight passing through the St. Mary's Falls canal in transit to any port of the Dominion of Canada, whether carried in vessels of the United States or of other nations.

This is a discrimination against Canadian ports similar to that which the Welland canal tolls exercise against American ports. It will have a very serious effect upon trade between Ontario and the Canadian Northwest, and Premier Abbott and the members of his cabinet are likely to hear a pretty vigorous howl from the people of Port Arthur and Winnipeg.

The Herald is receiving almost daily quantities of copy for gratuitous advertising for the state fair. A single item received today would occupy space in The Herald worth $35 if charged for at regular rates. Its publication is therefore declined. As long as the state fair management pays the St. Paul papers several thousand dollars yearly for advertising and will expend nothing with other papers in the state, it cannot expect any free advertising from The Herald.

The Northwestern Miller claims that "the prospectus of the Mastodon Milling company" which was recently published in that paper, was not written in its office, as The Herald insinuated, but was received by the Miller in printed form in an envelope postmarked Duluth. The Miller claims that it is no more loyal to the milling interests of Minneapolis than to those of Duluth.

A West Duluth correspondent, in a communication published in this issue, takes exception to certain acts of the council of that village. The Herald knows nothing about the facts in the case, but if they are as represented by its correspondent there would certainly appear to be good cause for complaint on the part of property owners who are paying for improvements.

According to the political astronomers, Grover Cleveland and David B. Hill are still in opposition.

WILL RUN TOMORROW.

Highland Street Car Line Ready For Business.

The Highland avenue electric street railway line is happy in the possession of its big car which was taken up and placed on the rails today. It will be running tomorrow on trial trips only. The Garfield avenue line will be open for traffic about Sept. 1, and the cars on that route will run from Masonic temple switch at Third avenue east, down Superior street to the end of Garfield avenue at six minute intervals. As soon as the Lake avenue line is ready, which Superintendent Wardwell thinks will be some time in October, the cars will make the trip from the canal entry to Superior street, down Superior street to Garfield avenue and down Garfield avenue to the heavy gains at St. Paul, or as far as Gray's mill, at six minute intervals. The new power will be available in a few weeks, when the Fourth street and Superior street lines will run the open trailers as often as occasion demands.

JUMPED THE TRACK.

A Duluth & Winnipeg Train Comes to Grief in the Yards.

The Duluth & Winnipeg passenger train due to arrive in the Union depot at 10:55 o'clock this morning is off the track at the main line switch about 600 feet west of the Union depot coach shed. The accident occurred at the frog. The tender and combination car are off, but the track will probably be cleared in a few hours. Union depot tracks Nos. 2 and 3 are temporarily blocked, but the section crews will have them all right in a few hours. The passengers in the combination car were badly scared, but no one was hurt. A sick lumberman who was coming in in the baggage car, but beyond being frightened, suffered no injury. The wreck attracted a large crowd of spectators.

The Winslow Raised.
The hull of the steamer Winslow was partially raised Saturday evening. The pumps were all at work early in the morning and the boat gradually rose. Five tugs were attached to her and she was drawn into shoal water. She is to be taken still nearer shore and her machinery and everything in her will be taken out. The hull is in good condition.

An Advertising Car.

A special car bearing the name "Success" is now standing in the railroad yards near Fifth avenue west, and there has been considerable inquiry as to what the car is. It is the property of the Helvetia Milk Condensing company, of Highland, Ill., and was formerly the Pioneer Press business car. The company is now using it for advertising purposes and carries eight men. Dr. W. W. Day, formerly of St. Paul, is in charge.

A SPARKLING DISPLAY.

Perhaps, of all other seasons of the year, this is the best for making advantageous purchases of jewelry. There isn't much fluctuation in the value of what a jeweler sells, because jewellers have nothing perishable to dispose of, but there are times when for a variety of reasons, prices fall off a little, and this is more particularly the case when business generally is feeling the effects of oppressively hot weather. You will readily understand, therefore, why just now, we are offering some especially attractive inducements in jewelry.

An Interesting Council Meeting.
To the Editor of The Herald:

Monday night last was held probably one of the most interesting council meetings for the taxpayers of West Duluth. First under the head of communications, a certain contractor made a demand on the village for $8000 as compensation for delay caused by the street railway company during his work on paving a certain street. He must have forgotten that the street railway was ordered by the council, and decided by the street railway company, to be laid on that street before he put in his bid for that contract. He likewise had secured an extension of time on his contract. And it is provided in all contracts between the village and contractors that the village shall not be liable for damages in such cases. At present I don't think the general fund of our village is in condition to donate $8000 in any such manner. But contracts and laws do not seem to make much difference in some cases.

After that a report from the village engineer was read, recommending changes of contract on Fourth avenue west, from Norton avenue to State street, a length of about six blocks, from cedar paving to macadamizing. Now the price the contractor receives for paving on that street is 93 cents per yard, and the engineer stated in his report that he had spoken with the contractor and he was willing to do the macadamizing for the same amount per yard as he was to be paid for cedar paving. The contractor in question was present and stated that he ought to have $1 per yard, but if the gentlemen of the council said 93 cents per yard, he would take it, which was the price paid for cedar paving. Then a motion for the change was made for macadamizing instead of cedar paving at 93 cents per yard and duly carried. The paving on this work reaches something like 15,000 square yards and makes a difference of about $1000, from 93 cents to $1 per yard. It seems, after counting this over, that we considered too much to throw over the shoulder, so the contractor rose and told the council that he did not think he would accept the 93 cents per yard, but wanted $1 per yard or else pave the street according to his contract. Then the motion was reconsidered and the price fixed at $1. But the fact that it was taking $1000 out of property holders along the street was forgotten. I also suppose that the council forgot that about a month ago they let Grand avenue east to the same contractor for 75 cents per yard to be macadamized, while the rock has to be hauled from three-quarters to one and a half miles, but are willing to pay $1 per yard for the same kind of work, where the rock is mostly on the ground.

After these things had all passed smoothly, there came final estimates on streets. The first one, a contract for about $23,000, on which was due about $10,000, and which had been reported by the street committee favorably, was not allowed. The second one, which was a contract for about $40,000, and with more than $20,000 due, but with no committee report, was allowed in full and ordered paid, and that in spite of a protest from two of the aldermen present. I would like to know what there is a street committee appointed for, if it is not its duty to investigate these matters and report before the final estimates are paid. And further what was the reason that the estimate on which there was no report was allowed, and the one reported on as bad? Now, if I am not mistaken, the members of the council have taken their oaths to act just and right between man and man, and also between the village and taxpayers at large that are interested in their acts to use or show discrimination toward anyone but give every man and corporation the rights to which they are entitled and no more.

What has become of our Fourth ward aldermen? They don't show up lately in the council meetings, while they were so interested in the earlier part of the season in the license question. Perhaps they think that our village affairs hinge altogether upon a religious question. Yours truly, K. O. BALSTAD.

Dry Goods Will be Cheap.

Mr. Pantan of the firm of Pantan & Watson, says that merchandise will be cut to pieces during the autumn and fall trade. The firm have been trying to cancel some of their orders, but as yet have been unable to accomplish much in that way. The delay in completing their new store will be expensive for them but will prove a big thing for the residents at the head of the lakes. They are even now beginning to store goods at Culver Bros' dock, but Mr. Pantan says that it is only temporary, for he will bring all the goods into their present store even if customers have to walk on them. We predict a lively time of it in the dry goods business this fall. They think everything will be in readiness for their holiday trade. If not they will run temporary stores outside in order to accommodate the enormous increase of their business.

John Bunyan.

What can a man do in life to keep his memory green for a hundred years or so? No question is so hard to answer as this, and the history of most famous men and women contradicts the answer a philosopher would be likely to give. Two hundred and four years ago there died in England a man whose parentage was obscure, education almost nothing, and whose life had been almost always under the clouds of poverty and persecution. Yet this man, imprisoned for his religion, in that confinement produced a book which is still a model of pure and clear English, and still published by thousands and read by millions. That book was "Pilgrim's Progress," of which Mauley wrote that after it had been for a generation a treasure in the cottage, the philosophers and wits discovered that it was a classic. Pilgrims now-a-days, however, do not have such a weary progress as Bunyan's hero. Though they travel from one side of the continent to the other, their pilgrimage is made delightfully easy by the Pullman sleeper, the dining car and the reclining chair car, all of which comforts are found on "The Burlington Route," the chief line to Chicago, Peoria, St. Louis, and all principal cities. AN INVALID ARMY.

A Physician Discusses the Lasting Effects of Sunstroke and Heat Exposure.

How the Nerve Centers Are Affected by Any Great Upset Caused by Heat.

Victims Suffer Partial or Complete Transformation of Mental or Physical Condition.

Something not generally thought of as we read the long lists of prostrations by the heat in summer is the fact that nearly all of those who recover from the immediate effects of a sunstroke will join the army of patients who frequent the hospitals, dispensaries and physicians' offices, suffering from chronic and incurable troubles, whose cause may be traced to an attack of this kind. These troubles are not confined within a narrow limit of disease, but are widely distributed and various, and the reason is not hard to explain.

All of the vital functions—digestion, respiration, the beating of the heart, etc.—receive their impulse to activity and have their source of control in certain nervous centers situated in the brain, spinal cord and in what are known as ganglia or bundles of nervous substance in the region of the stomach, heart, lungs and elsewhere.

Among these centers is the great heat regulating center, located in the upper part of the spinal cord, where fibers cross from all parts of the brain. It is the business of this center to keep the temperature of the body at about 98½ degs. during the entire year, winter and summer alike.

Now, consider that the proper working of all the other nerve centers in the body depends largely on the right amount of heat being distributed to them through the blood, and we can see how any great upset in this heat regulating nerve center or any breakdown in its mechanism will cause disturbances in almost any or perhaps in a great many of the other centers of nerve influence. This is what is meant by a sunstroke being a disturbance of the "central" nervous system.

STRUCKEN DOWN.
[Sketches from life in New York.]

The center which controls the heart's action and that regulating the flow of blood in the smaller vessels at a distance from the heart are the ones most likely to suffer the long lasting effects of trouble of this kind.

Besides these disturbances of nerve centers are changes in the tissues, especially in the walls of those exceedingly delicate blood vessels, hundreds of thousands of which ramify in a fine meshwork in the substance of and around the brain. This accounts for the most common form of lasting trouble from sunstroke, headache, attacks of which come on during almost every heated term. These headaches sometimes last for weeks, the patient grows dull and stupid, the mental faculties are blunted, the memory impaired. Sometimes there is a constant desire to sleep, and the patient becomes morose and fretful. At other times, later on, there is great muscular weakness with the decline in mental powers; the legs tremble in walking, and there may be paralysis of the bladder, attacks of dizziness, ringing in the ears, double vision or blindness and difficulty in speech.

It would almost take a book even to mention the long list of ailments traceable to the overeffects of heat as their first cause. Our asylums could tell their story and point to cases of insanity of every degree resulting from sunstroke. Many an unfortunate epileptic, too, looks back upon being overcome by the heat as the cause of his present malady. In this disease the seat of the derangement is in the same region as the location of the great heat regulating center, and the connection is therefore easily seen.

A sunstroke will sometimes cause a complete alteration in the disposition of an individual, transforming a sweet and gentle Ophelia into a shrewish Kate, or a kind and loving husband into an irritable and unbearable crank. Cases of this kind get very little sympathy, but such a disposition is as much a subject for medical treatment as is a disordered digestion.

Time and space forbid speaking of paralysis of various degrees, chronic sleeplessness, liability to bowel troubles in summer, chronic dyspepsia and derangement of the liver, and the many other ills that follow exposure to excessive heat.

It only remains to draw the usual lesson and give the warning which to the wise man is sufficient. Lookout for Old Sol in the summer time.

WILLING TO ACCOMMODATE.

But Not Until All the Rules of the Office Had Been Complied With.

The sole clerk in that real estate office in an obscure corner of St. Paul street had apparently very little to do yesterday afternoon. The broker was away and not likely to return that evening; so he lighted his cigarette, brought out a copy of The News and sprawling back on a chair in a comfortable fashion, with his heels on the mantelpiece, he proceeded to absorb himself in the reading.

Presently a nervous looking stranger entered in a hurried manner. Leaning over the begrimed counter he inquired: "Is General Bulhampton about?"

"General Bulhampton?" responded the clerk, without glancing up to see who asked the question.

"Yes," said the stranger.

"General H. L. Bulhampton?" asked the representative.

"Yes, yes!"

"The boss of this office?"

"Yes, yes, yes!"

"You seem a trifle impatient," said the clerk, turning over to another page.

"None of your comments," replied the stranger tartly, with a shade of annoyance deepening on his countenance, "but answer my question. Is General Bulhampton in?"

"General H. L. Bulhampton?"

"See here, you blanked idiot—what do you mean by such conduct?"

"Rule of the office to be exact and explicit, you know."

"Well, I don't care a rap what your rules are. I want to know if General Bulhampton is in."

"The boss of this?"

"If you repeat that again," shouted the now thoroughly enraged stranger, "I'll fracture you in 68,000 pieces and distribute the fragments to the winds."

"Is that so?" and here the clerk carefully folded his paper and removed his feet from the mantelpiece. "Let's see: 'Rule number one—Exactness and explicitness. Rule number two—Be ever obliging to patrons.' Maybe you would like to try."

The stranger jumped up and howled.

"Come from behind that counter, you incarnation of stupidity," he shouted, "till I make you look like a defeated silver bill."

"Suppose I have to accommodate you," mused the clerk thoughtfully, "in consideration of rule number two."

He climbed over the counter.

In less time than it takes to tell it the fun began.

It wasn't that quiet kind of fun either that conduces to the repose of the soul. Even the furniture seemed to take a hand, and flew about in a whirlwind to take refuge in the corner.

Pretty soon things quieted down slightly, and then it was found that the clerk sat astride the prostrate form of the stranger, toying with muscular and machinelike regularity with his physiognomy.

"Got enough?" inquired the clerk.

"Yes," replied the stranger feebly. "I think I have."

"Perfectly sure?" with a show of anxiousness.

"Perfectly."

The clerk arose, passed around the counter and resumed his former position and paper.

"Say," said the stranger meekly as he climbed painfully to his feet and felt of himself to ascertain what was missing, "will you kindly answer one question for me—Is General Bulhampton in?"

"General Bulhampton?"

"Yes."

"General H. L. Bulhampton?"

"Yes."

"The boss of this office?"

"Yes."

"No, he's out. Anything else I can do for you?"

"No."

"Well, good day. Hospital is just around the corner."

"Thanks. Good day."—Baltimore News.

Strong Witnesses.
Among the thousands of testimonials of cures by Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, is that of Nathan Allison, a well-known citizen of Glen Rock, Pa., who for years had shortness of breath, sleeplessness, pain in left side, shoulders, smothering spells, etc.; one bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and one box of Nerve and Liver Pills cured him. Peter Jaquet, Salem, N. J., is another witness, who for twenty years suffered with heart disease, was pronounced incurable by physicians, death stared him in the face, could not lie down for fear of smothering to death. Immediately after using the new cure he felt better and could lie down and sleep all night, and is now a well man. The new cure is sold, also free book, by all druggists.

Found After Many Years.

A Well Known Duluth Citizen Finds the Object of His Search.

Mr. John A. Olson, 1004 Garfield avenue, Duluth, says: "For a number of years I have been troubled with a complication of difficulties which is not easy for me to describe. I would have severe pains in my stomach, side and back, could not rest at night and would get up in the morning feeling worn out and unfit for the duties of the day. My appetite was poor and what I did eat seemed to make me feel worse. I lost in flesh and became weak, nervous and despondent."

"The doctors failed to give me any relief and patent medicines done me no good. After reading the statements of some persons who had been treated by Dr. Speer & Co., I called at their office in the New York block, West Superior. They located my trouble and described my feelings better than I could do it myself. I commenced their treatment and in less than three weeks my disagreeable symptoms have left me. The pains are gone, I eat and sleep well, am gaining in flesh and strength. The nervous and despondent feelings have disappeared and I feel like a new man in every respect. I feel very grateful for the benefit I have received and can not too highly recommend Dr. Speer & Co. for what they have done for me."

WIRE ROPE FOR ELEVATORS,

A HIGH OLD TIME.

An English Traveler Tells Americans
How an East Indian Prince Treated Him.

The Maharajah Took a Liking to Him
And They Had a Royal Fortnight.

The Whole Kingdom and All Its Belongings Were Placed at His Disposal.

"I have been thinking of travelers to see wonders and their general habit not to let said wonders lose any picturesqueness in the telling. When it is added that Mr. Montague Fordham, the English gentleman who recently reached San Francisco from Asia, is a perfectly splendid character, there need be no wonder that he charmed the journalists. Among others he tells of a semi-official visit of a fortnight to the maharajah of Charkhari.

"After a long journey I arrived at the end of a little branch railroad line into Charkhari late in the evening. I was accompanied by my native body servant,

who spoke a kind of English and acted as my interpreter with the natives. I myself can't speak a word of Hindoostani and only just learned to sing
'Kutch Perawan' before leaving the country. I found a fine carriage and pair awaiting me at the station. The driver was a gorgeous vision in green and gold turban and cloak. The footmen were equally imposing, and bowed me into the carriage in such a manner as made me ponder over my theories as a writer and lecturer on social reform in England. I commenced to understand why kings won't agree with the arguments of reformers."

The guest house of forty rooms, with a retinue of servants, was placed at his disposal, and the next day an embassy arrived with presents, including a few platters of gold coins. He was about to take in the pile when his servant hurriedly announced that it was etiquette to merely touch them gently and decline with thanks. Hereafter, however, some minor presents which it was etiquette to keep. The maharajah took a liking to him at first sight, and they had a royal fortnight together, of which he says:

"He spends much money in fine horses, and driving is his fad. He can handle a six-in-hand and four-in-hand coach as well as any man, and I had plenty of opportunity to enjoy his clever driving during the merry fortnight I spent there.
As a consequence of his passion for horses and driving, he maintains most beautiful, first class, granite metalled, graded roads all over his kingdom.
"I was royally treated all around, and the whole kingdom and its belongings were placed at my disposal. The king asked me to examine the state and report upon it to him as an impartial critic. Next day I offered to examine his girls' school, of which he is very proud. In answer to his query I named 12 o'clock as a suitable hour for inspection. Accordingly at that hour I was solemnly driven to the school house.
It was a very pretty sight. Three hundred little, gasping, black eyed, brown skinned girls sat watching my every movement.
"I got good shooting—deer of all kinds and the great Indian neilgow. The shooting is peculiar. We used a trained bull. Whenever we got sight of a herd of deer on the plains the bull was put in front. He sidled toward the unsuspectious deer while I walked behind him and shot over his back. The native shikharree was of course beside me and gave words of command to the bull." Charkhari is what is called a "protected state"—that is, the maharajah rules his 250,000 subjects as an independent prince, but the British protect him against all enemies and in turn keep a "resident" at his court to guide him in the way he should go, according to British interests.

A SIASCONSET FISH STORY.

An Old Whaler's Delightful Way of Entertaining Summer Visitors.

A number of ancient fishermen were telling stories of their early days in the quaint little village of Siasconset. There were a number of summer visitors in the room, and they seemed to enjoy the yarns which were being spun immen-sely. Finally an old, dried up man with a purple wen on his neck and a handful of white chin whiskers said:

"Talk about the whaling days in Siasconset; why, I can remember when the whales were so thick around here that it was a common thing for them to crawl upon the shore like turtles to sun themselves."

"How long ago was that?" asked an anxious bystander.

"About forty years ago," replied the old man, "and in those days the whales had oil in them, too, that was worth talking about. I have seen them tap a whale, and by the time the oil was out of him there didn't seem to be skin enough left to cover a baseball. But now they are kinder nonexplosive."

"What do you mean by nonexplosive?" asked a bystander as he handed the hoary grandpa of Siasconset a flask with which to warm himself up a bit.
"I mean," replied the Siasconseter as he handed the flask back with a smile,
"that the whales used to be so full of oil that if you put a wick in one of them and lit it it would burn for almost six months."

The crowd became very attentive as the old man continued:

"We used to burn chunks of whale in the stove, and it made 't' finest fire you ever saw. We had the whale, or part of one, hanging up like a sheep in the back yard, and whenever we wanted to start a fire we would just step out with a hatchet and chop a chunk or two that would fit the stove."

"Have another drink?" interrupted the man with the flask.

"Don't mind if I do," replied the ancient Siasconseter.

Here he took a good pull, and handing the flask back continued in a sad, reflective tone:

"I once knew an old whaler who has been dead a great many years. His end was very sad."

"How did he die?" asked a bystander.

"Killed by a whale," said the grandpa of Siasconset.

"Out on the water of course," suggested the stranger.

"No; out in the back yard."

"Hit him with his tail?"

"No," replied the Siasconseter.

"You see, the old man hauled off at the whale with his hatchet."

"And the whale bit him in half before he could strike?"

"Not much; the whale was dead."

"Then how could he have killed you ancient friend?"

"This way," said the old man deliberately; "he dropped a spark by accident out of his pipe and it fell upon the whale. The whale exploded like a kerosene oil lamp and scattered my friend from Siasconset to Tuckahoe."

"As it was night the ocean was lighted up for miles, and over at Martha's Vineyard they thought Nantucket was having its first volcano. I tell you the whales in the old days were."

Here the old Siasconseter looked around to find that all his hearers had slipped softly away, the summer visitors in all probability overcome by his graceful, easy going style of dealing with the truth, and his compatriots sick to the core with envy.—Detroit Free Press.
